Lancaster Farming

Vol. - 47 No. - 39 | www.lancasterfarming.com | Five Sections | Saturday, July 27, 2002 | $36.00 Per Year | $1.00 Per Copy

This Week In The Mid-Atlantic Area . . .

Delaware State Fair has experienced a lot of growth, and much has been made of the thrilling "livestock extravaganza" Tuesday evening at the fair. Kyle Ebert, far left, wins grand champion market steer. With him are Hally Jarrell, Delaware Farm Bureau Queen, center, and Chris Mullinix, El Dorado, Kan., judge. See story page A26.

Cecil County Fair Queen Katee Callahan, 17, daughter of Daniel and Julia Callahan, Perryville, joins Scott Rowe, Cecil County ag and natural resources educator, at the annual Ag Showcase Day during the Cecil County Fair. For more about Ag Showcase, see page A28. Included this issue is Cecil County Fair coverage. Photo by Andy Andrews, editor

During the unveiling of a special program to benefit Pennsylvania produce growers and the elderly population, Highland Ridge Farm welcomed customers and dignitaries. See story page B2.

Eastern Region Frozen Eggs
ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Mostly prices were unchanged on whites, unchanged to slightly higher on yolks when compared to last week's trading. Trade sentiment improved and was usually steady. Demand was only fair, although movement was fairly good due in part to previous commitments. Supplies were sufficient on most items. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending July 13, 2002 were 14% more than the previous week and 1% higher than a year ago.

New York Broilers/Fryers

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity on ready-to-cook whole broiler/fryers was light and generally unaggressive as dealers kept inventories in close balance with immediate needs. Offerings of all sizes were available and competitively priced in some instances to stimulate additional interest. Movement through retail and distributive channels was slow. The market tone was barely steady to weak.

Virginia Broilers And Fryers

Harrisonburg, Va.
Report Supplied By USDA

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was moderate and clearing the market at a reasonable rate. Demand was moderate with buyer interest and trading. Live supplies was moderate for the market being reported with an estimated slaughter of 1,362,000 compared to 1,329,000 last Tuesday. Weights were desirable. Processing schedules were moderate. Supply of bone-in breast was heavy while demand was moderate for the market being reported. Actual slaughter for the week of 7/15-7/20 was 6,530,851 head with an average weight of 4.88.

Negotiated F.O.B. dock prices, 2 pounds and heavier ice-packed broilers and fryers, trucklot sales of US Grade A or equivalent were steady at .50-.60 per pound; less than trucklot sales .49-.67 per pound.

Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
July 24, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity remained light to fair at best during midweek trading as dealers cautiously assessed market developments. Offerings of boneless-skinless breasts were in very good balance. However, bone-in breasts remained sufficient with buyers very selective and resisting product offered at premium price levels. Dark meat cuts were fully adequate. Tenderloins and wings were increasingly available. Movement through retail and distributive channels was sluggish. Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
July 24, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Grain and soybean bids higher after falling off Tuesday. Wheat steady to 3 cents higher, with Minneapolis 8 ½ cents higher. Corn 7 to 9 cents higher. Sorghum 11 to 14 cents higher. Soybeans 6 to 9 cents lower.

Mixed feelings over crop conditions and harvest yields brought support to the table. Wheat and corn bids regained Tuesday's losses, with Soybeans only regaining about half. Scattered showers and cooler temps over the past few days have been nice, but not enough to reverse the damage. Scattered showers remain in the forecast the next couple of days, but warmer temperatures expected back by the end of the week.

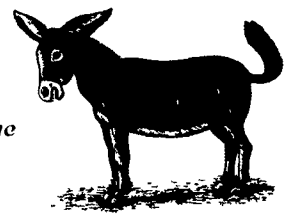
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JULY 29–AUGUST 4, 2002

MOON ON EQUATOR, JULY 29

WHILE THE SUN SHINES

Once symbolic of a good harvest, "making hay" has many superstitions associated with it Wish on a wagonload of hay for luck, but if the hay is baled, you'll have to wait until the bales are opened for the wish to come true Avoid approaching a wagonload of hay from the rear, for it would bring misfortune to watch the hay disappear from your sight or see it turn off onto a side road To fail to make a wish on hay also brings bad luck, so have your wishes handy if you are in the country side Some say to count to 13 before making the wish, then avoid seeing the same wagonload again or the wish will be broken



It is time to stack your hay and corn when the old donkey blows his horn (brays).

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Forked lightning at night, the next day clear and bright.

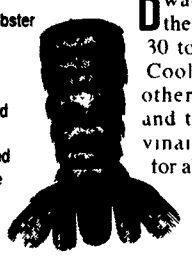
TIP OF THE WEEK

Some hay fever sufferers gain relief by chewing honeycomb.

LOBSTER SALAD

- 1 cup wild rice
- 4 cups water
- 8 ounces cooked fresh lobster meat
- 2 cooked portobello mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 Vidalia onion, chopped
- 1 tomato, chopped
- 1 red bell pepper, chopped
- vinaigrette of your choice



Bring the rice and water to a boil, then simmer for 30 to 45 minutes Cool, then add other ingredients and toss with the vinaigrette. Chill for about an hour

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

OPINION

What's Really Going On

Paul Slayton
Executive Director
Pennsylvania Beef Council

After reading the Opinion column in last week's Lancaster Farming, I would like to take this opportunity to share some factual information about what's really going on in the cattle industry leadership organizations.

To begin to understand today's beef checkoff program, it's important to first explain the relationships between the Cattlemen's Beef Board (CBB), the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA), State Beef Councils (SBC), and State Cattlemen's Associations.

The CBB collects and administers beef checkoff funds, in cooperation with every SBC. The $1 checkoff per head is shared — 50 cents goes to the state of origin and 50 cents is remitted to the national CBB. The Pennsylvania Beef Council, a qualified SBC, is made up of 21 members representing the various sectors of the industry — dairy, beef and veal producers, auction markets, and packers.

Various trade organizations in Pennsylvania nominate members to the board, who are ultimately elected by current producer members. The CBB is made up of 110 cattle producers, men and women, who represent every region in the country. Those producers are nominated by state organizations and then selected by the U.S. secretary of agriculture. Two Pennsylvania seats on this board are available for appointment.

The Federal Act and Order places restrictions on checkoff funds, while the USDA provides oversight. As mandated by the Federal Act and Order, producer dollars only can be invested in beef promotion, education, research, and export development. Producer dollars cannot be used in the litigation process to defend the checkoff program. Litigation expenses to protect the checkoff are channeled from the budget of the U.S. Department of Justice, since one of the defendants in the pending case is the USDA. Interveners such as the Nebraska Cattlemen's Association also are financially supporting the checkoff case with membership dues.

Yes, the beef checkoff program has been very popular by a majority of producers for nearly 14 years. While the referendum was supported by 79 percent of cattlemen in 1988, surveys continue to indicate that support is repeatedly in the 65-70 percent range. Beef, dairy, and veal producers, small and large, have continued to feel that this is the best self-help program available to them. It has provided them with their own research departments, a channel to promote their product, and a way to reach consumers with the beef nutrition message through education and marketing.

Recent research conducted by Dr. Jeff Ward, Florida State University, indicated that for every $1 invested in these programs, producers have seen a $5.67 return on investment. At last week's NCBA Conference, producers learned that since its inception in 1988, the checkoff program has contributed $6.46 billion of income to producers, nationally.

The NCBA acts as a contractor of checkoff dollars for the CBB and provides some of the programs to promote, educate, research, and to develop export markets for the industry. In response to the questions about $27 million being devoted to promotion, and $5.8 million to consumer information, it's important to remember that producers, representing the checkoff and also cattlemen's membership dues, together rank programs by priority. Those rankings will ultimately lead to a program dollar amount for the fiscal year.

Industry leadership, two or more times a year, travel to meeting destinations such as Reno, Nev., on competitively priced airline tickets to meet in motels that offer competitively priced rooms. Often, producers do not leave the motel — a packed meeting schedule requires their attendance to listen to program results, allocate producer dollar expenditures, and strategize about future industry direction.

If a checkoff paying producer thinks that his or her dollars are not going for a worthwhile cause, or are not accountable, he or she should just ask to see the numbers. Those reports are available from the CBB, NCBA, and the Pennsylvania Beef Council anytime.

It's easy to forget that these programs are being implemented by producers for producers. With the majority of program dollars focused on consumers, producers sometimes don't see how the dollars are invested unless they ask. Those of us at the Beef Council enjoy telling producers how we are promoting their product and, we hope, making a difference.

One of the more pointed comments made by last week's editorial was criticism of checkoff program administrative costs of $2.25 million. The Federal Act and Order specifically states that the CBB must hold administrative costs to less than five percent of the revenue collected. Currently, administrative costs are 4.41 percent. How many other businesses today can say their cost of program administration is less than five percent overhead?

On the membership side of the equation, dues income goes towards lobbying efforts and public relations endeavors. Without this legislative/policy front, our industry would be without support or voice to cope with issues such as the Mad Cow Disease, Foot and Mouth Disease, animal rights groups, endangered species acts, death taxes, property right issues, government drought relief, country of origin labeling, captive supply, etc. Membership funds have decreased over the last few years to the point where this policy representation is in dire jeopardy. If the beef industry loses this critical support arm of the NCBA or state organizations, there will be no one to battle our adversaries.

Yes, I do concur with the Lancaster Farming editor. Producers everywhere need to be involved in their industries by becoming a member, if not a director, of trade organizations. The industry needs you, and it's truly the best way to find out what's really going on.

If Lancaster Farming readers have additional questions about the beef checkoff and the state and national programs it funds, I encourage them to call the Beef Council office at (717) 939-7000.

To Scout Vegetable Crops For White Flies

Dr. Tim Elkner, Lancaster County horticulture agent, reports whiteflies have begun to appear on vegetable crops in the area.

Normally, these pests appear a little later in the growing season. Growers need to carefully monitor their crops for damaging populations of this pest. Tomatoes most commonly suffer from damaging populations of whiteflies but other susceptible crops include pepper, eggplant, cucurbits, and brassicas (broccoli, cauliflower, etc.). Damage is both direct from feeding as well as indirect from the honeydew these insects secrete after feeding.

Several materials are available to control this pest on vegetable crops. However, not all materials are labeled for all crops — be sure to check the label before applying to any crop!

There are two important points to remember. First, control improves with higher volumes of water used per acre. Second, be sure to rotate materials used to prevent the buildup of resistant populations of whiteflies in your fields. Provado, Actara, and Assail are all chemically similar materials and should be alternated with Thiodan, Capture, or Danitol as labeled for your vegetable crop. In addition, Provado, Actara, and Assail should only be used one time if you had previously used Admire or Platinum on your crop at planting.

To Maintain Biosecurity On Poultry Farms

Dr. Gregory Martin, capitol region poultry agent, reports no new cases of avian influenza (A.I.) have been discovered in Virginia in the last two weeks. The bad news is that there has been a lull in number of new cases of low-path A.I. in Virginia in the past month or so, only to have it resurface again. Because of this, the USDA in Virginia is maintaining their staffing of observers in the area for the time being to maintain observation within the area to see if the disease pops up again.

Because of the efforts of the diagnostic labs at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Penn State University, and the New Bolton Center-University of Pennsylvania, along with the poultry industry in the commonwealth, we have been fortunate this year in limiting the number and severity of A.I. outbreaks in the commonwealth. At this time no new outbreaks of A.I. have been found in Pennsylvania for several months.

Those who work within the industry need to keep up the good work in maintaining good biosecurity wherever we work. These efforts are inexpensive insurance that goes a long way to protect the industry as a whole.

Martin suggests biosecurity involves both physical and chemical barriers to block disease from taking hold within a flock. Physical barriers on site include the use of hair coverings, boots and coveralls for all who enter while locking poultry housing and creating other obstacles to prevent unauthorized entry onto a farm. Chemical barriers include clearing, washing, and then sanitizing all washable surfaces, using baits and sprays to control flies and to prevent other vermin from entering the poultry house.

Dip pans that are well maintained can also contribute to the control of cross-contamination between houses because several trips could be made between houses in a single day. An attempt (especially from servicemen/visitors to the farm) should be made to visit the youngest to oldest birds on the farm. Keep your farm picked up and clean, because any pile or refuse can be a harbor for mice and other disease-carrying vermin. This would include spilled feed surrounding feed tanks that would draw flies as well as mice.

General security is part and parcel to a sound biosecurity program. Limit all vehicular traffic to the poultry houses as much as possible. Cable and chain gates a safe distance from the houses help in this effort. Have a brightly painted mailbox with a visitor's log available near this entry gate to track traffic on the farm. Keep your houses locked (if possible) to keep unapproved visitors to a minimum in your absence, or at least try to plan so visitors will be on site when you are. This mailbox is a good collector for feed tags and other delivery slips from your vendors.

For more information, see the checklist Core Fundamentals for Poultry Biosecurity available from Dr. Gregory Martin at the Lancaster Extension Office, (717) 394-6851, or on the web at http://www.personal.psu.edu/gpm10/Biosecurityfun402.pdf.

Quote Of The Week:

"The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly."

— Theodore Roosevelt

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DO YOU KNOW THIS SONG?

Background Scripture:
Psalms 67; 96.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 97:6-12.

Psalms 67 and 96 were written for worship on two different occasions. Psalm 67 was sung to celebrate the harvest at the close of the agricultural year, the Feast of the Tabernacles. Psalm 96, on the other hand, was part of the procession at the celebration of enthronement, the climax of the New Year Festival. Both are full of gladness, praise, thanksgiving, and exultation.

One of them, Psalm 67, looks back to an old song, Aaron's benediction in the time of Moses: "The Lord bless you and keep you; The Lord make his face to shine upon you, and be gracious to you; The Lord lift up his countenance upon you, and give you peace" (Numbers 6:24-26). But both psalms look ahead to a new theme in the hymns of Israel. "O sing to the Lord a new song; sing to the Lord, all the earth" (Ps. 96:1).

Scholars believe that these two hymns were written by different psalmists. Yet there is a common perspective to this "new song," a day when, not only Israel, but all people throughout the earth will acknowledge God as Creator and King of the universe. "... that thy way may be known upon the earth, thy saving power among all nations. Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee" (67:2-4) and "Declare his glory among the nations, his marvelous works among all the peoples" (96:3).

Not Only Israel

The "new song" is that of universality. God is to be recognized and acknowledged Lord, not only of Israel, but of all nations and all peoples. Other people in other lands may not know the Israelite historical experience, but the psalmist believes the all people everywhere can recognize the Lord as him who rules the people with equity and guides the nations upon the earth.

Even if they do not know him in the same way the Hebrews know him, all peoples can experience his glory and declare "his marvelous works among all the people" (96:3).

Actually, this wasn't an entirely new concept. When Abraham was 96 years old, God came to him and said: "... behold my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be the father of many nations ... And I will make you exceeding fruitful and I will make nations of you, and kings shall come out of you" (Genesis 17:3,4,6). Yet, throughout much of its history, Israel tended to think of The Lord as exclusively the God of Israel.

So, at the very beginning there was an intimation of universality. But it was a theme that more or less was forgotten and had to be revived from time to time.

When we begin to feel that God belongs to us, that he is our God, we tend to forget that he is the God of the whole universe and, as Creator, he creates all people everywhere. As Christians we do pretty much the same thing. We think of the Lord as the Christian god, perhaps the Protestant or Catholic god, or even the Presbyterian or Methodist god. (I use lower case "g" here, rather than capital "G," because any god so limited is not really God.)

The New Song

If we travel among Christian congregations around the world, we will find that that which we have in common is not history or culture, but the Christ who unites us to the one God. And, when we encounter people of other faiths — Buddhist, Hindu, Moslem — the one thing we have in common is that one God who creates all people and, recognized or not, rules the universe with his power and purpose. That give us a basis upon which we could all unite in a joyous act of praise.

No, I do not think that is about to happen today or in the near future. Today, we think of the various religions as competitors at best, or enemies at worst. But I join with the psalmists in believing that God has fashioned this universe for universal redemption and I look for that day when it will be fulfilled.

The world does not now know that song or has forgotten it. But you know it, don't you? So let us "Sing to the Lord ... and declare his glory among the nations."

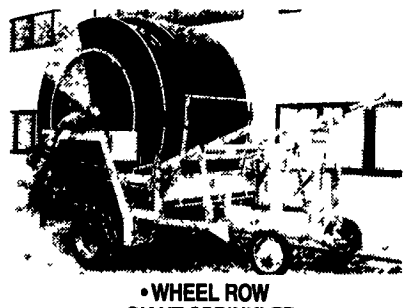
"TICO/FERBO HOSE REELS"

Now, a new generation of automatic hard hose reels that feature variable travel speed selection with automatic constant compensation to provide uniform irrigation over entire length of pass, and operate at low input pressure to easily, efficiently, economically irrigate or spread liquid manure.

TICO, a leader in irrigation systems for over 30 years, also offers these other types:



• WHEEL ROW
• GIANT SPRINKLER
• HAND MOVE • TRICKLE
• LIQUID MANURE AND WASTE WATER DISPOSAL

Also virtually all makes of couplers, fittings and gaskets, plus pumps, pipe, diesel, gas, and electric motors.

We Water the Earth When Mother Nature Needs a Helping Hand

Need Irrigation or Waste Water Disposal?
CHOOSE AMERICA'S PREMIER TRAVELER FROM TICO/FERBO

• 52 Different Models
• 5 Drive Systems • 15 Hose Lengths

From 30-630 gallons per minute output and with hose lengths from 395 ft. up to 1650 ft. Standard features include Automatic Speed Compensation, galvanized cart and stabilizer legs, turntable, pto wind-up and optional hydraulic legs and cart lifting.

Economic Irrigation: With low input pressure requirements and constant speed irrigation, FERBO Travelers remain the leaders in low cost automatic irrigation. There isn't another traveler available that is simpler to operate or less expensive to maintain.

Waste Water Disposal: Our engine driven travelers are the simplest and most accurate on the market. Our computer controlled speed regulation ensures 99% accuracy to meet Federal/State design criteria while our simple yet efficient engine/gearbox drive ensures low maintenance

Plus: We manufacture and market a complete line of. Slurry pumps, pump fittings, irrigation pumps, wheel row, giant sprinklers, hand move, trickle center pivots

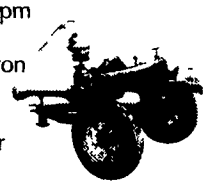
ROVATTI SLURRY PTO DRIVE PUMPS

Rovatti TL slurry pumps are high-pressure slurry pumps with a unique "bolt on" chopper system

The standard pump features a high efficiency open-vane impeller with an interchangeable wear ring and fixed cutting blade to handle all but the very toughest of straw, hay or other difficult residuals. For these conditions, the chopper unit can be simply bolted to the pump where it is driven by the existing pump shaft, enabling it to handle virtually any waste products requiring chopping.

A number of additional features make these the most versatile and reliable units on the market:

- Special permanently lubricated mechanical seal for longer life
- Over-sized bearings
- Lubricated chopper shaft bearings
- Chopper shaft shear-pin to reduce risk of damage to the shaft and impeller
- A range of four tractor pto pumps and four bare-shaft pumps with flows from 105-1000 gpm
- Replaceable wear ring
- 540 rpm or 1000 rpm speeds
- Finest grade cast iron for high efficiency
- Unique water-cooled gearbox for extended gear life.



The pump is mounted on a heavy-duty wheeled cart with pto shaft, 6" quick-action suction fittings and 4" discharge fittings as standard.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State
July 20, 2002
Greetings From Calgary!

- Issues facing Canada.
- The drought.
- Canadian dairy exports.

This week's report on dairy markets was updated from Calgary, a very modern city in the western Canadian province of Alberta. I delivered a paper at an international dairy conference explaining U.S. dairy policy and market outlook.

I also went to the world-famous Calgary Stampede. It's one of the biggest Western rodeos in the world. I watched the chuck wagon races, ate breakfast at Mel's Place in the Agriculture Building, and, of course, spent time talking to Canadian farmers at the various displays.

I learned a lot about canola. And did you know that Alberta beef tastes better than beef from anywhere else in the world? After watching large chunks of beef smoking in a barbecue pit all day, I'd have to say I'm partial to it. The Alberta Dairy Board had a nice display there too, explaining what it takes to make milk.

I had a chance to visit with Louis Balcaen during my stay in Canada. He is a dairy farmer and acting head of the Canadian Dairy Commission. We chatted during a long bus trip up the Canadian Rockies. We talked about the similarities and differences between U.S. and Canadian Agriculture policies.

From the Canadian perspective, there are two big issues that are affecting all Canadian farmers. First, there is the drought. Canadian farmers are facing the worse drought in 133 years! It has affected a large area just north of the Trans-Canadian Highway that represents most of the breadbasket of Canada.

Agriculture in these provinces is entirely dependent on rain since there is so little irrigation. Canadian farmers can make a lot of canola, rapeseed, wheat and hay, but only if it rains. Because of the drought, beef ranchers are without pasture and hay, and grain farmers are facing a very limited crop. Dairy farmers are affected too, since state-controlled milk prices won't increase because of the drought as they would in the U.S.

The Canadian Government, along with the provincial governments, just released a farm aid package. Unfortunately, the plan has only limited dollars to work with. For many ranchers, the drought has forced them to liquidate about a third or more of their herds. It will take them years to rebuild.

The other issue of concern to Canadian farmers is — you guessed it! — the U.S. Farm Bill. The concern is that a generous Farm Bill in the U.S. will depress world grain and oilseed prices, which will have a negative impact on them. Many farmers in Canada are also questioning why farmers just across the border are getting so much more farm aid from their government than they do.

One of the big questions I had was how the "export classes" worked in Canada. The Canadian government has been vilified in the U.S. press for effectively subsidizing dairy exports in excess of their World Trade Organization (WTO) commitment. The U.S., along with New Zealand, has presented a case to the WTO, which they have won. However, it will likely be appealed.

It is my understanding that

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No.2y — 2.51 bu., 4.49 cwt.
Wheat, No.2 — 2.90 bu., 4.84 cwt.
Barley, No.3 — 1.52 bu., 3.24 cwt.
Oats, No.2 — 1.75 bu., 5.46 cwt.
Soybeans, No.1 — 5.18 bu., 8.66 cwt.
Ear Corn — 69.88 ton, 3.49 cwt.
Alfalfa Hay — 95.00 ton, 4.75 cwt
Mixed Hay — 108.00 ton, 5.4 cwt.
Timothy Hay — 98.75 ton, 4.94 cwt.

Farm Show 2003 Exhibitor Spotlight

Exclusive to Lancaster Farming

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — With construction of a new exhibitor hall slated for completion in time for the 2003 Farm Show in Harrisburg, many farm equipment dealers throughout the region will be returning to the show with large floor exhibits.

One of those dealers is Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc., Lititz. While the company has remained on hand in recent years to represent a cross-section of ag production equipment at the Farm Show, this year it will be back in force with a 5,000 square-foot display.

Returning as a major exhibitor to the Farm Show marks "a completely different approach," to the event, said Don Hoover, salesman at Binkey & Hurst for 19 years.

"This year, we're seeing it much more as a commercial opportunity because the new exhibit hall will be full of ag equipment and supporting service companies," he said.

Hoover said that the broad nature of the Farm Show, including its youth livestock events and many family-oriented activities, makes it an appealing venue.

"We're looking forward to putting our efforts into Harrisburg," he said. "The Farm Show has a great tradition behind it."

> Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc.

The roots of Binkley & Hurst Bros, Inc. go back to 1939, when Walter Binkley began selling Huber tractors and livestock feeds in the Lititz area. In 1975, his son David Binkley teamed up with brothers Leonard and Amos Hurst Jr. to launch Binkley & Hurst Bros.

The company has evolved into a dealer of seven major brands of farm equipment throughout the Mid-Atlantic region today, with 50 employees and a strong focus on service.

"We built the business on service," Hoover said. He noted that the company provides follow-up service on every machine it sells, as well as repair work on other "brand X" equipment.

Included in the company's lineup are Case-IH and McCormick tractors, Kinze planters, Sunflower tillage equipment, Keenan mixers, and Gehl forage and manure-handling equipment.

Don Hoover, salesman for Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc., is looking forward to exhibiting farm machinery at the 2003 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

U.S. Farm Bill, Dairy Options Focus Of Satellite Downlink

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dairy farmers and producers can learn about their options under the 2002 federal farm bill during a special satellite workshop hosted by Penn State in cooperation with Cornell University, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, and the USDA.

The satellite broadcast will be offered from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 6 and will be available nationwide on the KU and C bands.

Program Coordinator Ken Bailey, Penn State associate professor of dairy markets and policy, said the program will focus on the dairy and grain provisions of the Farm Bill and how they will affect dairy producers in the northeast U.S. and nationally.

"The new farm bill is pretty broad," Bailey said. "It has new dairy provisions, new grain programs, and expanded funding under the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), which is a cost-sharing program for livestock producers to develop waste management systems.

"We want to make producers aware of provisions that can affect their agricultural operations. For example, many producers don't know anything about the new dairy deficiency payment program."

Bailey said the satellite program will be targeted for dairy operations in the northeastern U.S., but will address dairy issues that affect the entire nation.

"For instance, the Farm Bill's new dairy deficiency payment program is targeted to assist smaller farm operations with 133 cows or less, which predominate in Pennsylvania and several northeastern states," Bailey said. "The grain provisions of the Farm Bill are for anyone who produces grain in the United States, but we're not really going to delve into cotton and rice because those aren't big commodities in the Northeast."

The satellite program will unfold in two parts. "Part I — 2002 Farm Bill" starts at 9 a.m. and ends at 10:50 a.m. It begins with a welcome by Bailey, followed by an introduction to the dairy title to the Farm Bill by Mark Stephenson, extension professor at Cornell University. Charles Abdalla, associate professor of agricultural economics at Penn State, then will review the EQIP program and its potential effect on livestock producers.

Joel Rotz of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau will discuss the legislative deliberations surrounding the dairy provisions. Bailey, Stephenson, Abdalla, and Rotz then will address questions called in from the audience.

After a 15-minute intermission, Bailey will return with introductory remarks followed by a discussion of the Farm Bill's grain provisions by Lou Moore, Penn State professor of agricultural economics. Jayson Harper, professor of ag economics, will explain crop insurance provisions and join Bailey and Moore in answering audience questions.

Part II of the program, covering round IV of the Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP IV), will start at 11 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m. Panelists from USDA's Risk Management Agency will cover the basics of dairy risk management, including an introduction to dairy options. The afternoon portion of the program then will focus on the rules of the DOPP program.

Information for tuning satellite receivers to access the program will be available through local county cooperative extension offices, which will have receiver information and a list of counties hosting this satellite downlink. Not all counties will host the program. Satellite coordinate information also will be available on the Penn State Farm Bill 2002 Website at http://farmbill2002.aers.psu.edu.

Farm Show Complex Construction Accelerates

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Progress on the multimillion dollar construction under way at the new Farm Show Complex is speeding up for a January 2003 delivery.

Enthusiasm and anticipation is running high for the new construction.

On Monday this week, construction crews were ready to place nine 14-ton heating, ventilation, and air conditioning (HVAC) units on top of the roof of the trade show exhibit building. The roof was installed a few weeks ago.

It will take about five days to completely lift all nine units to the top, according to Ray Feidt of Steffy's.

AmQuip Construction uses the Demag CC1800 330-ton crane. The entire operation requires a crew of about 12 workers to fully install the HVAC units.

Steffy Construction, Ephrata, has a 175-ton crane also ready to assist in loading up smaller sections, at about 4.5 tons apiece, that join to the HVAC units.

Mark Defelice, Thorndale, who has worked for AmQuip for more than 25 years, noted the work involved in training to use the 330-ton crane, which can reach a total of 300 feet, including the "luffing jib" or the crane's extended arm.

According to Defelice, training for the big cranes comes from the manufacturer. Operators are required to have a certified crane operator license from the National Commission for Certification of Crane Operators.

More information about construction, along with photos, is scheduled for a special Farm Show construction update edition in next week's Lancaster Farming.

Northeast District Jersey Show Aug. 16

TROY (Bradford Co.) — The Northeast District Jersey Show is set for Friday, Aug. 16, at the Troy Fairgrounds.

The show will be judged by Alan Chittenden of Schodack Landing, N.Y., and will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the junior calf class.

All typical calf and cow classes as well as a class for senior yearlings in milk will be staged including a production class for animals who have produced 100,000 pounds of milk or 4,000 pounds of fat. A premier exhibitor and premier breeder for the show will also be named.

Once again, the Noble family will present a premier performance award in memory of Tommy G. Noble. The award will be given at the end of the show and will be based 50 percent on milk production and 50 percent on class placing.

To be eligible for the premier performance award, please submit the animal's most recent 305-day lactation summary with the entries.

A first-year Jersey showmanship contest will be held as well. Youth ages 12 and under who are exhibiting a Jersey project animal for the first time are eligible to enter the contest to compete for a showbox in memory of Tommy G. Noble.

Fees of $5 per youth entry and $7 per adult entry should accompany all submissions. Please include the animal's name, registration number, birth date, sire, dam, owner's name and breeder's name on a piece of plain paper and send it to Paul Moyer, RR 1 Box 88A, Roaring Branch, PA 17765.

The entry deadline is Aug. 10. Entries postmarked after that date will be subject to a $15 per head late fee.

Animals may enter the fairgrounds Thursday, Aug. 15. On that evening, a pizza party for exhibitors will be conducted with a brief meeting to follow.

To be admitted to the show, animals must be free from signs of clinical illness or contagious or infectious diseases and must be presented with an official health certificate upon entering the fairgrounds.

Vaccinations required include IBR, PI3, and BVD. Animals that have not been vaccinated against BVD during the previous 12 months must receive one dose of modified live virus vaccine given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show or two doses of killed vaccine two to four weeks apart with the last dose given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show. Animals that have been vaccinated for BVD within the past 12 months must receive a single injection of modified live virus or killed vaccine not less than 15 days prior to the show.

Vaccination against rabies is highly recommended.

"Through the years, the quality of the Jersey show has been steadily increasing," said Chairman Paul Moyer, "Let's make this year's show the best ever!"

Questions about the show can be directed to Paul Moyer at (570) 324-2482.

Finally, A First-Time Dairy Champion For Del. 4-H'er

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HARRINGTON, Del. — A first-time champion finally arrived for Mel Wyatt of Harrington here early this week at the Delaware State Fair.

Mel, 15, son of Chris and Crystal Wyatt, won junior dairy show supreme with his 4-year-old Holstein, Hayland Mandel Kathy (S: Lutz-Meadows E Mandel-Et, D: Hayland Blackstar Katie).

The Lake Forrest High School 11th grader is a member of the Vernon Honey Bees Dairy Club, of which he is vice president.

The cow is kept at the farm of Randy Sullivan. Mel noted that nothing special went into garnering the first-time champion.

Sullivan cares for the animal.

Mel noted that his mother and father, who also exhibited at the fair, taught him a lot about showing animals.

Pasture Walks Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A series of pasture walks have been organized by local graziers in cooperation with Lancaster County Cooperative Extension for people who are interested in grazing dairy cattle.

Hours for all the walks are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., DST. For biosecurity reasons, all who attend are encouraged to wear clean clothes, wash their footwear before visiting the host farm and before returning home, and stay out of feeding and young stock areas.

Lunch plans vary with each location, as described below. In an effort to help host farms make necessary arrangements, reservations will be appreciated, and can be made by calling the Lancaster Cooperative Extension office at (717) 394-6851. Dates, places, and other details are as follows.

• Thursday, Aug. 1. Jeff Stoltzfus farm, located south of Kirkwood at 32 Lakeview Rd., east of Rt. 472. Jeff is a certified organic producer, an all-grass grazier with 150 acres. He milks 70 cows in a homemade parlor, and has a simple manure and mortality composting system. Drinks will be available, but bring your own lunch.

• Thursday, Sept. 19. John Stoltzfus farm, Parkesburg, located north of Rt. 30 and west of Rt. 10 at 7643 N. Moscow Rd. John is a certified organic producer with 50 acres of grass and 11 years of grazing experience. He milks 50 cows and feeds a mixture of grass and TMR. Lunch will be provided.

• Thursday, Oct. 10. Jake Zook farm, located southwest of Christiana at 1178 White Oak Rd., between Noble Rd. and Bartville Rd. Jake has nine years of grazing experience and 100 acres of grass. He milks 50 cows and feeds no grain. A light lunch and drinks will be provided.

New York State Fair Will Host 'Beef Day'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The New York State Fair will honor the beef industry in the Empire State on Tuesday, Aug. 27 as it celebrates the seventh annual Beef Day.

Join the beef industry on this day for Beef's "Thrill of the Grill" media burger-making contest. The kickoff to Beef Day will be at 10 a.m. at the pavilion at Cole Muffler Court. Beef industry leaders and friends from across the country and throughout New York State will again meet at the state fair to participate in this event.

Beef Day schedule:

• 10 a.m. — Beef Day Kick-off Proclamation by Nathan Rudgers, Commissioner of Ag and Markets.

• 10:30-11 a.m. — "Thrill of the Grill"

Watch as some of your favorite media personalities compete to make the biggest and best burgers in town.

• 10:45 a.m.-4 p.m. — Beef Day Activities

Fun for the whole family (grandma and grandpa too). Meet Beefman, eat beef samples and learn about the importance of beef as part of a balanced diet.

• 3:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. — Beef Cooking Demos

Learn how quick and easy beef and veal dishes can be. CattleWomen from across the country are here to show you how it's done.

• All Day — BeeFlexible Meal Solutions

• All Day — Beef Barn

Brandt-View Hosts Lebanon Holstein Night

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

CAMPBELLTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — About 500 people were willing to risk getting wet rather than miss the annual Lebanon County Holstein Night at Brandt-View Farm late last week.

While rain showers chased the party indoors for part of the evening, Holstein enthusiasts didn't miss what they came for: food, fellowship, and the chance to look at some fine Holsteins.

Brandt-View is owned and managed by David and Jeannette Brandt, along with sons Karl and Daniel and their families. Karl and Daniel are the third generation of Brandts on the farm, originally purchased by David's father, Amos, at the age of 38.

Daniel Brandt points out a top cow to Holstein Night visitors.

The Brandts have developed an exceptionally productive herd, with a current rolling herd average of 31,530 pounds of milk, 1,204 of fat, and 943 of protein for 102 cows. In recent years, the Brandts have also increased their focus on breeding for high type-production-index (TPI) cows.

This program has resulted in a demand for Brandt-View Holsteins in North America and countries around the world, including Argentina, China, Germany, and Poland. Two Brandt-View bulls have recently been accepted in Latvia as well. Altogether, about 25 Brandt-View bulls have been sent to stud services. One star cow in the herd, Da-Net Manfred Miss, has produced 15 of these through the Brandt's flushing and embryo transfer program.

Miss is classified EX-87 with an excellent udder and has tallied 36,539 pounds of milk, 1,421 of fat, and 1,241 of protein in 365 days.

A highlight for Holstein Night visitors was the chance to participate in judging three classes of Brandt-View cows: 2-, 3-, and 4-year-olds. The contest offered divisions for youth, men, and women interested in testing their judging skills. The official judge was Tom Harkenrider, director of young sire procurement at Genex and speaker for the evening.

Sharon Arnold, Myerstown, and Paul Miller, Harrisburg, placed at the top of the field in the adult judging contests. Youth winners were Elizabeth Smith, Lebanon, ages 14-and-under division, and Jake Spatz, Lebanon, ages 14-18.

there are two classes of milk under the Canadian system where exports are accounted for. One is under the "special class" that includes Canada's WTO commitment. The other is a separate export class that is not pooled with the other classes and is not managed by the Canadian government.

Producers can contract directly with a processor each month for milk destined for the export market. Normally a producer would only do this if they expected to exceed their quota in a particular month. Producers aren't going to make much under the export class, since it only fetches the world price, around $8-$10 per 100 pounds of milk. For Canada, the key issue is that a producer is contracting directly with a commercial processor for exports. So, they would argue, this milk is not subsidized and should not be subject to WTO export limitations.

The Canadian system of quotas, milk classes, and government involvement in pooling of milk revenues is changing rapidly. The government is turning over much of these tasks to the provincial governments. This is in response to the WTO case with the U.S.

THE LEADER IN THE FIELD

'Cash Cow' Brings Agriculture's Message To Washington

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A cow on the U.S. Mall may be an unusual sight, but agriculture representatives from across America thought that an Ayrshire draped with a sign presented their message with clarity.

The cow's sign, "Don't Make Agriculture a Cash Cow for Class Action Lawsuits," embodied what 20 agricultural leaders prepared to present to legislative leaders from their respective states.

After a briefing at the White House, the group, which included hog farmers, poultry producers, tomato growers, food processors, a major grocery store chain, and other ag organizations gathered on the Mall for a press conference to call on the U.S. Senate to pass the Class Action Fairness Act (S. 1712), a bipartisan bill that passed the U.S. House in March.

It is now pending in the Senate.

"There has been a dramatic increase in the number of frivolous class-action lawsuits filed against high tech, insurance, health care, manufacturing and financial services companies in state courts over the last decade," said Bryce Neidig, president of the Farm Bureau of Nebraska.

"Those of us in the ag sector are concerned that we may be the next target of these abusive lawsuits. Agriculture is vital to our nation's economy, and Congress must take steps to assure that we do not become the next 'cash cow' for trial lawyers.

"Class-action reform would restore fairness to our legal system, reduce litigation expenses, curtail excessive class action suits, and protect consumers," said Neidig.

About 400 agriculture organizations have signed a letter of support of the bill. "It is a unique opportunity for us to have such broad-based support," he said.

While the ag leaders were in Washington, they planned to distribute the letter that asks for the passage of the act.

The letter states that "in recent years, our industry has come under increasing attack from frivolous class-action lawsuits. This dramatic increase in class-action lawsuits filings is impacting our industry's ability to do business and is having a severe impact on our nations economy. S. 1712 would restore fairness to the class-action system, reduce litigation expenses, curb frivolous class action suits, and protect consumers."

In addition, the letter states that the legislation would ensure that consumers, not lawyers, receive benefits of any class action settlement. Proper legislation would reduce the number of financially draining frivolous lawsuits that agriculture businesses have had to face, according to the letter.

Leo Bergeron, president of the California State Grange, said that "the family farm is the backbone of agriculture. This type of action (frivolous lawsuits) would definitely break the back of the family farmer."

Dean Koplik, Murrays Chickens, New York, said that the

Ram Lamb Performance Test Results Announced

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Final results from the 2002 Ram Lamb Performance Testing Program conducted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Livestock Evaluation Center have been announced.

Eighty rams completed this year's program. This test consisted of 26 senior Dorsets, (born Sept. 1, 2001 until Dec. 31, 2001), 16 spring-born Dorsets, 10 Hampshires, 22 spring-born Suffolks, two fall-born Suffolks, three Polypays, and one senior Corriedale.

According to the National Dorset Association, the Livestock Evaluation Center has the largest Dorset testing program in the country and has been designated as a "national test."

Sixty-six rams were selected to be offered in Pennsylvania's 24th annual Performance Tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe Sale scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 3. In conjunction with the sale, the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association will conduct their annual field day. Officials at the Livestock Evaluation Center are expecting approximately 60 top quality invitational ewes to be offered for sale. The ewes will be sold immediately following the ram sale which is scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

First in the ring will be the 23 fall-born Dorsets.

The top-indexing senior Dorset will be lot number one. This ram, a triplet, gained .99 pounds per day and has maintained a lifetime weight per day of age of .99 pounds per day. This helped him attain an index ratio of 121.

The Orchard Crest Farm consignment was the second-highest indexing fall-born Dorset, with a final index of 116.

Next to sell will be the 19 spring-born Suffolks. This breed group will start with the Justin Smith ram that gained 1.26 pounds per day on test, with a ratio of 147 and a lifetime weight per day of age of 1.10 pounds per day of age. This ram was the fastest-gaining ram over all breeds and he attained the sales highest index ration of 126.

Pine Haven Farm bred the second-highest indexing and gaining spring Suffolk.

The Hampshire division will be led off by the Morris Pratt consignment who was the top-gaining and top-indexing Hampshire. This ram also exhibited the largest loin-eye area among the seven Hampshires.

Next will be the 11 spring-born Dorsets, led off by the Hollystone Farm consigned ram that gained 1.04 pounds per day on test and maintained a lifetime weight per day of age of 1.17 pounds per day. He also had the second highest index of the sale with a 124.

The second fastest-gaining spring Dorset was the second highest indexing, with a final index of 113 and is owned by Melana Lovell.

The three Polypay rams consigned by Robert Smith will be sold next and all three of these rams were genetically tested to show that they contain the scrapie resistance gene.

The two fall-born Suffolk rams, consigned by John Scott Jr., both gained in excess of one pound per day on test, and maintained lifetime weight per day of age of 1.04 and 1.08 pounds per day.

Rounding out the ram sale consignment is the fall-born Corriedale that was owned by Roger Bowman.

For more information about the Performance Tested Ram and Invitational Ewe Sale, the Sheep Producers Field Day or any of Pennsylvania's performance testing programs, contact Pa. Dept. of Agriculture Livestock Evaluation Center, c/o Glenn Eberly, 651 Fox Hollow Rd., State College, PA 16803. Phone: (814) 238-2527 or (814) 865-5857. E-mail: geberly@state.pa.us or geberly@psu.edu.

Many of these rams were genetically tested to determine if they contain the gene for scrapie resistance. Results will be available at the sale.

'Cash Cow' Goes To Washington

family-owned enterprise would face hardship if they were sued. "We operate on razor-thin margins and cannot afford to settle, even for a frivolous lawsuit," he said. "We could potentially face economic ruin."

He added that this would affect, in turn, the company's 200 employees, the feed company, and 60-65 farmers who grow chickens for the business.

Dan Shaul, president of the Mid-America Grocers Association, said that "grocery stores work hard to provide high quality products and have seen a tremendous amount of challenges in recent years. We can ill afford more battles to cut into our margins. We will eventually have to pass that on to the consumer," said Shaul.

The U.S. Chamber Institute for Legal Reform and the Food Marketing Institute hosted the group's visit to Washington.

Should it become law, the bill would make it easier to move large class-action lawsuits from state to federal court.

In addition, the Plaintiffs Bill of Rights includes judicial investigation into settlements where consumers receive little compensation in comparison to large legal fees, a requirement that settlement notices be written in "plain English," prohibit settlements where class members lose money to pay attorneys' fees, and ensure a fair and even distribution of damages awarded to all plaintiffs.

The cow, Anchor Mere Co-Dream from Culpeper, Va., is owned by the Dwayne D. Forrest family, operators of Anchor Mere Farm.

His daughter, Kelly Jo, at the cow's halter during the event, recently graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute with a degree in dairy science.

DETERMINE WHEN CORN IS AT THE RIGHT MOISTURE CONTENT FOR ENSILING

Extension Agent — Dairy, Lancaster County

The moisture content of silage at time of harvest is one of the most critical factors affecting silage quality, because moisture levels dictate the kind of fermentation process that will take place, how the fermentation will proceed, and what products the fermentation process will produce.

Determining when to ensile corn can be a challenge because, for example, 110-day corn does not always mature in 110 days. Hot weather speeds up the maturing process and, once the crop has matured, the plant "shuts down" — and moisture levels can drop rapidly and catch you off guard.

On the other hand, as the cooler, shorter days of fall approach, the crop matures at a much slower pace. It may not mature prior to the first frost, and once frosted, moisture levels can drop rapidly.

Don't let your eyes deceive you. When you observe corn fields turning brown, the corn may not be as dry as it appears. This is especially true with drought-stricken corn. The leaves may be brown and dry, but the stalk and ear may still contain fair amounts of moisture. Even though the bottom leaves are "fired," the top may still be pushing forth new growth. Thus, if you cut the field too quickly you could be losing some dry matter yield.

However, when the moisture and "life" leaves the stalk, look for whole-plant moisture to drop rapidly. Monitor the crop closely to get the timing right. Also remember that the bottom leaves represent only a small percentage of the plant's total weight, so the impact of firing on whole-plant moisture and yield is often less than what you might expect.

In 2001, corn drydown rates were monitored at the Penn State research farm in Landisville. Moisture levels were compared to degree of firing and to milk line regression to evaluate how accurate they were in predicting whole-plant moisture and when to ensile the crop. All tests were run on the same 110-day hybrid, planted May 1 and May 25 in two different fields. The field planted on May 1 had a doughty section and a more normal section.

Whole-plant moisture was not as low as what plant firing might lead you to think, especially in the droughty corn. If the droughty corn were ensiled at 50 percent firing, the moisture level in the silage could have been as high as 74 percent, which could result in abnormal fermentation, excessive seepage, and poor quality silage. Harvesting the May 25 planting at 50 percent firing would have resulted in corn being ensiled at about 55 percent moisture, which could be too dry for top quality silage. When corn was in a more ideal moisture range of 60-70 percent, firing ranged from 10 percent to 60 percent!

Kernel milk line regression was a more reliable indicator of whole-plant moisture. Most of the samples were in the acceptable moisture range when the milk line progressed ⅓ of the way down from the tip of the kernel, and started getting too dry as it progressed beyond about the ⅔ level.

The best way to determine plant moisture is to cut 6-12 stalks that are representative of the field, chop them to about ensiling length, and conduct a moisture test on them. If a chopper is not handy, a home mulching machine works well.

Once kernels are well developed and the kernel milk line begins to regress, whole-plant moisture levels drop about 0.65 percentage units per day. This drydown rate can be used to help predict harvest dates. For example, if your plan is to ensile corn at 65 percent moisture, but the moisture level is 72 percent, that means the moisture needs to drop by 7 percentage units before being ensiled. Divide these 7 percentage units by 0.65, and you'll find that the crop should be ready to ensile in about 11 days. Sudden changes in plant and weather conditions can affect this dry down rate, as discussed earlier.

Seminar Planned To Aid Producers In Marketing Decisions

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — "Decisions — Crop Marketing And Price Risk" is the title of a daylong seminar to be conducted by Lehigh County Cooperative Extension Tuesday, Sept. 10, at the Days Inn and Conference Center, Routes 309 and 22, Allentown.

The program is sponsored by the Lehigh Valley Grain Marketing Club.

To inform farmers as well as agribusinesses in today's marketplace, John Berry, Lehigh County agricultural marketing agent, said they have assembled international leaders in the commodity marketing industry to present and discuss their views on what the future holds.

"The world's agricultural and food industry is expanding and remains in a constant state of change," Berry said. "Successful businesses and institutions must deal with rapidly shifting market conditions that are driven by international influences, technological innovations, policy shifts, weather conditions, emerging consumers and fluctuating consumer preferences. To continue succeeding in this environment, businesses must have access to reliable information and understand its use."

During this seminar, according to Berry, there will be discussions on identifying marketing goals, managing price risk, tracking global markets and industry changes, evaluating strategies to meet financial requirements and better management of the bottom line.

Featured speakers include experts from the Sparks Companies, Inc., a recognized world leader in broad based agricultural and commodity research, analysis and consulting. They include William J. DuBard Jr., crop marketing consultant, Sparks Producer Services, which is a consulting effort devoted to enhancing farmer returns primarily through the development of customized farm price risk management strategies and James D. Sullivan, vice president, who has more than 20 years of diversified experience in agribusiness consulting, economic, and commodity market research and food brokerage.

Sullivan's commodity background ranges from livestock to grains and corn sweeteners. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from The Ohio State University and his doctorate from the University of Illinois, all in agricultural economics.

Presenting the weather and world agricultural output will be Albert Peterlin, founder and president of ERREx, Inc, a weather, water and crop-forecasting corporation. Peterlin has consulting contracts with major grain processing companies, and provides a daily weather and crop analysis titled, "Against the Grain" and on-air comments on weather and crop impact on the Illinois Farm Bureau Radio Network.

Space is limited and registration will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. The cost is $40 per person and includes lunch, refreshments, and handouts. Registration material can be obtained by contacting John Berry, Penn State Cooperative Extension, at (610) 391-9840, or jwb15+Apsu.edu.

Washington County Ag Expo To Feature Youth Projects

SHARPSBURG, Md. — The Washington County Ag Expo will take place Aug. 2-9 at the Washington County Agricultural Education Center, located on the Sharpsburg Pike, Rt. 65, seven miles south of Hagerstown, Md.

Exhibits and activities feature the 4-H/FFA youth of Washington County, including entries in home arts, horticulture and livestock. 4-H and FFA events include the 4-H cake auction at 6:30 p.m., on Aug. 2, and the 4-H fashion revue on Sunday, Aug. 4, at 4:30 p.m.

The fair opens on Friday, Aug. 2, with the Ag Expo queen contest at 5:30 p.m. followed by the youth talent contest, sponsored by Stacy Drake of WLTF, the town of Sharpsburg and Ag Expo. In the grandstand area, at the track, will be professional wrestling with the main feature, Demolition Ax at 7 p.m.

Saturday, Aug. 3, and Sunday, Aug. 4, will feature Twisted K Productions bull riding at 7:30 p.m. Along with the bull riding, there will be barrel racing, tough man steer wrestling and a wild cow milking contest, in which teams of ranch hands try to get enough milk out of a beef cow in a paper cup to pour out in front of a judge. Also, there will be a best dressed cowgirl and cowboy competition. Twisted K Productions is sanctioned by the Southeastern Bull Riding Association and the United Bull Riders.

Sunday, August 4, will feature an antique car show by the Mason-Dixon Antique Automobile Club at 4 p.m. and the pedal tractor pull at 6 p.m.

Entertainment for Monday, Aug. 5, 7:30 p.m., will be a demolition derby. The Hagerstown Speedway, Inc. is coordinating and sponsoring trophies for this event.

An antique tractor pull and skidloader rodeo will be conducted by the Washington County Antique Tractor Club on Tuesday, Aug. 6, at 7:30 p.m. This event is open to anyone to participate, however, all drivers must be at least 16 years of age.

August 7 and 8 will find the Washington County tractor pullers at the grandstand area for a tractor and truck pull beginning at 7 p.m.

Other activities planned during the week include the baby contest, barnyard Olympics, farm queen contest, the little farmer-farmerette contest, ice cream churning contest, the 4-H pretty animal parade and more.

The petting farm is a popular exhibit for children. Educational activities for children will be provided on Aug. 2-4 by the Maryland Cooperative Extension, Maryland Agriculture Council, Inc. and Ag Expo. The activities will be from 4-7 p.m. will supplies last.

On Friday, Aug. 2, learn about the food guide pyramid and make an "Ants on the Log" snack. Saturday, Aug. 3, will be about plants, flowers and trees with a stamping project.

The fair week will conclude with the 4-H/FFA market sale on Friday, Aug. 9, at 6 p.m. and a Gospel concert by "Praise" at 7 p.m.

Livestock Extravaganza Spotlights 4-H Achievements At Delaware State Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HARRINGTON, Del. — Schabinger Pavilion played host to a splendid and splashy tradition at Delaware State Fair — the Livestock Extravaganza here Tuesday evening.

The event, full of lots of fair sparkle, pomp, circumstance, and enthusiastic friends and family, features judges dressed in tuxedos and spotlight Vegas-style "strut your stuff" action in the show ring.

Champions of all four species — beef, sheep, goats, and swine — are announced with fanfare and emotion.

The day caps almost a week of exhibits and fun times at the state fair.

Grand champion of the beef show that day, featuring about 50 exhibitors and more than 100 animals, went to Kyle Ebert, Harrington, Del. Ebert won with his 1,167-pound middleweight steer champion.

Reserve went to Sarah Moore, Wyoming, Del., with her 1,301-pound heavyweight champion.

Show judge was Chris Mullinix, El Dorado, Kan., ag teacher and livestock judging coach, Butler College.

At the extravaganza, winners were announced. Grand champion lamb went to Rachel Epps, Woodside, Del. Reserve went to Jessica Tatman, Felton, Del. Judge was Rod Crome, Glen Arm, Md.

In the goat show, grand champion went to Cole Garey, Felton, Del. Reserve went to Anna Kendall, Seaford, Del. Judge was Susan Schoenian, Clear Spring, Md.

In the swine show, grand champion was awarded to Jessica Tatman, Felton, Del. Reserve went to Robby Emerson, Towsend, Del. Judge was Mike McCoy, Washington County, Ohio.

Cecil County Fair Awards Market Goat, Lamb 4-H'ers

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

FAIR HILL, Md. — "Buttons" may have a round spot on its side, but the market goat wore a blue ribbon on its halter Tuesday at the Cecil County Fair.

Immaculate Conception fifth grader Lillian Ferver exhibited the Boer goat.

Lillian, 10, is the daughter of Virginia and Michael Ferver, Cecilton.

This is a first-time champion for Lillian, Cecil Sliders 4-H member. The goat was purchased from Lee Clugston, Elkton.

Olivia Farmer, 11, daughter of Teresa and Joe Farmer, Rising Sun, Md., held onto a goat with a streak of white running up and down its face — which Olivia nicknamed "Blaze."

Blaze, a Boer goat, was exhibited by the sixth grade Rising Sun Middle School member. Olivia has exhibited other goats and displays her work from the vegetable garden in addition to baked goods.

Sheep award winners were also selected at the fair.

Sara Culver, 10, daughter of Tammy and Roger Culver, Fair Hill, Md., won champion market lamb with a Suffolk/Hampshire crossbred wether, winner of the middleweight division.

Culver has been champion three years in a row, she said. The lamb, nicknamed "Discover," was purchased from Bullock Farms in Dover, Del.

Reserve went to Chelsea Davis, 10, daughter of Edgar and Sarah Davis, Earlville. The Cecilton Elementary fifth grader won with a Hampshire wether.

This was Chelsea's first time showing and her first champion.

CECIL COUNTY FAIR MARKET GOAT SHOW RESULTS

Lightweight: 1. Hannah Sanford-Crane. 2. Chelsea Davis 3. Charlotte Sanford-Crane.

Medium Weight: 1 Molly Linton. 2. Charlotte Sanford-Crane.

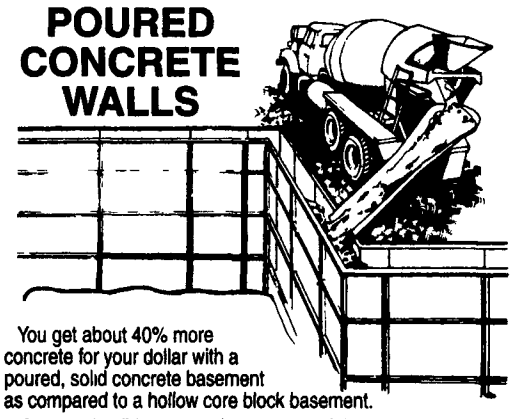
START WITH THE BEST!
POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement.

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser. What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic ...there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration.

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced.

Solid Concrete For:

• Hog House Walls • Silage Pit Walls
• Barnyard Walls • Cistern Walls
• Chicken House Walls • Concrete Decks

Cecil County Ag Showcase Day Draws 200

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

FAIR HILL, Md. — About 200 producers and agri-industry representatives were on hand Tuesday during the 22nd annual Ag Showcase Day here close to the Cecil County Fairgrounds.

Special presentations were provided on alternative or "green energy" biofuels.

But for biofuels, including the use of products such as soybeans in biodiesel or ethanol as fuel additive, the reach has to extend beyond the ag community and into the homes.

"We have to get interest in these products outside the farm arena and into home heating," said Ray Filasky, manager, petroleum retail operations and sales with Southern States Cooperative, Inc., Richmond, Va. "Home heat, or 'green fuel,' is welcomed by the homeowner. The homeowner loves the concept."

Filasky noted that finding ways to refine soybean oil for fuel has to "economically" look good to farmers and homeowners.

The Brookings Institution, Washington, D.C., is a "think tank" that is looking into ways of promoting biofuel, according to Filasky. Delmarva Biofuels Committee is also looking for ways to promote biofuels at the farm and in the home.

Lynne Hoot, Maryland Grain Producers Association, spoke about the feasibility of developing an ethanol plant. The 15 million-gallon facility would cost about $31 million, and $12 million in equity would be needed to start the plant, operated in business as a limited liability company.

Hoot spoke about the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board's Mid-Atlantic BioFuels Project, an effort to study the feasibility of using barley to produce ethanol.

In the BioFuels Project description form handed out during the Ag Showcase Day, some things are noted: Maryland once had an ethanol plant on the Eastern Shore, but it closed in the late 1970s as a way of handling the energy crisis. But oil became less expensive and federal support subsidies were reduced, so it closed.

With the passing of the Clean Air Act in 1990, and the phasing in of reformulated gasoline (RFG), an enormous market opened for ethanol. Now, efforts are under way to establish a renewable fuel standard, since special interests want the oxygenate requirement of RFG eliminated.

Hoot drove over a Dodge Caravan Sport van, a "flexible fuel vehicle" with the words "ETHANOL" on the license plate.

John VandeVaarst, USDA/ARS, Beltsville, Md., noted that study after study has shown that the 300 million miles driven by biodiesel engines has proven biodiesel's efficiency. An SUV parked at the Ag Showcase Day noting the car's biodiesel fuel was evident on the window.

"When the diesel engine was first invented," VandeVaarst asked those who attended the showcase, "what did it run on? Peanut oil. We're going back to where we were."

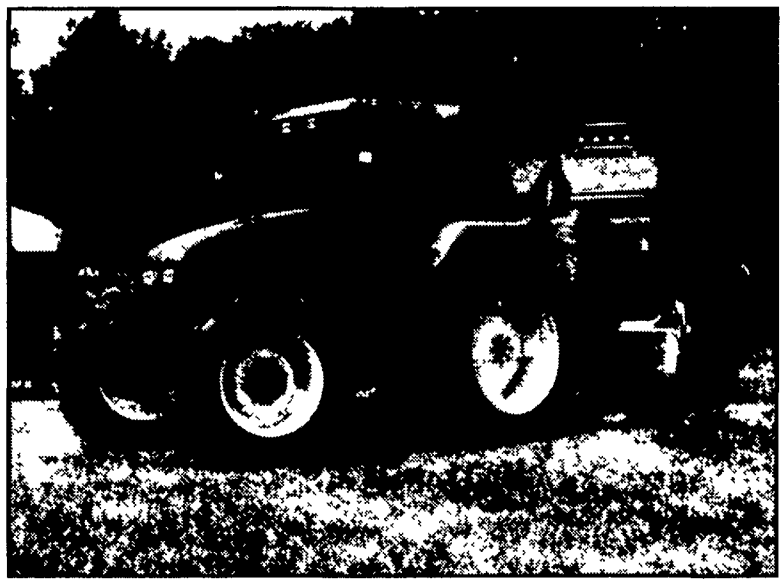
VandeVaarst noted that scientists "can't find any disadvantages to using biodiesel."

There are two types of "biodiesel" products available: one is soybean oil and the other, used vegetable oil.

Seth Powell, representative of Tri-Gas and Oil, noted the SUV with the window display noting biodiesel's use.

"The biodiesel we sell is 100 percent soybean oil, no recycled restaurant grease," said Powell. "We have a product strictly made from soybean meal."

A market exists for soybean producers, since more interest is gaining in the biofuel.



Equipment from various dealers makes its way past the "inspection tent" at Ag Showcase Day in Maryland Tuesday.

One major ag equipment manufacturer engines now accept a 5 percent engine blend of the biofuel. This "opens doors" for more manufacturers to accept biodiesel.

The material biodegrades as fast as sugar in the environment, noted Powell.

As for the use of biofuel in homes or in farm equipment, noted Filasky of Southern States, "We look for it to be big over time, and as a farmer cooperative, we will encourage it all we can."

Scott Rowe, Cecil County Ag and Natural Resources Educator, spoke about controlling a new pest for ornamental rose producers, Rose Rosette Disease. The diseases affects backyard roses, caused by a virus spread by windborne mites from the Midwest.

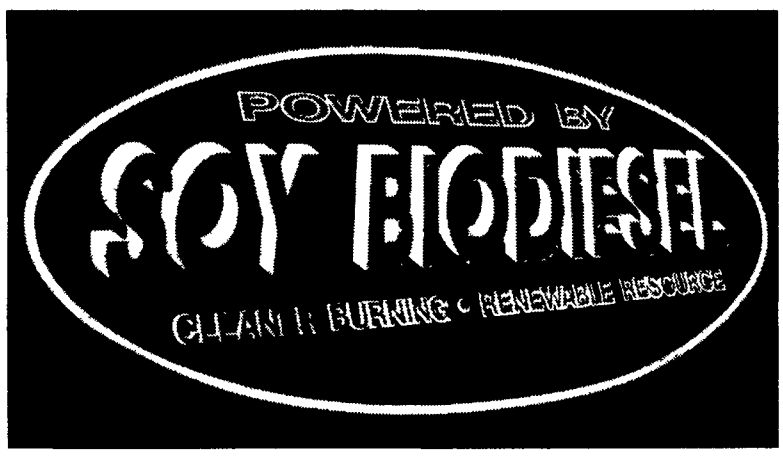
The disease causes browning and death of stems and leaves.

Also, Rowe spoke about methods to control multiflora rose, a weed infestation. Two types of control are possible: organic, using goats that love to eat the material, and chemical control with a 2,4-D product. Spray costs about $52 for 100 gallons of mix.

Hundreds of attendees also had a chance to see forage demonstrations by various manufacturers.

Also on hand for the Ag Showcase Day was Cecil County Fair Queen Katee Callahan, 17, daughter of Daniel and Julia Callahan, Perryville.

The Perryville High School graduate will study nursing at Cecil Community College. The Cecil County Rabbit Wranglers 4-H member was crowned Monday evening.



A sport utility vehicle from Tri-Gas and Oil bore this graphic at the annual Ag Showcase Day.

Lynne Hoot, Maryland Grain Producers Association, spoke about the feasibility of developing an ethanol plant.

Seth Powell, representative of Tri-Gas and Oil, noted the SUV with the window display denoting the use of biodiesel.

Scott Rowe, Cecil County Ag and Natural Resources educator, spoke about controlling Rose Rosette Disease and multiflora rose management at the Ag Showcase Day.

Ray Filasky, manager, petroleum retail operations and sales with Southern States Cooperative, Inc., Richmond, Va., left, speaks with Neal McCleary, Elkton, Md. at the Ag Showcase Day.

Visitors to Ag Showcase Day watch forage cutting demonstrations.

Conference Attendees Celebrate PEACCE

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers have always known that they are stewards of the environment. However at a luncheon Tuesday at the Whitaker Center, several producers received recognition for their conservation efforts.

Twenty farm owners who successfully completed the requirements of the voluntary Pennsylvania Environmental Agricultural Conservation Certification of Excellence (PEACCE) pilot program received plaques.

The luncheon was part of the 55th annual State Conservation Commission (SCC) and Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) Joint Annual Conference.

The PEACCE program was conducted in Chester, Berks, and Lancaster counties. Promoting environmentally friendly practices and recognizing producers who meet the standards of the program are the program goals.

The four main components of the program include an environmental awareness course; an independent on-farm review and assessment; an on-farm evaluation; and continuing educational requirements.

The course is designed and offered by Penn State and funded by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. A committee is completing the details on the final certification program.

Keynote speaker of the luncheon was Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Secretary David E. Hess.

"It's important that we stop for a few minutes every year and take stock of what were doing and what were achieving," he said, adding that the time was also important "to honor others who are accomplishing great things.

"I want to give you a view from the secretary's desk," he said as he shared stories of conservation efforts across the commonwealth. Hess has traveled to every county in Pennsylvania.

"I've seen many creative programs to protect the environment. There are tremendous accomplishments and innovation in the conservation districts across Pennsylvania."

Conservation education efforts, stream bank fencing, farm tours, and composting were a few of the examples he gave that illustrated "the power of partnering," according to Hess.

Other accomplishments include an extension of, and fund doubling of the Growing Greener

Cattlemen Address Issues

WASHINGTON, D.C. — More than 1,000 producers and cattle industry representatives from across the country came together in Reno, Nev., for the 2002 Cattle Industry Summer Conference, July 17-20.

Individuals had the opportunity to bring up major issues that are affecting their farming and ranching operations.

"As you might expect, the beef checkoff was one of the key issues discussed at our meeting," said NCBA President Wythe Willey.

"Our members feel strongly that NCBA should continue its efforts to support and maintain the current $1-per-head beef checkoff."

During committee meetings, members had a chance to discuss top priorities for the year, listen to fellow producers and talk one-on-one with NCBA policy representatives. After four days of meetings and public forums, NCBA members passed resolutions that address their concerns.

The new resolutions passed at the Summer Conference serve as a road map for NCBA members, staff, and state affiliates as they address policy issues.

Producers bring the realities of critical issues such as the current drought, cattle health, market conditions, and property rights immediately into the spotlight," said Willey.

NCBA members passed more than 30 resolutions and directives during the Board of Directors meeting.

Tradition Equals Lots Of Fun At Lebanon Area Fair

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — A proud part of the uniqueness of Lebanon County is the appreciation for agriculture and long-time tradition of county fairs.

For the 46th year, Lebanon County will celebrate the rewarding experience of 4-H programs with the annual Lebanon Area Fair.

From Saturday, July 27 through Saturday, Aug. 3, the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Cornwall and Rocherty roads, will be the site of a great Lebanon County tradition.

The Lebanon Area Fair tradition continues into 2002 with its infamous track events and competitions, always sure to draw a great crowd, including the Central Pennsylvania Lumberjack Championship. Revving things up on opening day at the Fair, the 4x4 trucks and mini-modified tractor pull will be conducted at the track on Saturday, July 27.

Come back on Tuesday, July 30 for the Lawn and Garden Tractor Pull. A new feature is added to the fair legacy — three farm stock classes running alongside of the garden tractors.

The track attractions don't stop there. The "Smoker Series" will be making an appearance with clouds of dirt and dust at the track on Wednesday, July 31 and Tough Trucks are arriving on Friday, Aug. 2

The week at the fair will not end without more rolls of thunder coming from the premiere event of the Lebanon Area Fair, the Demolition Derby. On Saturday, Aug. 3 at 7 p.m., come and watch cars crash and bang as they compete for the chance to be in the final heat. After all of the demolition is over, the sky will light up with spectacular fireworks bringing the Lebanon Area Fair to an end.

Before the week is over, there will be plenty of things to see and do, a week of great fun and family entertainment. From one family to your family, Tom Crowl and the Mrs., a husband, wife, and son team, will combine magic and comedy to make the perfect show for all ages.

Kids are sure to love Allen's Illusions, a variety show that includes rabbits, doves, music and illusions, even a puppy appearing act, in a show filled with surprise and wonder. Your children may even take part in the show and help to create a series of mystical surprises. Make sure to stop by for this magical show running on Wednesday through Friday at 5 p.m., 7 p.m., and 9 p.m.

Since 1957, 4-H and FFA members have used the Lebanon Area Fair as a means of displaying their projects, and the fair is prouder than ever to present this hard work to you this year. The annual 4-H auction will be Thursday, Aug. 1, at 6 p.m. and will consist of new merchandise and consigned items donated by local merchants. All sales will benefit the 4-H Development Fund.

Included are 4-H and FFA livestock judging events.

The Lebanon Area Fair is located at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, two miles south of Lebanon off Rt. 72 at Cornwall and Rocherty roads.

Just a few of this year's great events include:

Saturday, July 27

- 9 a.m. — 4-H Horse Show
- 9 a.m.-4 p.m. — Volksmarch, Registration 8-2, Walk Until 5 p.m.
- 2:30 p.m. — Kids Pedal Tractor Pull Sponsored by Keller Bros.
- 4 p.m. — Main Exhibit Hall Opens and Ribbons on Winning Entries
- 4 p.m. — Tony's Amazing

(Turn to Page A31)

Scott Nolt, reserve champion Holstein at the Lebanon Area Fair, shows daughter Katelyn, year and half old, how to hold onto the big old cow at last year's event.

Kyle Fleener, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia, exhibited grand champion market lamb last year at Lebanon.

Alex Werner, son of Jeff and Sue Werner, Jonestown, won grand champion market goat last year at the Lebanon Fair. The goat show is scheduled this year Wednesday, July 31, at noon.

program, "one of the most tremendous accomplishments ever for conservation districts, people who work in watershed conservation programs, and the environment in general," he said. "It would not have happened if we would not have had the results out there. We know what are buying with Growing Greener money.

"The first Growing Greener grant was awarded in January 2000 and it's hard to believe how far we've come."

Chester County producers included, from left, Karl and Barbara Herr, Herrvale Farm; Patty and Bryan Huff, Shyrwood Farm; and Oliver and Barbara Mast, Mast Farm. Not pictured but also completing the program are Stephen and Allan Mason, Masons Chrome View LTD; Dennis Bush, Knight Run Farm; and Barclay Hoopes, High-Point Dairy Farm.

Also during the luncheon, Ernest and Jean Hoffman, Somerset, were recognized with the AgriLink Award as they were recipients of an AgriLink loan that put the program over the $1 million mark. The AgriLink Award recipients operate a 160-acre dairy farm and milk 125 cows.

The AgriLink program provides low interest loans to producers who want to install best management practices such as barnyard runoff or manure storage systems. It has provided more than 1.6 million in loans to 50 farmers across Pennsylvania.

Also, AgChoice Farm Credit was recognized with the Ag Lender Award. The cooperative processed 34 loans since July 1999, representing about 70 percent of all AgriLink loans processed in that time.

Other conference highlights included reports from various PACD committees, a session devoted to phosphorus indexing, a public relations discussion, a leadership development course, and a conservation expo that hosted a variety of public organizations and private industries.

The conference also included entertainment activities such as a Harrisburg Senators baseball game.

Checkoff Report Describes Beef Promotion Efforts

DENVER, Colo. — Efforts by America's beef producers to build beef demand through the checkoff program during the last year are described in detail in a new publication.

"The Beef Checkoff — Tracking Your Investment From Pasture to Plate" was produced by the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board and describes how the program has focused resources on increasing beef demand in the U.S. and abroad and improving the marketplace for the beef industry's products.

The 16-page booklet reviews key programs conducted during the last year at state, national and international levels. It describes how the beef checkoff works through the a variety of checkoff-funded programs run by qualified state beef councils and nationally through the Beef Board.

The publication contains contact information for the 45 qualified state beef councils, the Beef Board, and major contractors. For a free copy of the booklet, either contact your state beef council; call Diane Henderson at 303-850-3465; or write to: Tracking Your Investment, Cattlemen's Beef Board, 9110 E. Leib Ends Youth Show Years With Flair, Pursues Chef Career

Bill Leib, left, with his grand champion steer at the Cumberland Valley FFA Sale Tuesday evening. Bill Campbell of Hoss's Steak and Seahouse bought the animal for $3,750.

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Bill Leib knows how to raise and exhibit the kind of livestock buyers want. The 21-year-old showman from Mechanicsburg sold two grand and three reserve champions at the Cumberland Valley FFA sale here this week to wrap up a long and illustrous youth show career.

As a student of culinary arts, Leib is also the man to see for advice on how to prepare that leg of lamb, beef steak, pork chop, or goat stew. Now he'll have some additional funds to put toward his last two years of chef school.

Leib took home $3,750 from Hoss's Steak and Seahouse for his grand champion steer Tuesday evening. He also collected $400 for his champion market lamb, and good premiums for the reserve champion hog, goat, and steer.

"I've been raising and showing livestock ever since I was born," Leib said. He pointed out that the end of his youth career and pursuit of a culinary career won't mean the end of his involvement with raising livestock. Leib and his family will continue to raise Southdown sheep to sell as breeding stock "all over the country," he said.

The 1999 Cumberland Valley High School graduate is entering his junior year this fall at Johnson and Wales School of Culinary Arts in Providence, R.I. There, he immerses himself in studies such as advanced pastry, meat cutting, and international cuisine as well as more standard college fare, including math and science.

Leib said his favorite course so far has probably been the one on international cooking.

5-Year-Old Cow Wins Kimberton Jersey Championship

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — CLV Schlitz Symphony, a 5-year-old, won grand champion Jersey cow Thursday evening here at the Kimberton Fair.

The cow was exhibited by Patrick Jenkins, Toughkenamon.

Judge Tom Arrowsmith, Peach Bottom, commented on the structural correctness of the two cows.

Patrick, 16, is the son of Tom and JoAnn Jenkins, Toughkenamon. The junior at Kennett High School won champion at the fair before. He plans to exhibit cows at Goshen, Lebanon, Unionville, Farm Show, and roundup.

Garnering a champion with Symphony involved "practice and a lot of work," including feeding her lots of forage, Patrick said. Patrick, Manor 4-H Club member, plans on attending Penn State or some type of agricultural college.

Another Manor 4-H member, Melissa Huff, won grand champion with her 3-year-old cow, Chocolate. Melissa, 8, won her first championship at the fair. She is the daughter of Patty and Ryan Huff, Nottingham, and is in the third grade in the Oxford Area School District.

Melissa attributes her honors to help from cousin Pat, also in 4-H, and parents for helping to feed and care for it. Melissa clipped Chocolate for the show. She plans to show at Goshen Fair, the county roundup, and Farm Show in January.

ent cuisine from countries around the world," he said. This involved six-hour sessions of preparing dishes from countries in Europe, Asia and other continents.

Other grand champion FFA exhibitors at the show included Ryan Haines, whose 227-pound York/Hampshire crossbred hog went to Huntsdale Stock Farm for $640. Haines, 21, is an Animal Science major at Cornell University and in his ninth year of exhibiting livestock.

Mike Woods' grand champion dairy beef, a Red and White, went to Cumberland Valley Cooperative for $625.

Brian Nailor, in his second year as a Cumberland Valley FFA member, exhibited the grand champion market goat, a Boer cross. It was purchased for $400 by Zach Neil of Neil Livestock, Shippensburg.

Average prices for youth livestock at the sale were: beef, $1,352; market lambs, $233; market hogs, $312; and goats, $263.

Sunnybend Tops York County Holstein Show

YORK (York Co.) — Sunnybend Jump For Joy-ET rose above the field of outstanding Holsteins as senior and grand champion for June Boyer and John Haar at the recent York County Holstein Show. Joy, an aged cow, was also named the best senior bred and owned of the show. Standing in the reserve spot was Beshore Farms with their senior 3 year old, Beshore Carlton Jem. Other farms representing cow class winners were: Woodbine, Dar-Dale, Ridge-Hill, and Coredale.

Beshore Farms and Boyer shared junior champion honors as well, but in the reverse order. Junior champion was Beshore's fall yearling Encore daughter, O-C-E-C Encore Leona-ET. Sunnybend Jackie Reknown, a spring calf, was reserve junior champion for June Boyer, as well as best junior bred and owned. Other class winners were exhibited by Lee Bosley of Walk-Le, Cory Thompson of Coredale, Trisha Knight of Woodbine, and Dixie Doll of Dar-Dale.

Plum Pox Pops Up Again

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) officials have reported newly discovered plum pox virus infections in several peach tree stands in York and Cumberland counties.

"We're looking at roughly 17 acres that are infected," said Karl Valley, chief of PDA's Division of Plant Protection. The virus was discovered in three areas: Conewago and Monaghan townships in York County and one township in Cumberland County.

The York County trees are in areas not previously quarantined in the state's campaign to eradicate the virus, while the Cumberland County site is in an existing quarantine area.

From the time when the plum pox virus was first discovered in 1999 to the end of 2001, about 1,346 acres of stone fruit trees had been removed and destroyed in southcentral Pennsylvania, according to Valley. Prior to this recent discovery of the virus, the last incidence of infection was reported last fall.

According to Valley, the four Pennsylvania counties of Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, and York are the only areas in the U.S. in which plum pox has been reported. Quarantines are conducted on a township by township basis, and no county has been quarantined in its entirety, Valley noted. Planting of any stone fruit trees is prohibited in quarantine areas.

Valley said it's difficult to predict the implications of the newly discovered infections. Plum pox virus had probably been present in the area for six to eight years prior to being detected in 1999, giving it a sizable head headstart, he noted

"We try to remain optimistic," he said.

built in 1989

Two years ago, the Aarons' corn averaged 212 bu./acre with some areas yielding as high as 260 bu./acre!

Their Slurrystore System is used by 120 head of mature cows, 100 head of heifers and a poultry house with 68,000 birds.

The Aarons say a big factor in their success with corn is the homogenous slurry produced by the center agitation system and deluxe agitation nozzle in their Slurrystore.

A fall application of 4,000 to 6,000 gal./acre is their management practice prior to spring seeding of alfalfa.

22-Year-Old Produces Products For The Planet

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — John Yoder is only 22 years old but he has developed a thriving produce market along Route 10.

Remarkable not only for his age but also because he grew up in town.

His growing business captured the attention of Secretary Samuel Hayes Jr. and the Simply Delicious program, which promotes Pennsylvania grown produce.

Yoder's farm market was selected for the site of the unveiling of a new program from which produce farmers will benefit.

Hayes said that Yoder represents 1,000 farmer markets across the state. More than one million dollars have been designated to promote Pennsylvania homegrown fruits and vegetables. More than 400 billboards and 2,000 television spots tout homegrown goodness to encourage consumers to frequent roadside stands.

These monies and the resulting promotion did not exist a few years ago, said Hayes, who has been a strong force in promoting Pennsylvania's agriculture.

More than 150,000 women and children have benefitted from the WIC Women's, Infants, and Children's program, which provides dollars to families to buy produce from farm markets.

"The population who are in their older years also need good nutrition but don't always have the resources to provide it," Hayes said. Last year, a pilot project targeted $18,000 for growers to provide produce to senior citizens in Chester County.

The program was a tremendous success," Hayes said. "I'm happy to report that it is no longer a pilot project, but a program that citizens in all 67 counties can participate. $3.5 million has been

John Yoder and his sister Anne are commended for providing top quality produce on Highland Ridge Farm by Sec. of Agriculture Sam Hayes Jr. and William Troxell, left, executive secretary for Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program.

Luba Somits, director of Chester County Department of Aging, and Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. agree that the $3.5 million devoted to the senior citizen farmers' marketing program will help ensure that older people receive nutritious produce.

The big tent shields more than 200 attendees from the sweltering sun during the Chester County Dairy Field Day. Hosts for the event are Marilyn and Duane Hershey, whose newly-expanded dairy opeartion was open for tours. See pages B10 and B12 for story and more photos about the annual event.

New Life For Sweltering Flower Gardens

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Springtime blooms burst forth with color and hopes for a flowering garden until fall frost, but sweltering temperatures and rainless weeks have quenched even the hardiest hopes and flowers in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Take Marion Bowlan's profuse gardening efforts in Manheim. She's a proverbial green thumb who has profited from numerous landscaping classes offered at Longwood Gardens.

She plots a well-defined diagram of her ever evolving gardens. She immerses herself in studying gardening books like some people read novels. She knows that planting masses of flowers are more eye-catching than symmetrical designs. She knows the importance of selecting and placing the right plant in the right spot for its sun or shade loving attachments.

Sunflowers continue to add cheery splashes of colors to gardens wilting from the dry, sweltering weather that dominates July.

Two years ago she designed and planted an area where the soil was typically moist. But both last year and this, the soil is a dusty dry. Last year she was able to water the plants and bushes to establish them, but this year the plants are struggling valiantly on their own.

That's because Bowlan's well is showing signs of dryness.

"It's more important that we use the water for our cattle than for flowers," Bowlan said.

But she, like many other gardeners, are shuddering to think of the lasting damage the plants may suffer as the result of dry, hot weather.

Although drought restrictions limit watering, plants can be watered with gray water (recycled dish water, etc.) and by bucket or hose within certain time limits (see your local jurisdiction). Watering will make a dramatic difference although nature's rain is much more effective. However, if you, like Bowlan, cannot water your plants, there is little that can be done to produce beautiful blooms this season.

Despite the weather conditions, this is the time to take a critical look at your garden. Deadhead flowers. Cut back perennials. Some will rebloom if cut back after the first bloom.

During the blooming season, Bowlan will tag flowers, such as delphiniums and poppies, that produce colors that she especially likes so that when they turn to seed heads she knows which ones to collect. She scatters the seed on the ground wherever she wants them to bloom the following year. The seed does not need to be covered or watered.

"I believe in doing the least amount of work, and I never had a problem with the flowers coming up in the spring," Bowlan said of scattering seed. However, she always saves some seed just in case.

Bowlan also plants some in pots to transplant in specific places in September.

This is the time to plant flowering kale, cabbage, mums, and other fall flowers.

Now is the time to determine what will be divided and transplanted. Do you need more color and height in select areas? It is easier to determine needed changes when plants are in place than when the garden is barren.

"Fall is the time to plant, not spring," Bowlan said. "I believe in planting perennials so that I don't have to work planting annuals every year."

She starts in early September to divide and transplant needed perennials.

In her garden, Bowlan has a circular area that she accented with a circle of grass, but decided that a double row of peonies

On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Garden scavenger hunt season has rolled into high gear.

Grab a basket and let's go see what we can dig up.

We'll head right to the coddled early tomato plants, which are maddening slow to ripen. Poking around the foliage of these four plants so far has turned up only a few bantam-egg-sized fruits, hardly big enough to even taste in a sandwich. Meanwhile, a yellow cherry type stuck in the garden devoid of any extra attention ripened its first pudgy tomato the same day as the first from the coddled ones. Go figure.

Next, it's off to the string bean row, dependable dudes thumbing their crinkly-green collective noses at the heat and drought by setting fat, tasty beans. Even our short and spottily-germinated row of plants is yielding plenty to eat, extra to share, and some left to freeze.

Now take a peek at the petite pepper plants plastered with plenty of peppery promise. This twin pair of plants was twinned in a single pot when I picked them up at a neighbor's garden center, already sporting healthy buds. With only an occasional extra watering, they've already given peppers for cooking and salads and hang full of baby ones.

We'll take a pass on visiting the pumpkin row; it's turning into a disaster. Every other day it seems another nice vine has wilted and collapsed. The family Halloween lovers are going to be very disappointed by the state of the pumpkin patch if I don't soon get a handle on the problem.

Pumpkins seem to do much better tucked in between the barns. Maybe the bugs and bacterial wilt can't find them there. (Just an occasional escaped heifer dancing among the vines.) We'll pen that note on next year's garden-to-do reminders.

Hopefully the pumpkin patch blight won't jump the row and flatten the cucumbers as well. Even if it does, these four-sized salad cucumbers in our basket will boost the take so far. Cucumbers go into our garden with the understanding that, like squash plants, they generally only have a short life span in mid-summer because of the insects which spread diseases fatal to cuke-pumpkin-squash family.

A friend nearby plants her entire cucumber crop for canning pickles in late July, so that they yield during the cooler weather of early fall, when the worst of the blight-spreading bugs have disappeared. Borrowing her strategy, I did tuck a few cucumber and squash seeds into the warm soil hoping for cooler-weather yields. Let's hope the bugs understand that they're supposed to cooperate with this timing and disappear.

That white patch under the asparagus? Oh, that's just a cat, although I had to look twice to be certain. I'm not sure if that cat really likes sleeping under the thick, ferny topgrowth of the asparagus patch or if he does it just to irritate that song sparrow screeching from the raspberry plant a few feet away.

Cantaloupes, yellow watermelons, and crenshaw melon plants from seed sent by a fellow-gardener-reader are poking into neighboring rows, and hide good-sized fruits peeking out from under the leaves. If we can fend off the blight-bugs for a few more days, we should be able to enjoy melon munching for several weeks.

One of the high rituals of summer garden scavenging — and eating — was celebrated last week, with the first ears of home-grown sweet corn yanked from their stalks, stripped of husk and silk, and promptly plunged into boiling water. Dry weather has shortened the ears and made kernel formation spotty, but hasn't lessened its wonderful flavor.

Now, finally, we can dig in. Potato volunteer plants, from a few small ones missed last year, prompted me to boost their population in the garden with some old wrinkly leftover ones that were sprouting. Lovers of cool and damper weather, the potatoes have persisted despite the harsh summer and are ready to dig up for use.

In the fields of Idaho farm county where our son works, they grow thousands of acres of baking and processor "spuds," those big baking-potatoes we love but can't grow around here. Our potato yields appear to be more the size of "buds" than "spuds."

But they'll taste great anyway. And that's what a garden scavenger hunt is all about — fresh, homegrown, warm-from-the-sun, pulled-from-the-stalk flavor.

Otherwise, it would be a lot simpler just to run to the market.

Bioterrorism, Global Food Supply Examined

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Women from across the nation flew into Washington, D.C. to hear the message of bioterrorism and how it affects their industry.

Speakers at the annual symposium emphasized the fact that food safety is separate from food security. Existing safeguards of protecting the nation's food supply are already an effective guard against accidental contamination.

Proven security measures have already been implemented voluntarily by many segments of ag industry according to Rob Byrne, vice president regulatory affairs of the National Milk Producers Federation.

Joan O'Brien, of The Women's National Agricultural Aviation Association, explained that Ag Aviators have taken additional safety and security precautions to protect against terrorist actions. Limited access to their equipment, tying down airplanes, chaining the propellers, and removing the batteries while the planes are not in use are just a few of the safeguards they have implemented.

To complete the schedule of events, American Agri-Women attended a White House briefing, had meetings with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Fish Wildlife and Parks, and the Department of Interior. Participants visited with representatives to discuss issues of concern and finalized the Fly In with a tour at the Pentagon.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and answers to questions.

Freezing Fruits

This is the third in a series of articles on freezing foods.

Freezing fruits involves the basic skills discussed previously including starting with fresh, firm, quality produce; working with small quantities; and keeping the freezer at 0 degrees F. or below.

Remember to lift produce out of the water when washing it so that the dirt washed off doesn't settle back on the food. Do not soak fruit. Avoid using galvanized, copper, or iron equipment because the acid in the fruit could react with the metals to form harmful compounds or off flavors.

During freezing, the water in the fruit expands and breaks the cell walls. That is why thawed fruits sometimes have a soft, mushy texture. This is more noticeable in more watery fruits such as cantaloupe or honeydew melon. To maintain as much of the crisp texture as possible, fruits should be frozen at the lowest possible setting on the freezer. Nutritional loss is lower when the freezer is cold, and a constant storage temperature helps in retention of quality.

Fluctuating temperatures causes damage to the texture as the ice melts and then refreezes in the cell.

Browning or discoloration can be a problem in light colored fruits such as peaches, apples, pears, and apricots. Ascorbic acid or vitamin C is the most effective way to prevent this. Commercial ascorbic acid mixtures are also available. Citric acid and lemon juice are sometimes used but are less effective and may affect the flavor of the fruit.

Iowa State University Extension Service also identifies a solution of sodium bisulfite (USP grade) as an antidarkening agent. However it may be difficult to find and should not be used if individuals are sulfite sensitive.

Scalding or steaming is sometimes used to prevent browning for fruits that will be cooked before use.

Although fruit may be packed unsweetened, the flavor, color, and texture of most fruits are retained best when fruit is packed with some sweetening. You can use either a dry sugar or a syrup pack. The type of pack will depend on the intended use.

Fruits packed in syrup are usually best for uncooked dessert use. Fruits packed in dry sugar or unsweetened are best for most cooking purposes because there is less liquid in the product.

When using a dry sugar pack, a three to one ratio is usually used. That means three pounds of fruit to one pound of sugar or one quart fruit to ½ cup sugar. Less sugar can be used according to taste.

Sprinkle the sugar over the fruit and gently stir until fruit is coated with sugar and juice forms. Soft sliced fruits such as peaches, strawberries, figs, deseeded grapes, plums and cherries will yield sufficient syrup for covering if the fruit is layered with sugar and allowed to stand 15 minutes.

The proportion of sugar to water in a syrup pack depends upon the sweetness of the fruit to be frozen. A 40 percent syrup is used for most fruits while a lighter syrup is desirable for mild-flavored fruits to prevent masking of flavors. Heavier syrup may be needed for very sour fruits. A 30 percent syrup uses two cups sugar to four cups water. A 40 percent syrup uses three cups sugar to four cups water. Make the sugar syrup by dissolving the sugar in the water over heat. Chill and use just enough to cover the fruit. Each pint will require ½ to ⅔ cup syrup. Keep the fruit under the syrup with a small piece of crumpled, water-resistant wrapping material on top of the fruit.

Fruit may be frozen without sugar for use in jams, jellies, pies, or for special diets. Fruit may also be packed in its own juice, other fruit juices, or water to which an anti-darkening agent is added.

Unsweetened packs generally yield a product that does not have the plump texture and good color of those packed with sugar. The fruits freeze harder and take longer to thaw. However, gooseberries, currants, cranberries, blueberries, raspberries, steamed apples, and rhubarb freeze well without sugar.

Artificial sweeteners may be used in any of the unsweetened packs. Saccharin and aspartame work well in frozen products, or they can be added to the fruit just before serving. Artificial sweeteners give a sweet flavor but do not furnish the beneficial effects of sugar such as color protection and firmness. Use directions on the sugar substitute container to determine the amount of sweetener needed.

Pectin syrup can be used to freeze fruits that have a poor texture when frozen without sugar. Susan Reynolds of the University of Florida suggests pectin syrup as a solution to improving the texture of fruits such as strawberries or peaches frozen in water or juice.

To make pectin syrup combine one package powdered pectin and one cup water in a saucepan. Heat to boiling and boil one minute. Remove from heat and add 1¾ cups more water. Cool. Makes about three cups of moderately thick syrup. Add more water if thinner syrup is desired.

Pack fruit into pectin syrup as you would any syrup pack. This is an expensive alternative to freezing in a sugar syrup but may be a good choice for those on special diets.

Use frozen fruits within 8 to 12 months for best quality. Unsweetened fruits lose their quality faster than those sweetened with sugar or syrup. To use frozen fruits, thaw the fruit in the refrigerator in its original package. For faster defrosting, the package can be submerged in lukewarm water or partially defrosted in the microwave oven.

Many people prefer frozen fruit with a few ice crystals still remaining because completely thawed fruits will be limp or mushy.

Blue Ribbons Await

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — If you're famous throughout your community and social circles for delicious, mouthwatering, homemade jams and jellies, then it's time to receive statewide recognition for your talent.

Sure•Jell® Fruit Pectin is once again sponsoring the jam and jelly competition at the Somerset County Fair. Entries will be judged on appearance, texture and taste. Blue ribbons, cash prizes and gift bags will be awarded to the best jam and jelly makers. All participants will receive a free entrants bag containing several "goodies" that will prove helpful in preparing jams and jellies.

Deadline for entering this competition is Aug. 17. Be sure to check the competition rules and guidelines before selecting and preparing jam and jelly recipes for submission. Judging will take place before the Somerset County Fair, which runs from Aug. 18-24. For complete details and official competition rules, contact the state fair office at (814) 634-8187.

This morning I write my article while my husband lays in bed to rest his back. The house is quiet except for the ticking of the Grandfather's clock. I decided to see just how different my life was 50 years ago. So, I got my 1952 diary out of a drawer.

At that time our daughter was almost four and our son was almost two. They pulled each other in an express wagon and liked to watch the pen of little pigs.

Every morning I washed the milking equipment in a tank of water and then put it on a metal rack to dry. There were eggs to gather and clean by hand too. I was picking green and yellow beans and trying to keep the asparagus bed weed free. We had no freezer, so we rented lockers in a nearby small town. I also mentioned that the heifers kept getting into the garden.

After church on Sunday, I wrote the minutes of the Lancaster County Extension Service as I was secretary for 15 years. I also mentioned that a great aunt took our whole family of 19 people for a restaurant meal, which was something different than usual.

During the last week of July 1952, we inquired about the cost of having a bathroom put into our 1813 house. One almost forgets the inconvenience of running outside to a toilet.

Each week I mowed our hilly yard with a small push mower. My mother was given a bouquet of flowers as I drove by her home when I took the 21-month-old boy to the doctor as he had a fever. My sister came to say "goodbye" as she was driving to the west coast to meet her husband who was in the Army.

My husband combined wheat and built a new truck bed. He also bought a watermelon for us at a farmers' market. Often he made ice cream for family gatherings. Many people used our meadow for picnics as it was surrounded by the Conestoga River. We asked 25 cents for them to park there, picnic, and fish. Money was scarce.

Quilt Odyssey To Open Aug. 1 In Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Quilt Odyssey 2002, an annual judged quilt show and exhibits, will take place at the Eisenhower Inn and the AllStar Events Center, 2638 Emmitsburg Road, Gettysburg, Aug. 1-4.

Hours open to the public are Thursday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. (Friday till 8 p.m.) and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. On exhibit will be the quilts from the annual quilt contest sponsored by All American Crafts Publishing Inc., Bernina, Brother, Husqvarna-Viking, Kona Bay, P&B Textiles, Pfaff, and Roxanne Products.

In the same location as the quilt show will be an antique quilt exhibit of quilts of the first half of the 20th Century sponsored by members of the American Quilt Study Group and Friends, an exhibit of cathedral window quilts, and the exhibit, "From the Hearts of Children." Also there will be a large Merchants Mall of more than 80 merchants offering the latest in fabric, quilting gadgets, supplies, books, furniture, antique quilts, and related gift merchandise.

The exhibit, "From the Hearts of Children," features 14 unique quilts assembled from 12-inch blocks made by children in response to the events of Sept. 11. As part of the WTC/Pentagon/Pa. Memorial Quilt Project (www.wtcmemorialquilt.com), children of all ages were asked to make 12-inch blocks using fabric, paint, crayons, etc. They received approximately 18,000 quilt blocks from all over the world. Each block will be sewn into a quilt, with 25 blocks per quilt: these are called "panels."

The Memorial Panels are finished and in Arizona being inked with a victim's name. Some are being assembled into quilts, which will be given to burn victims and to people who lost family members Some quilts will be auctioned off, all proceeds of which will be given to the Twin Towers Orphan Relief Fund.

In this area, 14 children's quilts were completed with the help of Quilters Unlimited, a nonprofit Virginia quilt guild. Of these 14, one quilt will go to each D.C. area school which lost a child or a teacher; one quilt will be given to each "Ground Zero" school displaced by the tragedy; one quilt will be given to the National Geographic office in D.C. which lost two representatives who were accompanying the school children on the National Geographic sponsored trip to New York; and one quilt will be given to the NYFD Chaplain's office. There is a story for just about every block. Some children included little notes with their blocks and messages of hope.

This year, Quilt Odyssey is working with ABC Quilts through Director Pam Worthen. ABC Quilts is a nonprofit international network of quilters and educators who make crib quilts for children who are born at-risk (HIV positive, drug or alcohol addicted, or abandoned).Part of Quilt Odyssey 2002 is a quilt symposium offering evening lectures to the public.

On Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Pat Campbell will present a few slides and a trunk show of her quilts in "Applique Inspirations."

For more information about this annual event, contact Melissa Molino at (717) 423-5148 or visit the Website, www.quilt-odyssey.com.

Simply Delicious Summertime Vegetables

Grilled steak combined with fresh vegetables and wild rice makes a delightful salad.

VEGETABLE PIZZA

2 packages refrigerated crescent rolls
11-ounces cream cheese
⅓ cup real mayonnaise
1 teaspoon dill weed
1 teaspoon dry ranch dressing powder
1 cup shredded cheese
3 cups chopped fresh vegetables of your choice

Place crescent roll dough over large cookie sheet and bake as directed. Cool. Mix cream cheese and mayonnaise. Add dill weed and ranch powder. Spread on cooled crust. Top with chopped fresh vegetables. Sprinkle cheese on top. Chill.

CORN, LIMAS, RED PEPPER STIR FRY

6 slices bacon
6 ears corn
2 medium-size red bell peppers, sliced, diced
2 cups baby lima beans
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

Fry bacon until crisp in a large skillet. Remove and drain on paper towels. Cut the corn kernels from the cob and add to hot bacon fat along with the peppers, lima beans, salt and pepper; stir fry over medium-high heat until vegetables are tender but crunchy, about 8 minutes.

Top with crumbled bacon and serve immediately.

SWISS-STYLE GREEN BEANS

4 cups fresh green beans
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 cup water
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups sour cream
1½ teaspoon salt
6 ounces Swiss or white American cheese, grated
½ cup slivered almonds

In a 2-quart saucepan, bring beans, onion, and water to a boil for 10 minutes. Drain. Put beans and onions in buttered 1½ quart casserole. In a 1-quart casserole, melt the butter. Blend in the flour until smooth. Gradually add sour cream and salt, stirring constantly with a wire whip. Fold in grated cheese. Pour cheese sauce over beans. Top with almonds and bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. This dish is very rich. For a milder flavor, use white American cheese.

SWEET VIDALIA ONION CUSTARD BREAD

2 tablespoons butter
1 large sweet Vidalia onion, halved and sliced
1¾ cup all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
1 large egg, slightly beaten
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese

Topping:
¼ cup shredded cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons reserved caramelized onion
1 tablespoon poppy seed
1 tablespoon butter, melted

In large skillet, melt butter over medium heat, saute onions 10-15 minutes or until light golden brown. Reserve 2 tablespoon onions for topping. In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder, and salt. Stir in milk, egg, and cheese. Add remaining onion. Pour into greased 9-inch deep-sided pie plate.

Topping: Sprinkle bread with cheese, served onion and poppy seed. Drizzle butter over top of bread. Bake at 400 degrees until golden brown, about 25-35 minutes. Cool slightly, cut into wedges and serve warm.

Makes 6-8 servings.

Fresh vegetables offer an abundance of taste, variety, and essential nutrition.

For those who don't grow their own vegetables, an abundance of the best is offered at roadside stands. In Pennsylvania, more than 3,000 growers raise more than 30 different vegetable crops on more than 40,000 acres of farmland and in 60 acres of greenhouses.

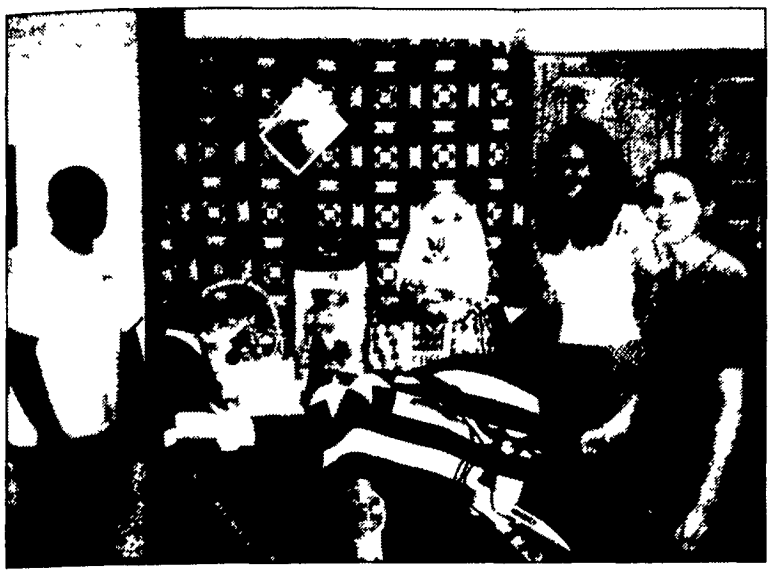
Many roadside stands also offer recipe cards on using fresh produce. These are provided by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in support of the Pennsylvania Produce Simply Delicious program.

Look for the recipes cards. Here is one for your enjoyment.

GRILLED STEAK AND ROASTED VEGETABLE SALAD

Olive oil cooking spray
1 medium zucchini, sliced diagonally into 1-inch pieces
1 medium eggplant, peeled, sliced diagonally into 1-inch pieces
1 large bell pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
1 medium onion, cut into 1-inch wedges
16 button mushrooms
2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon dried rosemary
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound boneless beef top loin steaks, 1-inch thick
¼ teaspoon salt
8 cups torn mixed salad greens
¼ cup nonfat or low fat Italian dressing

Lightly spray 15x10-inch baking sheet with sides with olive oil spray. Arrange zucchini, eggplant, bell pepper, onion, and mushrooms on oiled sheet. Generously spray vegetables with olive oil spray. In small bowl, combine vinegar, garlic, rosemary, and pepper. Sprinkle over vegetables. Roast in 425-degree oven for 30 minutes or until tender, stirring once during roasting. Meanwhile, heat grills or large non-stick skillet over medium heat. Arrange steaks on grill or hot skillet. Cook 12-15 minutes or to desired doneness, turning once during cooking. Remove from heat and season with salt. Let stand 10 minutes. Trim fat and slice into thin strips. Arrange salad greens on four serving plates. Arrange beef and vegetables on greens. Drizzle with Italian dressing. Serve immediately. Serves 4.



Lebanon County 4-H members from left, Alex Werner, Jennifer Watson, and Dianna Zackey, preview some of the items that will be up for bid on Thursday, Aug. 1 as part of the Lebanon County 4-H Benefit Auction, Lebanon Fairgrounds.

Auction To Benefit Lebanon County 4-H Program

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — On Thursday, Aug. 1, the 21st annual Lebanon County 4-H Auction is scheduled to benefit 4-H youth and adult leader education and leadership programs. Featuring items sure to appeal to the avid auction bidder, sale items include farm toys, handmade craft items, collectibles, movie passes, gift certificates to area restaurants and businesses, specialty gift baskets and much more.

The auction is a fund raiser for the county 4-H development fund and organizers hope to raise more than $4,000 this year. The Lebanon County 4-H board of directors coordinates the event and contacts over 100 area businesses and crafts persons for donations.

The auction includes special theme gift baskets assembled by the members of the county 4-H clubs and Farm Women societies. Clubs have selected themes based on their 4-H projects such as dairy, horse, goat, or a more general theme such as a, "Welcome to the Community" or "Pennsylvania Products" basket.

The auction will be conducted from 6 p.m.-9 p.m. in the North Hall of the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, Cornwall and Rocherty Roads, Lebanon as part of the Lebanon Area Fair. The money raised helps to fund educational materials, member and leader activity fees, transportation costs, and awards for the county's 1,450 4-H members and 162 adult volunteer leaders.

For more information or to make a donation, contact the Lebanon County Extension Office at (717) 270-4391 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

What Flavor Is Your Credit Card?

Did you know that credit cards come in three different flavors?

Each flavor has its own special features and conditions. Understanding the advantages and disadvantages of each type of card will help you decide which card is right for you or your family member.

The most common credit card is the unsecured card. You, the borrower, agree to pay the card issuer, the lender, the amount you charge, or borrow, each month. The card issuer looks to your good faith effort as the sole source of repayment of the amount owed. There is no collateral to look to if you default on repayment. The credit limit on your account is the maximum amount you are authorized to borrow at any given time.

Do you think of your credit card as a personal line of credit? Probably not, but that's what it is. The Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is the yearly interest rate. This is like the interest rate on your mortgage or auto loan. The APR is converted to a daily rate when it is used to calculate any finance charge you may owe. Like any other type of loan there is a payment due date and penalties for late payments.

Unlike a fixed amount, fixed term loan, credit cards give you some choice on the amount you have to repay each month. And, of course, the credit card can be used for a variety of purchases in many different locations.

The way you manage your unsecured credit card account is reported to credit reporting agencies. If you manage your credit cards according to terms, your credit report will show that you are financially responsible.

If you have a large outstanding balance, charge over your credit limit, or have a history of late payments, this information will also be part of your credit report.

If you apply for new credit, such as a car loan or home mortgage, negative information may cause you to be charged a higher interest rate or even to be denied the loan.

Secured credit cards are similar to unsecured credit cards in that they may be used to purchase goods and services. But a secured card requires you to open and maintain a savings account as security for your line of credit. Your credit limit is a percentage of your deposit, typically 50 to 100 percent. Normally, you will be paid interest on your security deposit although certainly at a much lower rate than you will pay on an outstanding account balance. You may also have to pay an application fee and a processing fee — sometimes totaling hundreds of dollars.

Secured credit cards usually have an annual fee and higher interest rate than an unsecured card. You receive a statement and make payments as you would with an unsecured card. The security deposit is used only if you fail to pay.

While expensive, this type of card is useful for establishing or rebuilding your credit. Of course, you must manage your account well in order to accomplish this goal. The Federal Trade Commission cautions consumers that some advertisements for secured cards may omit important information, so be particularly cautious if you want to apply for a secured card.

A third type of credit card is a prepaid credit card. Much like a prepaid phone card, the purchaser buys a card with a specific value. The card user then can make purchases up to the value of the card at a variety of locations. Prepaid credit cards are marketed as a gift idea or as a way to introduce teens to management of credit cards. This type of card is preferable to a store gift card because it allows the young person to comparison shop. And it does give parents a way to monitor their child's spending while giving them some freedom to make their own choices.

Many prepaid cards can be "reloaded" via phone or Internet using another credit card. But take note that the prepaid card does not allow the user to establish a credit history.

Schuylkill County Ag Museum Expands

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — Since early this spring, members of the Schuylkill County Agricultural Museum have been setting up displays in their new addition to the original museum building. The addition doubles the size of the museum and is already almost filled to capacity with different displays.

While at the museum one will be able to follow different types of antique equipment that start with land tillage and end with the harvesting of a crop. Smaller display areas depict other aspects of past rural life with an old farm kitchen area, a wood shop, and other displays of small equipment used in the home, farm, and businesses of days gone by.

The newest highlight of the museum is the engine room. Here many Ag Museum members have vintage tractors and hit and miss engines on display. The most unique museum tractor is the "Victory Garden Tractor" which was constructed in the late 20s from old model "A" car parts and used originally to plow snow in Deer Lake before there was a Deer Lake. Another prized piece is the 40 hp Bessemer hit and miss engine.

In a pavilion portion of the building provisions are being made to install a belt driven 65' Frick saw mill.The Schuylkill County Fair runs July 29 through Aug. 3 and for more information visit www.schuylkillfair.com or call the fairgrounds at (570) 754-FAIR.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to LGOOD.EPH@LNPNEWS.COM

QUESTION — A Perry County reader wants a recipe for pickle relish that tastes similar to that served at food stands that sell hot dogs.

QUESTION — Penny Haber from Bucks County writes that for several years she has used a Victoria Squeezo Strainer to prepare her tomatoes for canning. She has also tried to use it to prepare strawberries and raspberries for jelly making but the proportions have turned out wrong. She would appreciate if readers who have successfully prepared fruit this way send instructions and the proportions of sugar, fruit pectin, and fruit they used.

QUESTION — A Lebanon County reader is looking for a ketchup recipe that was printed last year called "Mother-in-law's Delicious Ketchup."

QUESTION — A Hegins reader wants recipes for serving turnips.

QUESTION — A reader from Greencastle writes than many years ago her grandmother made pan cake using corn meal. The cakes were soft and crunchy. The reader said her experiments with making corn meal pan cakes turn out thick like pancakes. She would like thin-crunchy ones. She has tried many different recipes with no luck. Can anyone help her?

QUESTION — Karen Ramseur, Williamstown, N.J., writes that she attended the Kutztown Pennsylvania German Festival recently. A Pennsylvania German cooking presentation demonstrated drying corn on a double-walled pan with a funnel adaptor at one end to add water. She also attended the country auction featured at the festival and brought a vegetable dryer. Anyone have recipes to instruct her how to dry vegetables? Karen also thanks readers who sent in "wonderful" lemon jelly and cornbread recipes in answer to her requests.

QUESTION — A reader requests the recipe for baked French toast made with a can of apple pie filling. The recipe had appeared recently in this column, she writes, but she lost it.

QUESTION — Gail Silveira would like a recipe for a corn, shrimp soup, which she recalls had been printed in a previous issue. Anyone have the recipe to which she is referring?

QUESTION — Eva Burrell, Glen Gardner, N.J., wants to know how to make filet of beef on the grill by using wet newspapers and encasing meat in a paste made with kosher salt and water. Years ago, the Burrells used this method but can't remember exactly how it was done or the time required to cook per pound. This made the best filet of beef Eva has ever tasted and she would like to use it for several cookouts.

QUESTION — Ferm Freeman, Elliottsburg, wants a recipe for black olive bread, which she thinks is a Greek recipe. She purchased some at the West Shore Farmers' Market in Lemoyne.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader would like a recipe for watermelon wine and other flavors.

QUESTION — Dave Wilder, Gladwyne, grows lingonberries in Berks County. He wants to know uses for this Old World fruit. The Latin name, Wilder writes, is Vacciniam vitis-idaea. Native varieties are sometimes called cowberry.

QUESTION — Martha Weaver, East Earl, would like homemade wine recipes that are sugarless.

QUESTION — Mrs. Thomas Vandzuna, Portage, requests a recipe for sweet sausage. Her son brought some and they love it. Their family buys half a hog and mixes its own mix, and would like to try sweet sausage the next time.

QUESTION — Stephanie Luckenbaugh, Abbottstown, requests a good recipe to make Lebanon bologna.

QUESTION — Sue Hurley, Newville, requests recipes to make different kinds of instant powdered tea mixes, such as raspberry and peach.

QUESTION — Rosalie Nolt wants a recipe for New England clam chowder, similar to Friendly's or Campbell's soup.

ANSWER — Stephanie Luckenbaugh, Abbottstown, wanted a recipe for Baby Ruth Cookies. Thanks for Pat Elligson, Millers, Maryland, for sending in a recipe.

Baby Ruth Cookies

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
1⅓ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 Baby Ruth candy bars, chopped

Cream butter and sugar well. Add eggs and vanilla, mix well.

Combine flour, baking soda, and salt and add to creamed mixture. Stir in chopped candy bars.

Drop by rounded teaspoon two inches apart onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for about 10 minutes.

Remove immediately to a wire rack to cool Makes about four dozen.

Baked Potato Soup

⅔ cup butter
⅔ cup flour
7 cups milk
4 large potatoes, baked, cooled, peeled, and cubed (about four cups)
4 green onions, sliced
12 bacon strips, fried, crumbled
1¼ cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 cup sour cream
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

In a large soup kettle, melt butter, stir in flour, and gradually add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Add cubed potatoes and sliced onions. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients, stirring until cheese is melted. Serve immediately.

This is a delicious soup but rich. For a lighter version, cut back on the sour cream and add a little more milk.

ANSWER — A Dauphin County reader wants to know how to make ketchup that tastes like the Heinz brand. Thanks to a reader for sending in the following recipe.

Homemade Ketchup

½ bushel tomatoes
6 large onions
8 cups sugar
6 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1½ cups vinegar

Cook tomatoes until soft and juicy. Drain through a cheesecloth for two hours. Meanwhile, cut up onions and cook until soft. Put onions through the blender, then into a large kettle to cook the ketchup.

Add tomato pulp (discard drained juice). Boil onions and pulp 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add remaining ingredients, stirring well, and bring to a good boil. Ladle boiling hot into sterilized jars and cap. Or process in water bath or pressure cooking according to directions. Delicious!

ANSWER — Patricia Pfleegor, Milton, requested a recipe for Burnt Sugar Cake. Thanks to Arvilla Keeny, New Freedom, for sending the following recipe.

Burnt Sugar Cake

1¾ cups sugar
¼ cup boiling water
¾ cup shortening
3 eggs, separated
2¾ cups cake flour (may use 2¼ cups all-purpose flour and ½ cup corn starch sifted together four times)
½ teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt ½ cup sugar in a heavy saucepan. Add boiling water and stir well. Set aside to cool.

Cream shortening, add remaining sugar gradually (1¼ cups). Add beat egg yolks and mix thoroughly. Sift flour, measure and sift with salt and baking powder. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Beat thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla and burnt sugar mixture. Blend well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased layer pans. Bake at 350 degrees 25-30 minutes. Makes two 9-inch layers.

ANSWER — Thanks to the reader who sent in this recipe in answer to a Pine Grove reader's request for soft pretzel recipes.

Cinnamon Sugar Soft Pretzels

¾ cup warm water
1 tablespoon yeast
⅓ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup all-purpose flour
1¼ cup bread flour

Dissolve yeast in water. Add the remaining ingredients and knead well. Let rise 15 minutes. Roll in pretzel shapes and dip in baking soda water (½ cup hot water and 2 tablespoons baking soda). Sprinkle with pretzel salt, place on greased cookie sheets. Bake at 550 degrees for 10 minutes or until golden brown.

Brush with melted butter, roll in cinnamon sugar mixture: 2 cups sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons cinnamon.

Yield: 12 pretzels. Note: Leftover cinnamon mixture keeps well in airtight container.

Thanks to another reader for sending in a recipe that her family thinks results in pretzels that taste like Aunt Annie's.

Delicious Soft Pretzels

1 cup warm water
1 tablespoon yeast
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter
3 cups occident flour

Measure water and yeast into a bowl, stir until dissolved; add sugar, salt, and butter. Add 2 cups flour, beat well. Add remaining cup of flour until a stiff dough results. Knead 5 minutes or until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl; grease top and let rise approximately 40 minutes. Divide dough in half and each half into six parts. Roll each piece into a rope, about 20-inches long. Shape into a pretzel, place on greased cookie sheet. Let rise 5 minutes. Dip pretzels quickly into a boiling baking soda solution: 1 pint water and 2 teaspoons baking soda. Sprinkle with pretzel salt. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. Dip into butter as soon as removed from oven. Sprinkle with cinnamon, sour cream, and onion powder or whatever you desire.

ANSWER — Thanks to Lydia Sheaffer, Shermas Dale, for sending in a two different methods to make sauerkraut.

Homemade Sauerkraut To Can

½ cup salt
4-6 large heads cabbage to make 8-quarts shredded cabbage
4 quarts boiling water

Mix ½ cup salt with shredded cabbage in large container. Pour boiling water over cabbage. Pack into three one-gallon crocks. Cover with clean white cloths and a saucer. Let stand one month in cool place.

Pack into 8 hot sterilized jars and seal. Boil one hour in boiling water canner. Let jars set in canner until water becomes cool. Store jars in cool place. Makes 8 quarts.

Another method is to pack shredded cabbage loosely into jars. Put 1 tablespoon salt in each jar. Cover with boiling water. Seal and let stand six weeks in cool place before using. Makes 8 quarts.

ANSWER — Thanks to Sally Ann Stoltzfus, Gap, for sending in a Bisquick mix recipe with several recipes to use it.

Bisquick Mix

5 pounds flour
¾ cup baking powder
2 tablespoons cream of tartar
2 pounds shortening
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons salt

Mix dry ingredients well. Cut in shortening to make fine crumbs. Use as you would any Bisquick. Keeps well in tightly-covered container.

Pancakes

3 cups mix
1 egg
1½ cups milk

Mix together and fry in skillet until done.

Pizza Crust

2¼ cups mix
½ cup water

Mix together mix and water. Form into pizza crust. Top with favorite sauce, cheese, and toppings. Bake in 425-degree oven until done.

Biscuits

3 cups mix
⅔ cup milk

Mix together ingredients and bake in 350 degree oven until done.

Shortcake

3 cups mix
1 egg
1 cup milk

Mix together ingredients and press mixture into cake pan or form into individual shortcakes. Bake in 425 degree oven for 7-10 minutes.

Holly Moyer Crowned Schuylkill Dairy Princess

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — At the Quality Inn and Suite in Pottsville recently, Holly Moyer, 18, was crowned Schuylkill County dairy princess. She is the daughter of Paul and Lucinda Moyer of Bernville. She resides on her parent's farm, Peek-A-View Holsteins, where she owns 20 of the 350 head of dairy cows.

Holly graduated June 6, from Tulpehocken High School and will be attending Johnson College in the fall to major in vet technician.

Audrie Wolfe, 8, was also crowned Schuylkill County little dairy miss. Audrie lives in Pine Grove with her parents, Mark and Amy Wolfe, on their family farm. She will be entering the third grade at Pine Grove Elementary.

Lindsay Kurtz, 14, was given the title of dairy ambassador and Madeline Daubert, 9; Victoria Daubert, 12; Amanda Hinkel, 9; Kassandra Moyer, 7; Tabitha Moyer, 9; Wynonna Moyer, 9; and Shelly Rex, 11; were given the title of dairy maids.

For Holly's skit she portrayed a cheerleader with an educational and fun skit for young children to get involved in. At the end she shared a cheer that she had designed and had everyone involved.

Schuylkill County Dairy Princess Holly Moyer and Audrie Wolfe, little dairy miss work together to promote the dairy industry.

In Holly's speech, she tried to convince milk producers that the quality of their milk is very important and should be the first thing that comes to mind when they are out in public with consumers. Holly stressed that quality should be promoted with the product. She ended her speech with a catchy phrase that she came up with. "Milk?! Bring It On!"

Centre-Clinton Raise Funds For Dairy Promotion

BELLEFONTE (Centre Co.) — The Centre-Clinton Holstein Club conducted its annual Holstein picnic for Centre County and Clinton County dairy farmers on June 19. It took place at Ebon-Blanc Holsteins, farm of Tom and Lori Hartle of Bellefonte. The Centre Hall Lions Club helped with the pork picnic and clean-up. About 150 people attended including special attendees, Ken Rainey, executive director of Pa. Holstein Association; Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes, Kerry Benninghoff and Connie Lucas, local politicians.

Also in attendance were Amanda Gates, Centre County dairy princess and Ashley Bird, Centre County alternate dairy princess. The Centre County dairy promotion committee conducted an auction to raise $804 for the dairy princess incentive awards and scholarships. Thanks to auctioneer Jim Smith and Fred Strouse for helping with the auction. After the picnic Tom and Lori showed their new freestall barn with tunnel ventilation. The Hartles milk 150 cows in a Double 8 Germania Herringbon milking parlor.

Centre County Dairy Princess Amanda Gates and Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. attend the Centre-Clinton Holstein club picnic and auction.

Kid Fun At Chester County Field Day

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — When 11-year-old Kelly King was asked to draw a name for the door prize given away at Chester County Dairy Field Day, she walked to the front of the tent.

"Now draw your own name," the emcee of the event said as he held out a box full of entries.

She did.

Kelly King 11, is the recipient of this calf, the door prize at Chester County Field Day. Ironically, her brother Colton was last year's winner. They are the children of Neal and Mary Lou King, who milk 111 head on their Cochranville farm.

"You'd think this was rigged," the stunned emcee said as hundreds of onlookers gasped in amazement at Kelly's amazing feat.

Even more astonishing is that Kelly's brother Colton was last year's calf recipient at the same event.

The siblings are the children of Neal and Mary Lou King, Cochranville. They milk 111 Holsteins, so the prize-winning calf will fit right into the family's herd.

Although only one calf was given away at the day-long event, plenty of other fun was enjoyed by children.

One is never too young to enjoy an ice cream cone on a hot day. Shown is Jason Breckbill, 2, son of Dennis and Susan Breckbill, Oxford.

Rebecca Smoker, 2, is eager to drink chocolate milk. She is the daughter of Jay and Martha Smoker, Atglen.

Plenty of old friends and new ones to meet appeal to the preteen and teen crowd.

Peeping through the calf hutch is Myah Troop, 4, daughter of Jeremiah and Charlene Troop, Cochranville.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Cumberland County 4-H Speak-Out Night

Cumberland County 4-H Speak-Out Night was conducted at the First United Presbyterian Church in Newville.

Forty-two 4-H members presented 41 presentations — 16 radio spots, eight demonstrations, five impromptu speeches, two public speeches and 10 pledge presentations.

The pledge presentation contest was new for 2002 in this division the club member is judged on his/her ability to present the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H Pledge.

Judges for the event included Ben Barber, WIOO radio; Gene Miller, Carlisle Rotary Club; and 4-H leaders — Kathy Walton, Melanie Cochran, Debbie Cornman and Betsy Space.

Judges choice ribbons were presented to the top individuals in each category.

Radio spots: Junior Presenters — Darby Garman, Mifflin 4-H Club; and Clayton Weber, County-Wide 4-H Dairy Club. Senior presenters — Carrie McLaughlin, Mary Strasbaugh, and Katie Gossert, 4-H Horse Club.

Pledge presentation contest: Junior presenters — Grace Gutshall, 4-H Livestock Club, and Katie McCorriston, Condoguinet 4-H Sheep Club. Senior presenter — Amy Kaucher, County-Wide 4-H Dairy Club.

Senior impromptu speeches: Senior presenters — Amy Kaucher, County-Wide 4-H Dairy Club, and Mary Strasbaugh, 4-H Horse Club.

Public speeches: Senior presenters — Melissa Detman, County-Wide 4-H Dairy Club.

4-H demonstrations: Junior presenters — Hannah Lopp, 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club; Madison Miller, Centerville Cut-Outs; and Crystal Lehman, Mifflin 4-H Club. Senior presenters — Susan Thomas and Gwen Thomas, 4-H Horse Club.

A drawing was conducted and each club present had an opportunity to win a pizza party. The Cumberland County 4-H Rabbit Club won the pizza party sponsored by Papa John's Pizza. Members also received certificates to Massey's Frozen Custard, Wendy's, Sports Emporium and Duffy's Miniature Golf.

Delaware County 4-H Receives Grant

Penn State Cooperative Extension, Delaware County, has announced the receipt of a $10,000 grant from the Ethel Sergeant Clark Smith Memorial Fund. The money provided by the Fund will be used to support the county 4-H program that serves more than 6,000 children in Delaware County. This gift will enable the 4-H program to purchase much needed equipment and provide enhanced program opportunities to youth participants.

4-H is open to all children in Delaware County, as long as they meet the age requirements of eight years and not more than 18 (as of Jan. 1 of the current year). Please call the cooperative extension office at (610) 690-2655 for more information.

Delaware County 4-H Summer Fair

The public is invited to visit the Delaware County 4-H Summer Fair, Friday, Aug. 16 from 5-8 p.m. and Saturday, Aug. 17 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. It will take place rain or shine and is the only agricultural fair in Delaware County.

The fair site is the 4-H Farm and Educational Center on the property of the Garrett Williamson Foundation, 395 Bishop Hollow Road, Newtown Square. Admission is free and includes livestock and horse shows, a vegetable show, 4-H project exhibits and presentations, a silent auction and educational exhibits.

The Pennsylvania Wildlife Conservation officer will present a program at 6:30 p.m. Friday evening. Hayrides (Saturday, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.), and pony rides (Friday, 6-8 p.m.), refreshments, souvenirs, and craft making will be available at nominal cost.

More details are available from the 4-H office at (610) 690-2655.

North Jackson 4-H Ag Club

The North Jackson Ag Club met in Susquehanna County July 8 at the Pipitone's. To start the meeting off, the club said the American and 4-H pledges. Then Secretary Abby Onyon, gave roll call and the secretary's report.

Abby Onyon gave a summary on dairy camp, and then new business was discussed. The club is holding a fund raiser at the county horse show July 27, and 4-H day at Knoebels was cancelled.

Demonstrations were started. Katy Salansky did the first demonstration on different types of colic, and then Mike and Anthony Pipitone gave a demonstration on how to make sushi. Next Kelly Agler showed the club how to clean a horse bridle.

Following Kelly, Janet Merithew taught the club how to do a quick release knot. Next Megan Carrie talked to the club about horse industry, and Sarah Gardner told the club the precaution you should take if your horse gets a cut. John Valentine gave the last demonstration. He talked to the club about a Kenny Chesney concert he went to. The next meeting will be at the Pavelski's July 28.

Record Crowd Attends Chester County Field Day

LOU ANN GOOD

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — More than 200 people attended Chester County's Dairy Field Day at Duane and Marilyn Hershey's farm last week.

Touring the Hershey's recently-expanded dairy complex, farmers gleaned ideas to incorporate into their own operation.

Greeting new and old friends, participating in dairy judging, and indulging in the pit-barbecued pork were high on the agenda for enjoyment.

State Secretary Sam Hayes Jr. spoke of legislative programs fashioned to benefit farmers, the background of the state's economy. Hayes said that crop insurance, which has been revised to better suit the commonwealth's farmers, protects against nature's calamities.

In the past several years, farmer participation in the state has increased from 6,000 to 260,000 acres in the crop insurance program. The Department of Agriculture's budget allows for $2 million additional funds for crop insurance.

Hayes also praised the efforts to preserve 1,905 farms in the commonwealth. "The rally call is 'Preserve 2,002 farms in 2002,'" Hayes said.

The Yoder family, dairy farmers from Mifflin County, attended the Chester County event. Show are Bobbi Jean and her six daughters.

Secretary Sam Hayes Jr. said the two generations of Hersheys are representative of the dairy industry, which anchor of Pennsylvania's ag economy. Pennsylvania Rep. Art Hershey and his wife Joyce, at right, are pleased to have their son Duane and his wife Marilyn take over the family farm.

22-Year-Old Produces Products For The Planet

John Yoder grew up in town, but credits his grandfather for enabling him to establish a farmers' market.

During the unveiling of a special program to benefit Pennsylvania produce growers and the elderly population, Highland Ridge Farm welcomed customers and dignitaries.

designated to the senior citizens marketing program. Coupons are distributed through the Office of Aging to senior citizens to use at roadside markets such as Yoder's.

"Its (this program) is good for the growers and good for senior citizens," Hayes said.

Luba Somits, director for the Chester County Department of Aging, said that many clients have financial reverses but are too proud to ask for help. Somits said that she has been in homes where all they had to eat was a frozen raccoon. Although Chester County is considered one of the richest counties in the state, it has pockets of severe poverty.

Somits said that it is important for seniors to have a place where they can find top quality produce such as Yoders.

Yoder also contributes to the gleaning program, established to help feed 14,000 people in Chester County. Yoder's farm is one of 20 county farms that provided 24 tons of fresh produce for the program last year.

When Yoder was 13 years old, he worked for a vegetable grower in the area. Four years ago, Yoder started growing his own produce and selling them at a little stand under a tree in front of his grandfather's farm.

"My grandfather's (Aaron Kauffman's) influence is invaluable," Yoder said. "He advised me to find the best expert in the field and ask lots of questions.

"I learned as I went and from other growers and marketers," Yoder said.

"Innovative ideas, lots of advice and help from him," Yoder said enables him to successfully manage growing 15 acres of fully irrigated vegetables.

Yoder started with mostly sweet corn, but now grows tomatoes, cantaloupes, peppers, pumpkins, squash, cucumbers, and cut flowers that are marketed both wholesale and retail.

Yoder said that he contacted local grocery stores and provides top quality produce that he grows and some that he buys from other growers.

"Route 10 traffic really helps. Walmart brings lots of traffic past here which has been a plus for us," Yoder said.

Special events are planned throughout the year, but the largest promotion is the Fall Fest with hay rides, pick-your-own pumpkins, and food stands attract school classes and passers-by.

Helping Yoder are five family members (parents, siblings, and grandfather) and two employees.

Yoder said that he most enjoys the production end. The most challenging is that everything needs to done at the same time — "but that's the nature of this business," he said.

Garden Celebrates Vines And Roses

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — 2002 is The Year of the Rose and what better way for Hershey Gardens to celebrate its original heritage than with a rose festival — A Day of Vines and Roses.

This important event will be conducted on Saturday, Aug. 3, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and will include tours, demonstrations, family activities, and music.

Visitors can learn how to start their own rose garden, how to make magnificent rose floral arrangements, and how to distinguish different types of roses and learn how to care for them. Tours of Hershey Gardens' renowned Rose Gardens will be every half hour throughout the event.

Children will be enchanted by stories from Miss Elizabeth Lady Beetle, and can make their own scented soap and rose crafted bookmarks. A scavenger hunt will capture their interest as they learn about nature and roses.

Whitcraft said all activities are included in general Hershey Gardens admission: $6 adults, $5.50 seniors 62 and up, and $3 ages 3-15. Members and children under 3 will be admitted free.

Hershey Gardens is a 23-acre botanical display garden located at 170 Hotel Road, Hershey.

Birdseed May Make Your Plants Sick

COLUMBUS, Ohio - What homeowners feed wild birds may not be very good for their plants and vegetable garden.

Ohio State University plant pathologists have found that sunflower seeds, promoted as the top choice of wild bird feed, may harbor a fungal pathogen that causes Sclerotinia stem rot in a wide range of native plants, herbaceous perennials, annual bedding plants, vegetables and woody ornamentals.

In a study, published in HortScience, the researchers analyzed 10 bags of various brands of commercial sunflower seeds purchased throughout Columbus, Ohio, and found that half of them contained resting structures of the fungus — all of which were 100 percent viable.

"Almost two percent of the contents of one bag was Sclerotinia resting structures. That may not sound like a lot, but when you use up a bag of sunflower seeds every three weeks for a year and each bag contains 1.7 percent of fungal spores, you're introducing a lot of Sclerotinia in your garden," said Steve Nameth, an Ohio State plant pathologist and one of the researchers of the study. "If you don't have problems with this disease in your garden, then it's not an issue. But if you do have problems, then this could be a source."

Sclerotinia stem rot, also known as cottony rot because it produces a distinctive cottony structure at the base of the plant's stem, is a major disease of sunflowers. The fungal pathogen replaces the seeds of the sunflower with resting spores, which slip through processing cracks and are inadvertently bagged in commercial wild bird feed as sunflower seeds.

"Commercial birdseed production is not an elaborate process," said Nameth. "If it was, you wouldn't be able to drop a few bucks at the local department store for a bag." Lack of attention to detail in processing, however, may cost homeowners that picture perfect plant or vegetable garden.

Sclerotinia stem rot has a host range of over 50 common ornamentals, a variety of vegetables including garden beans, lettuce and cucurbits, and even field crops like soybeans, wheat and alfalfa. The disease, which causes the plant to wilt and eventually die, can be spread two ways: either direct contact with the plant stem or wind-borne spores which can then land on a host and infect it.

"That is why finding Sclerotinia in commercial birdseed is such a concern," said Nameth. "Those spores can sit dormant for five or six years and once they come into contact with a host, they germinate like seed, attack the plant and produce a rot."

Nameth said homeowners and garden lovers can take some precautionary measures against spreading the disease, including switching to a different birdseed brand if they are experiencing problems with the brand they are using, and practicing good sanitation.

'Keep the area around birdfeeders clean. Many people pick up the hulls of sunflower seeds and use them in mulch," said Nameth. 'You really don't want to do that because all you're doing is inoculating the rest of your garden with the disease."

Nameth said to also keep a sharp eye on the feeding behavior of birds that visit the birdfeeder. "The resting spores may look similar and be the same size as sunflower seeds, but the birds won't eat them."

New Life For Sweltering Flower Gardens

"I spend a lot of time looking at catalogs, and I like added different varieties of peonies," Bowlan said. She recommends "Charm," a variety with thick stems that will stand erect and not fall over like many varieties.

"Peonies resent being moved. It's important to replant at the same level and to place in a spot with full sun," Bowlan said.

Peonies do not always bloom the first year after transplanting, she said, but when established will do well.

Bowlan improves soil fertility by using mushroom soil. "Most perennials thrive on it. Peonies love it, but irises hate it," she said.

Bowlan is executive director and president for the National Farm Transition Network, which requires traveling to many states. Maintaining a half of acre of flowers is an ever expanding hobby for her. Her husband, Frederic, said he does the grunt work. He also takes an interest in gardening, but he is more inclined to like square borders and straight lines. Bowlan likes circular designs and is more creative. Consequently, the couple designate different areas for his and her gardens.

Wolf's Collection Showcases Farm, Rural Memorabilia

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The lineup of shiny tractors, trucks, and cars stretches, two deep, from Stan Wolf's machine shed to an adjoining field.

To a novice, it appears to be a collection of restored machinery and vehicles. But to antique equipment buffs, the display is one of rare and unusual mechanized treasures. Some are original machines lovingly restored, while others are reproductions or adaptions of originals.

A museum of farm and rural memorabilia in one side of the spacious shop contains a wealth of ag antiquities and historic pieces, including the only known complete set of milk bottles from Adams County's 29 small dairy processors.

"I got my first old tractor about 35 years ago. Then, I thought I needed another. And another, and another," says Stan Wolf, a wide grin showing from under his broad-brimmed straw hat. Gettysburg farmer, retired bus firm owner, and agriculture antiques enthusiast, Wolf has prowled countryside sales and auctions for years in search of the next addition to his noted collection of farm and equipment antiques.

For every piece, from the salvaged and restored first self-propelled combine to tiny glass creamers in his personal farm memorabilia museum, Stan Wolf has an enthusiastic and interesting story.

Probably one of Wolf's best known pieces is "Ike's" tractor, a 1955 Model 40 Cockshutt "Black Hawk," The shiny, pale-yellow machine bears a plaque noting that "this tractor was given to President Eisenhower, November 30, 1955, by Farm Bureau, as a gift."

Wolf, whose family farm was not far from the Gettysburg Battlefield farm beloved by President Dwight D. "Ike" Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, adamantly believed that the historic tractor belonged in Adams County. So he kept bidding at a York County sale three years ago for this lynch-pin tractor to add to his series of Cockshutt models.

Now, the beautifully-restored tractor of presidential history, along with a golf cart given the former President by the Cushman company in 1955 and used on the Gettysburg farm, is frequently seen at area tractor shows. Wolf also lines them up, with others in his unique collection, for his annual, free, Memorial Day display open house at their property on Black Horse Tavern Road.

At one end of the lineup is a piece-de-resistance for antique equipment buffs, a restored prototype of the first self-propelled combine. Originally designed in 1940 by the Allis-Chalmers firm, the machine was devised at the request of the Army Corp of Engineers as a partial answer to the dilemma of farmers who saw their manual labor forces being drafted for World War II military service.

"There were five of them built," says Wolf, who reads and researches extensively for documentation of the rare pieces he treasures. "One is in a museum in England. Another was found in Tennessee after a lengthy search by a Luray, Virginia, collector."

The third and only other known one remaining in existence had long collected dust at Letterkenny Army Depot, north of Chambersburg. It was painted a dull, military-khaki-color, when Wolf first saw it, and had never been run for its intended purpose. Belts and webbing had dry-rotted from the long period of non-use. After extensive searching, Wolf was able to find replacement parts, including a webbing located in a distant county through Lancaster Farming's Mailbox Market.

Though some fellow collectors, as well as his wife, LaVaughne, urged Wolf not to change the color, he argued that the original — from Allis-Chalmers — had been orange, and not Army khaki. Since its restoration, this irreplaceable piece, painted shiny A-C orange, has attracted visitors like a magnet at antique events in eight states.

Wolf remembers the unusual colored tractor from his days of working his first job, at the Gettysburg area International Harvester dealership. In early 1950, the I-H company painted 580 "C" models white before shipping them to participating dealers, who had agreed to exhibit them at county fairs and farm shows in their areas of the country. The white color of the traditionally-red, Farmall model guaranteed them to get special attention, especially when young fellows like Wolf ran them in popular tractor rodeo events.

"I remember we had five white Farmall "C" models at Littlestown for a rodeo," says Wolf, of one local event. After the exhibit season had ended, the white demonstrator models were all hauled back to the dealers and painted the familiar I-H red before being sold to buyers.

Wolf searched diligently for one of the white demo-models, eventually finding his first at a sale in West Virginia. The white pair join a complete "set" of the Farmall's of the era lined up in Wolf's collection, models A, C, H, and M.

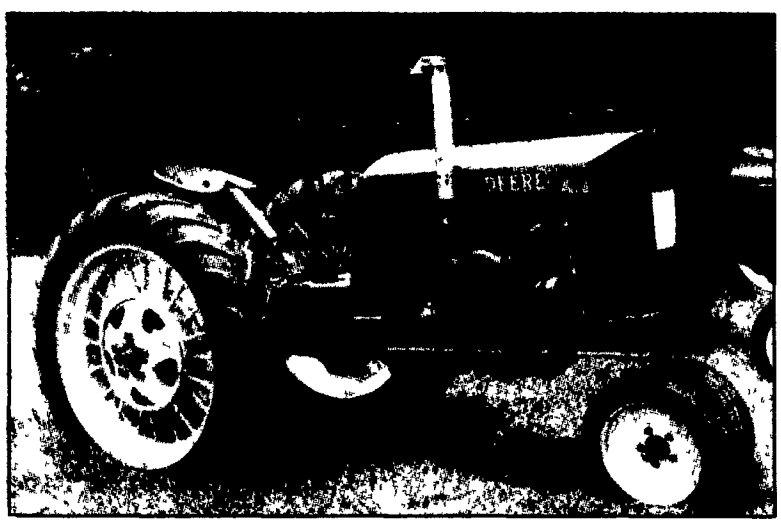
An assortment of lesser-known tractors add to the interest in Wolf's extensive collection of rarities. For instance, there's the unusual 1948 "A" Long tractor, manufactured in Tarboro, North Carolina, distinguished by its unique paint scheme — a red body accented with bright green wheels.

"There were only 17 of those made and about eight are restored," says Wolf of this obscure piece of farm equipment history.

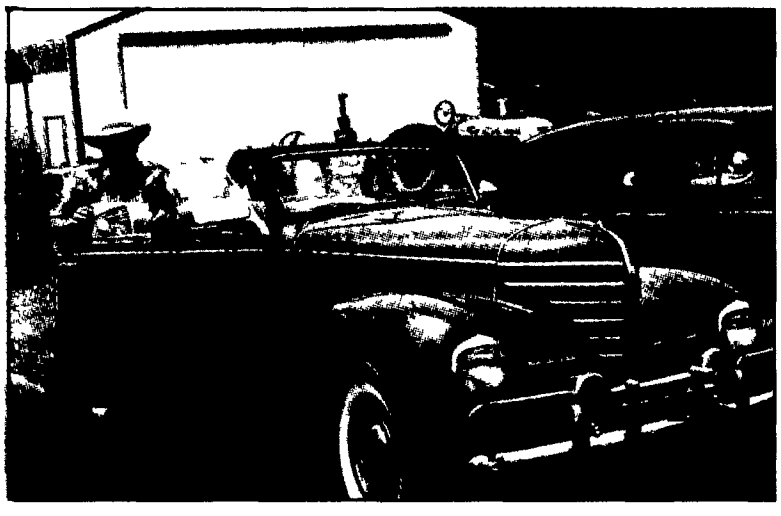
Shortly after the machine made its debut, the Long company was sued by International Harvester for patent infringement and lost when the case went to court. Wolf relates how angry farmers from the region where the tractor originated threatened

(Turn to Page B20)

A limited number of 1950 C Farmall demonstrator tractors went to selected dealers, painted white to catch farmers' eyes at county fairs and farm events. After a demonstration period, the white tractors were taken back to dealer shops and painted the traditional Farmall red. Stan Wolf currently owns two of these rare collector pieces.



In a wartime marriage of machinery due to parts shortages, two dozen tractors were cobbled together by a small company in Indiana, using a John Deere body powered by a Model-A Ford engine. Thus, the short-lived and very rare "Ford-Deere" model tractor, like this one in Stan Wolf's collection, came to be.



Restored to an original fiery shade of orange, Stan Wolf's 1939 Plymouth came to his shop in bushel baskets and five-gallon bucketfuls of pieces. He paid $50 for an original advertising booklet of the car to prove to skeptics the automobile's paint job's authenticity.

Stan Wolf fires up his 55-horsepower Montgomery Ward tractor for some visitors.

The first self-propelled combine had a three-foot cut and a relatively small motor, a machine designed to help with wartime harvest when many of the nation's young rural labor force were fighting World War II. This machine originally belonged to the military.

This corn-cutter machine, made in Canada, held a pair of riders who gathered sheaves of corn stalks while a sharp blade running along the angled platform at bottom sliced them off. Armfuls of cut corn were laid into piles for chopping for silage, or to fashion into corn shocks for drying ear corn.

to boycott I-H. In a settlement, the Long's builder signed an agreement to refrain from building any tractor for 30 years.

While all of then-known Long tractors, plus all parts to build more, were shipped off for salvage scrap, a small number already out in use and were never retrieved. At one time Wolf had found and restored four of these "escaped" rarities, but has since sold two of them.

Along with series of both John Deere and Ford models of antiquity is a hybrid known as a Ford-Deere tractor.

"It was a wartime tractor," says Wolf of the machine devised using a Ford motor to power a John Deere chassis. The small Indiana company, which engineered the components marriage only ever made 24 of these machines.

Tractors were available through the major mass marketers of mid-century, with both Sears and Roebuck and Montgomery Ward firms each offering their own line of tractors. Wolf's collection includes models from both of these backbone Americana merchandisers, from small "truck patch" types to the heavier, higher-horsepower versions designed for the flat fields of the Midwest.

"The Sear's Graham Bradley was delivered in a covered van and unloaded, all those rusty pieces all over the field," says LaVaughne, noting her husband's restoration abilities. "All you could recognize were the seat and steering wheel."

Big, round hay balers have become staple items on most of today's modern farms and Wolf's lineup includes one of the very early designs. Along with their inventive work on the self-propelled combine, Allis-Chalmers engineers also developed the Roto Baler in 1947. While round bales, of smaller size than commonplace today, were popular in Canada decades ago, they never caught on as widely in the U.S. until the more modern and familiar larger-bale models were developed.

Tillage also came in for some creativity, as evidenced by one of Wolf's early plows outfitted with a leveling attachment designed in Texas. The rig was probably not as effective on steep hills or sharp turns.

"That was before no-till. If you went in fourth gear, it made the field surface nice and smooth for planting," explains Wolf.

Hopping onto a somewhat triangular-shaped platform, built on wheels low to the ground, Wolf quizzes visitors as to the purpose of the piece of equipment.

When all guesses are wrong, he explains that the two-person, Canadian-made "Scientific" corn-cutter wagon was for cutting silage corn, and points out the sharp knives along the bottom edge on either side, which he has covered up for safety. When he was nine, Wolf rode the device with his brother out in the fields before school, gathering armfuls of corn as the knives sliced off the stalks at ground level, then dropping them along the way in bunches to be picked up later for silage chopping.

Although with the equipment collection, Wolf has accumulated a lineup of classic automobiles and trucks. Each vehicle in the collection is representative of a model and make that played a particular role in his life, like a 1933 green Chevy coupe like his first car, and his first pickup, a 1937 Chevrolet. Another prize is Wolf's restored 1942 black Plymouth in which he courted LaVaughne. For their 50th wedding anniversary three years ago, the couple celebrated with a road trip geographically similar to that traveled during their honeymoon.

As has become customary, Wolf hosted several hundred visitors to the three-day annual display. The event, culminating with a rally of some 60 Model-A Ford owners who gathered on Monday of Memorial Day weekend to admire each other's restored vehicles, enjoy the lineup of Wolf's collection and, of course, swap lots of stories.

Wolf is already looking ahead to the 2003 Memorial Day weekend open house, with plans to showcase his two latest acquisitions. The addition of a Sheppard-diesel, manufactured in the nearby Hanover area, and a Minneapolis-Moline boosted his collection to 46 tractors, representing 19 companies.

Candlestands And Look-Alikes

Not every small, three-legged, tripod table is a candlestand. In fact, not every candlestand rests on a tripod. And, what about the candlestands that have more than one tier? Actually a simple check and balance system can determine the purpose of a tripod table.

Just try putting a heavy kettle, lamp or tray of food on what seems to be a candlestand.

When put off balance it will, of course, tip. It was made to hold a candle. Since balance was important early 18th century candlestands had a base that touched smoothly on the floor. The tripod base had a serious purpose. It lessened the possibility of tipping on the uneven floors of that period.

Tripod tables were made for many purpurses. A sine table, for example, can be recognized by its' small protective gallery of brass or wood (railing).

A dumbwaiter table hald sweets and other tidbits on two or more tiers. The tall tripod tables (36" and up), called "torchyeres" were made to hold candles. When taller, they were made to hold plant urns.

The look of the tripod base has changed since its' origins in the 17th century. At that time the "x" base was pinned to the pedestal with a dowel. By around 1725 the legs were attached to the pedestal with wedge-shaped joints or dovetails.

The most elegant examples are considered to be Chippendale. Some of these had tilt-tops, piecrust tops or "birdcage" styling at the top of their column. Often the central column was carved and beautifully turned. Cabriole legs ended with carved claw-and-ball feet. Tops varied from round, oval, and octagonal to square.

CLUES: Candlestands made during the Federal period(1788-1825) in the George Hepplewhite style, can be recognized by tripods ending in slipper, snake or spade feet. The elegant piecrust top was replaced by a lozenge-shaped top. The top was often centered with an inlay of satinwood with shell and other motifs. Woods used depended on the locale where they were made. Mahogany, cherry, pine, and walnut among them. During this period they were also painted in black and other colors, but ivory.

The pieces made in the Sharaton (Federal) period had concave tripod legs and fluting often decorated the central column.

pending on documented provenance. At a recent Skinner auction in Boston, a Federal cherry tilt-top stand sold for $9,400 over an estimate of $1,500-2,500.

It came with great provenance. A Federal tiger maple candlestand, c.1815-25 brought $1,058 and a black painted cherry candlestand, 18th century sold for $588.

There have also been documented candlestands attributed to Duncan Phyfe.

By the 1830s tripod tables had lost their charm. One reason was that factory production was replacing the individual craftsman. Bases were heavy and the mortise and tenon joints were glued, rather than nailed. Tripod tables were out of fashion by the mid 19-century, replaced by the various plant and lamp tables in Rococo and other revival styles.

In the 1920s both country and high style candlestands were reproduced. However, those reproduced for the 1876 Philadelphia Centennial are now considered collectible in their own right as "Centennial pieces."

When buying any supposedly 18th century tripod table, turn it upside down and look at the construction. it should be rough to the touch. Identifiable sawmarks will tell you if it was made after 1830 or in the 20th century.

Look for old rose head nails. If it is painted don't strip it. It is still possible to make discoveries.

Evolution Of Threshing To Be Demonstrated At Eastern Shore Show

FEDERALSBURG, Md. — The Eastern Shore Threshermen and Collectors Association, Inc. will be conducting their 42nd annual Wheat Threshing, Steam and Gas Engine Show, Aug. 2, 3 and 4 at their showgrounds located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg, Md. Admission and parking are free.

Besides the main attraction of wheat threshing, there will be shingle sawing, sawing with a miniature sawmill and rock crushing. There will be steam engines, antique tractors, gasoline engines, antique cars and steam models in operation.

A daily parade of all equipment will be at 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 4 p.m. on Sunday. Kids of all ages will be able to ride "Smokey Joe" a miniature steam train which is a replica of the Civil War era "General" locomotive.

There will be something for everyone in the large flea market with over 125 dealers.

Spectators won't want to miss our "Evolution of Threshing" which will demonstrate how threshing grain evolved from using the flail to the modern day combine. This will be on Saturday at 2 p.m.

"Country Grass" will provide a free bluegrass music show on Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. and on Saturday evening "The Country Troubadours" will be playing at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening will feature gospel music by "The Rescue Team" at 5 p.m.

There will be plenty of good food with fried chicken platters, crab cakes, hamburgers and hot dogs.

Exhibitors of antique equipment are welcome. There is no charge to exhibit. All times are subject to weather conditions. The public is invited to come out and see how our grandfathers farmed and old-timers can reminisce of the good old days.

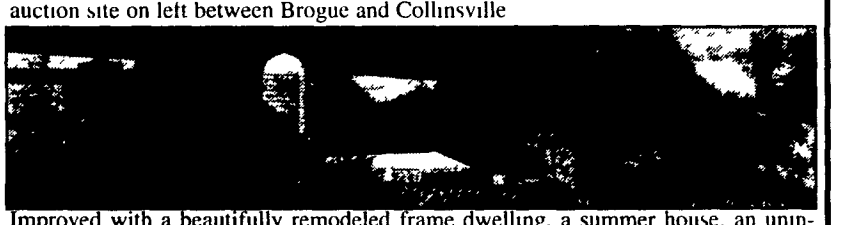
OUTSTANDING PUBLIC AUCTION!

135 Acre Farm with 13.75 Commercial Acres
Plus 7 Building Rights.

For Dwight and Gladys Taylor, who are retiring after over 40 years of farming This Farm, which has Commercially Zoned Acreage, 7 Building Rights and Prime Agricultural Land in a high state of cultivation See separate ad for Tractors, Implements & Tools

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 2002 - 9:00 A.M.

On the farm at 2635 Delta Rd, Rt 74, Brogue, York County, PA From Rt I-83 north or south, take Exit 16E, S Queen St, Rt 74S and follow Rt 74S approx 15 mi to auction site on left between Brogue and Collinsville



Improved with a beautifully remodeled frame dwelling, a summer house, an uninhabited ante-bellum stone dwelling of circa 1830 construction, an 8 stall Clay herringbone milking parlor and 80 freestall loafing barn with 20 x 60 cement stave silo, a large bank barn with 14 x 40 cement stave silo and 40 x 60 and 31 x 60 machinery sheds The Taylors discontinued dairying in 1987 The farm is laid out in contour strips for maximum water efficiency and erosion control The stone house, though in need of repointing, is as straight and true as it was 170 odd years ago There is a cooking fireplace in the kitchen with pot crane, large window seats formed by the 2 ft stone walls, original chair rail, mantel and fireplace surround and original trim and doors throughout. New slate roof. Ready for restoration and enjoyment. The Taylors never had time to restore it while milking 80 cows and rearing 8 children The farm has 2400+ frontage on Route 74, known as Delta Road. 1200+ ft of frontage to the north and to a depth of 500 feet, comprising 13.75+ acres, m/l, has been zoned Commercial 1200+ feet on the south side of the farm lane is zoned Agricultural. This is the potential location for 6 of the 7 building rights, which could be developed Good water abounds from 3 never-failing springs of water on the farm, and the branch from a spring on an adjacent property runs through a portion of the farm

TERMS: A non-refundable down-payment of 10% of the gavel price is required in cash, or check with current bank letter guaranteeing funds at time of auction. A partial settlement of 40% of the gavel price is due on November 4, 2002. The remaining unpaid 50% of the gavel price is due in-full, on January 2, 2003 at final settlement, at which time full possession and title will be given.

INSPECTION: Open House Sessions and Guided Tours of the farm will be held on Saturdays, July 13 & 27 and Aug. 10 from 10 A.M until 2:00 P.M and Sunday July 14 & 28 and August 11 from 1:00 until 4:00 P.M For private showing, Phone the Taylors at 717-927-6343.

Nutrition Seminar Spotlights Technical Management Of High-Performing Cows

HOMER, N.Y. — Sifting through reams of technical information about feeding their top performing cows can leave many dairy producers with no time to actually manage the rest of their operations.

About 40 dairy sales consultants for Pennfield, a dairy feed company based in Lancaster, Pa., recently attended a nutrition seminar focusing on managing the top producers in the herd. The sales consultants will share practical solutions based on technical data with dairy producers.

"Our sales consultants constantly receive specialized technical training in all aspects of dairy herd nutrition and management so they can better help their customers," said Pennfield Director of Sales and Marketing Alden Bowman. "Doing the best job feeding and managing top performers for 30 days pre-fresh and 70 days post-fresh will give every herd a leg up on profitability. Our sales consultants spent a full day in classroom training and a half day in the barn doing hands-on work, so that they are well qualified to address any concerns their customers have."

Pennfield Director of Dairy Nutrition Dr Tim Snyder said, "We make it a top priority to regularly provide the Pennfield sales consultants with in depth, technical information so that they can be assets to their customers."

Pennfield sales consultants are certified by the American Registry of Professional Animal Scientists (ARPAS). Attending the annual Pennfield nutrition seminar and other training events throughout the year is part of maintaining their certification.

Jeff Mammett of Pharmacia Animal Health introduced the Pennfield sales consultants to Pharmacia's "100-Day Contract" between the herd and the producer. Successfully managing the 30 days before calving and the 70 days after calving will optimize production. Objectives of this period are to assure a healthy calf, a healthy cow through the transition period, high peak milk production, controlled loss of body condition, and high fertility at first breeding.

Cornell University professors Dr. Larry Chase and Dr. Tom Overton addressed specific nutrient requirements and management strategies for transition and early fresh cows. They emphasized the need for a plan for this herd group to minimize stress, calving problems, metabolic disorders, and to get them on feed as soon as possible Since no single answer fits every herd, the Pennfield sales consultants can help producers determine what's best in each herd.

The hands-on portion of the seminar gave Pennfield sales consultants practical experience with diagnosing feed bunk management and particle separation issues, observing actual digestion and rumen turnover in a fistulated cow, with updated body condition scoring techniques and objectives, with determining urine pH, with conducting the California Mastitis Test in both dry and fresh cows, with charting body temperatures 10 days post fresh, and with various ID systems.

Dr. Tim Snyder lead a discussion on finding profit in transition and peak performance feeding and management as well as on applying Pennfield transition feeding programs.

High-Pressure Water Vapor System Cools Cows

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — It's truly amazing what water and air can do to cool cows in summertime swelter.

The temperature can be 100 degrees or more outside, and inside, it can be 10-15 degrees cooler — and that comfort level can translate into better milk production, according to university experts.

The technology to demonstrate that cooling process, Vapor Cool, was demonstrated late last week at the Gerald Seibel Dairy Farm near Manheim.

About .75-80 invited dairy producers and agri-industry representatives toured the tiestall where Vapor Cool was installed in June. Representatives who spoke during the open house included Jay Onley, DelMarva sales and trade show manager, Valco Companies, Coldwater, Ohio, and Don Mahlandt, dairy consultant, R&J Dairy Technologies, the Pennsylvania Vapor Cool dealer.

According to Mahlandt, Vapor Cool is a high-pressure fog cooling system operating from 1,000 pounds per square inch (psi) to 2,000 psi. The system generates billions of micron-size cool water droplets that "flash evaporate" and cool the surrounding air.

Vapor Cool not only cools the air, providing cow comfort (which can easily translate into better milk production), but also scrubs the air of dust and particulates.

The system uses a stainless steel high-pressure fog system from Polair/Valco. The cost of a system to cool about 100 cows costs about $6,800, according to Jay Onley of Valco.

Onley was busy last week reading several air factors from six 50-inch tunnel ventilation fans moving about 150,000 cubic feet per second, or CFM, of air through the tiestall barn. The controller on the water pump supplying the misters can be regulated by temperature, on or off; time, programmed like an alarm; and humidity, activated at preset levels.

Onley was using a device to measure wind speed, humidity, and temperature. At the time, outside temperature was about 96 degrees with high humidity levels; inside, the overall barn temperature was immediately reduced to 84 degrees, all the way down to 77 degrees at the end of the barn near the tunnel ventilation system.

Onley noted the technology has been around for about 20 years, which began in California. Onley noted that about 20 such systems have been installed in Lancaster County on dairy, poultry, and swine operations.

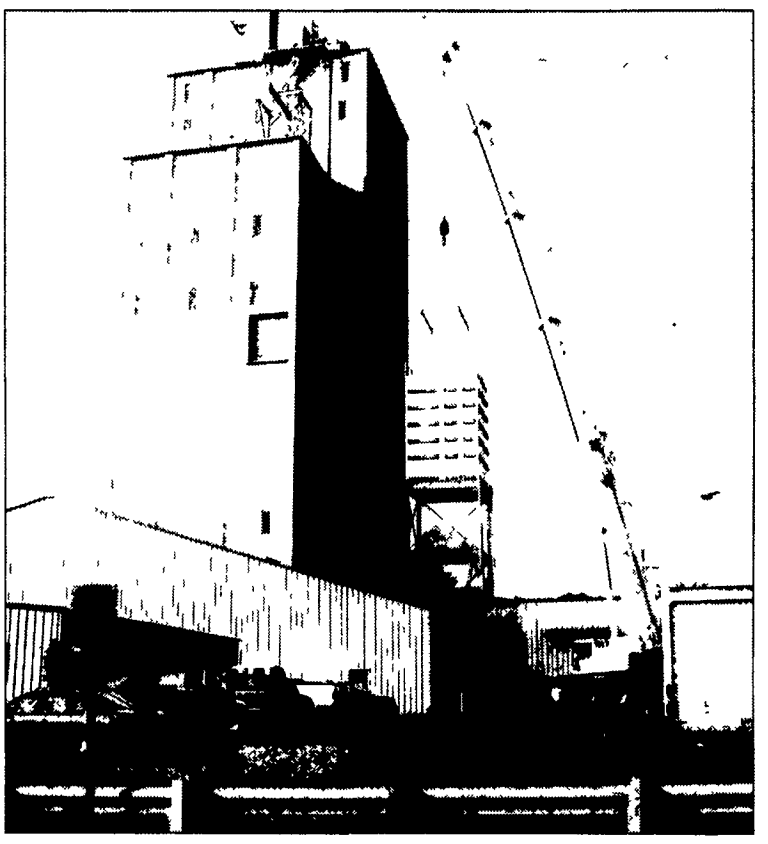
Cargill Expanding Lebanon Feed Plant

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Liverpool District General Manager John Griffin recently announced that expansion plans currently under way here are progressing on schedule and should be completed by late August.

Griffin said, "Our business in Pennsylvania has continually increased since opening the Lebanon operation six years ago. This $1.3 million project will enable Cargill to meet growing demand in Pennsylvania today and in the future."

Cargill Animal Nutrition invested over $7 million in establishing the Lebanon plant in 1996. Griffin said, "We determined that our ability to meet the future needs of our customer base required the advanced capabilities at Lebanon. Our computerized manufacturing system supports our diverse product line. Adding more bins, textured packaging capability, doubling both warehouse space and dock service positions Cargill for continued growth." The project has created 10 new jobs at Cargill to fill production, administrative and truck driver positions.

Cargill Animal Nutrition employs over 9,200 people at 178 feed plants worldwide servicing a variety of species. Cargill, Incorporated is an international marketer, processor and distributor of agricultural, food, financial and industrial products and services with 90,000 employees in 57 countries.



Construction workers position the new feed bin assembly at the Cargill Animal Nutrition Mill in Lebanon.

Select Sires Adds .coop To Website Address

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Dairy and beef producers, veterinarians and others now can access the Website of North America's leading A.I. organization using the Internet address: www.selectsires.coop. The .coop suffix recently was made available for use exclusively by cooperatives and co-op support organizations.

"Now people can access extensive bovine reproduction information and genetic evaluations conveniently by clicking on either www.selectsires.coop or www.selectsires.com," says Jackie Salyer, communications and Website coordinator for Select Sires. "Offering this additional Website address is a reminder that Select Sires is a federation of cooperatives, a business that belongs to the people who use it."

According to the National Cooperative Business Association (NCBA), the new .coop domains enable cooperatives to create an online global identity as a member-owned business that customers can trust.

Land Pride Adds TreeLiminator To Skid Steer Line

SALINA, Kan. — Land Pride is expanding its skid steer attachment line with the introduction of the TreeLiminator. The TreeLiminator is a skid steer mounted six-foot pie shaped blade with saw teeth on each side. As you drive the skid steer forward, the cutting teeth are forced into the trunk of the tree.

A 30-inch tree can be taken down in as little as two minutes, and that is at ground level. The TreeLiminator is ideal for clearing pastures or unwanted trees in a fraction of the time needed with a chain saw, and less costly than a dozer.

While other tree saws on the market utilize hydraulic cylinders and other moving parts, our tree saw's only moving part is a "Power Jaw" that acts as a one-arm grapple to help grab trunks and piles of limbs. Easily saw trees along the fence row, and reach over the fence to remove them with the "Power Jaw."

AgriCulver Seeds Establishes Forage Research Trials

TRUMANSBURG, N.Y. — AgriCulver Seeds has established a second forage research site in 2002 in Lancaster County, Pa. AgriCulver's first research site was established in western N.Y. in 2000. The company performs various research projects with forage grasses, forage legumes, corn, soybeans, sorghum-sudans, alfalfa, and other crops at both sites.

With the addition of the Pennsylvania site, AgriCulver Seeds has a total of 21 different research projects running in 2002 at the two research locations. AgriCulver Seeds also runs a large number of on-farm trials. A major part of the company's research centers around forage quality, specifically looking at in-vitro digestibility and milk production.

The company will perform hundreds of in-vitro analysis during the 2002 growing season in order to build a credible database of results.

McCormick CX

MCCORMICK

The workhorse McCormick CX Series tractors (73 hp-102 hp) are some of the most rugged in the field today. The CX features lean-burning, high-torque 4-cylinder Perkins diesel and a synchromesh shuttle transmission. It's the ideal choice if you're looking for a well built, dependable chore tractor for hay, loader, field application, livestock or medium-duty field work.

And - with optional powershift and creep speed, and your choice of base, platform or deluxe cab - it's comfortable for both you and your wallet.

Stop in for a test drive today, then drive away in a new McCormick.

★ Back by Popular Demand - KEN FERRIE ★

KEN FERRIE
A SYSTEMS APPROACH TO FARMING
Ken is the owner of Crop Tech Consulting near Bloomington Illinois. Ken has worked as a Field Agronomist for the past ten years. He is an agronomic consultant for fifty farmers in Central Illinois and conducts workshops across the mid-west. Ken is involved in an intensive test plot program where he has worked with his clients on side by side replicated tests on such things as tillage, herbicides, fertility and planters. All of this information is pulled together to help him develop a systems approach for his clients.

Ken was born and raised on a farm in Northeast Iowa. He received an Associate Degree in Applied Science in Agribusiness from Ellsworth Community College, and his Bachelor of Science Degree from Illinois State University. He has been employed in the Ag field for the past 20 years.

A Better Machine... It's That Simple

5 Fundamentals of the Axial-Flow Combine

SIMPLICITY

GRAIN SAVINGS
Thorough threshing and efficient separation put more grain in the tank...and more profits in your pocket.

GRAIN QUALITY

ADAPTABILITY
The Axial-Flow combine is designed to har many crops and field conditions.

MATCHED CAPACITY
The rotary design of a Case-IH combine is engineered from front to back for optimum performance.

CELEBRATING 25 YEARS OF SELLING & SERVICING AXIAL FLOW COMBINES — HOOBER INC — 25 — CASE IH

Now is the time to upgrade your cornhead!

New Case IH 2200 Series Cornheads

- Hydraulic adjustable stripper plates allow on-the-go adjustments in varying crop conditions
- Low profile poly-hoods and dividers effectively "hug" the ground, moving more ears into the header to increase efficiency
- Larger diameter auger (16") moves more crop into the feeding area, increasing the feeding capacity of the cornhead

Our Specialty
We stock them, stock the parts, pinions, gears, bearings, seals & gaskets, splined out puts, shafts, housing adaptors/reducers, and pilot bearing holders. With little or no changes, these new clutch/gear reduction assemblies could fit your gas or diesel engine - 50-100hp. Five different gear ratios. A valuable link between your engine and power take-off shaft equipment

CLUTCH / 5.8:1 Planetary Gear Reduction Assemblies

For 8-30 HP Engines
Fits most — Honda, Robin, Kohler, Kawasaki, others (1–2 cyl.)

- Fits most standard crankshafts – 1", 1⅛", 1⅞"
- Aluminum Castings/Housings
- Ball & roller bearings, hardened gears

Suzuki QuadRunner ATVs may be used by those aged 16 and older. Suzuki highly recommends that all ATV riders take a training course. We'll even pay for it. For safety and training course information, see your dealer or call the SVIA at 1-800-852-5344. ATVs can be hazardous to operate. For your safety, always wear a helmet, eye protection and protective clothing. Always avoid paved surfaces. Never ride on public roads. Never carry passengers or engage in stunt riding. Riding and alcohol or other drugs don't mix. Avoid excessive speeds. Be extra careful on difficult terrain. Along with concerned conservationists everywhere, Suzuki urges you to "TREAD LIGHTLY" on public and private land. Preserve your future riding opportunities by showing respect for the environment, local laws and the rights of others when you ride.

Maximize Your Yield Potential For A Price That's Minimal

When it comes to improving Relative Feed Value and maximizing the Crude Protein in hay, nothing outperforms the New Idea® 5209 Disc Mower Conditioner. Its high-speed disc cutterbar glides through fields with ease, even in extreme conditions. And the unique Ti-Cor® Conditioning Rolls gently condition the stems, speeding drydown.

The 5209's reliable design keeps you mowing and conditioning year after year. With the segmented cutterbar driveshaft, a New Idea innovation, the cutterbar is truly modular, which makes for easy maintenance.

To see the disc mower conditioner that'll exceed your expectations — not your budget, visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today.

The most energy-efficient cooling system in the world (excluding the Arctic Circle) can be found in the HiPerForm® Energy Star™ refrigeration unit by Mueller®.

The HiPerForm refrigeration process is a proprietary system that floods the entire cooler evaporator using a subcooled liquid refrigerant that keeps your refrigeration at peak efficiency.

The HiPerForm system enables the compressor to operate at cooler temperatures, resulting in longer compressor life, less maintenance, and less energy consumption.

Mueller is cool

Silage Spreaders with a Heritage of Quality

Lancaster Level-Flo has been the leader in non-motorized silage spreaders for more than 25 years. Each spreader is specifically designed to meet the needs of the individual operator.

Choose the spreader that best matches the equipment you use to fill your silo.

The Model 1030 Multi-Flo® is our standard silage spreader With a 9" gooseneck, it is designed for average capacity blowers and silo sizes.

The Model 1200 Multi-Flo® has a 12" wide gooseneck Its larger size all but eliminates plugging problems, even when you blow in haylage It is especially helpful in larger silos

The BlueMax® is built for those who push high-capacity silo filling equipment to the limit All parts of the BlueMax® subject to wear are made 25% heavier - and the stainless steel plate is twice as heavy For strength, there are reinforcements all around. Even our well-known non-binding hinge is heavier

For more information or the location of the Lancaster dealer nearest you, call today 1-800-635-8708.

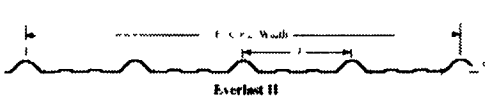
The Ultimate G-100 Process
"The Best"
1 Valspar 10S Finish Coat
2 Epoxy Primer
3 Zinc Phosphate Pretreatment
4 G-100 Zinc Coating
5 Full Hard Steel (80,000 min yield)
6 Heat formed, less paint cracks



NOTE! It is more important what is under the paint than what you see on top!
1. One of the best paints, superior acid rain, cracking resistance and color retention
2. Primer coat promotes outstanding top coat adhesion
3. Zinc phosphate pretreatment. This is a very important process - if your current supplier cannot supply you with this or does not know, you should reconsider.
4. G-100 Galvanized. Most metal roofing has approx 40% less galvanized under the paint G-100 is more galvanized than most unpainted panels
5. Full Hard: Anything less than full hard will bend easier, lower snow loads, etc.
6. Heat formed Metal is painted before ribs are formed Most paint cracks at bends, heat forming greatly reduces cracks. (check metal siding that is installed for 5-10 years)
7. Stronger design, superior strength, more metal per L F
8. Add Everything Together And Price Should Be $53 37 Per Square $1.69 Per L.F.

OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY
$1.53 PER LINEAL FT.

What's heat forming?

In metal roofing and siding it's the best way to go! Here is why. Everlast heats the paint very hot on their Everlast II product before they cut and form it into roofing and siding Tests have proven that heating paint before cutting and bending prevents virtually all microscopic cracks in the paint Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important Normally manufacturers form and cut at room temperature Unfortunately that cracks the paint causing early rust at formed bends and edges

- Distributed from Parkesburg PA
- $1.55/per lb in 60 lb bags
- Varieties S D Common Vernal and Rhyzoma
- Dakota alfalfas are dormancy rated at 2 and proven to excel in winter hardiness and production!
- Trask Seed is American grown and priced to reflect no corporate monopolies!

PA farmers have great hay crops with South Dakota alfalfa seed. Painterland Farms, Westfield, PA, John Painter said "The Trask's seed grew extremely well. We recommend it to anyone. It is real leafy and yielded as well as any of the high priced name brand seeds It cost 40% as much. We planted 294 acres. We intend to plant more this spring. It was exceptionally winter hardy and resisted frost damage. We are very pleased

Join the numerous farmers in the PA/NY area harvesting superb alfalfa from South Dakota seed

Plant Growth Facilities Manager

College of Agriculture and Natural Resources

The University of Delaware Department of Plant and Soil Sciences invites applications for a Plant Growth Facilities Manager to oversee the daily operation and management of a greenhouse complex, including the Botanic Gardens and growth chambers (water supply, air supply, chilled water, electricity and mechanical systems). The Manager coordinates the safe and efficient use of these facilities; contributes to teaching/research/outreach programs; and trains and assists users with techniques and procedures for growing plants in the greenhouse environment. Requires a bachelors degree in Agriculture, Botany or Horticultural-related field and three years of job-related experience; job-related experience beyond an Associate's degree may be substituted for required education. Requires basic knowledge of greenhouse equipment and facilities repair and an intermediate knowledge of computers and overall greenhouse management. Must monitor and operate environmental computer, perform minor repair of the plant growth facilities and associated equipment, and set up, calibrate, operate, and maintain specified equipment and facilities; and contribute to research/outreach programs. Requires the ability to work inside and outside in heat/cold. Must have or obtain a Delaware pesticide applicator's license. Employment is dependent upon passing a University-specified medical evaluation related to the use of respiratory protection equipment. Review of resumes will begin July 31, 2002 and will continue until the position is filled. Send resume and three letters of reference to:

Amoore Holstein Farm

Mercer, Mercer County

Owners Arthur and Shirley Moore, along with sons Robert and Ralph, milk 75 Holsteins and grow most of the cows' feed on this well-kept homestead they have farmed since 1961.

The Moore family marked another notable accomplishment this year when Maggie Moore, Arthur and Shirley's grandaughter, was selected as Mercer County Dairy Princess.

Kulp Family Dairy, L.L.C.

Martinsburg, Blair County

Partners Larry and Mary Kulp and their son Phil Kulp and his wife Becky recently expanded here and are milking 1,300 Holsteins in a double-25 parallel milking parlor, farming 850 acres, and contracting 400 acres of forages from neighboring farms. They employ 17 full-time and 15 part-time workers.

Phil Kulp said each worker plays a role in keeping the farm attractive. "Every employee on the dairy does an excellent job maintaining things," he said. In the past year, the Kulps have hosted groups of school children at the farm and dairy operation.

Mill Hill Farms

Williamsburg, Blair County

Owners James and Carol Biddle's children are the eighth generation on this family farm in the Morrison Cove area. James and Carol took over management a little more than two years ago from James' father, J. Edward Biddle. The family milks about 140 Holsteins and farms about 400 acres with the help of children Sarrah, Matt, Josh, and Zach, who range in age from 21 to 13.

Maintaining an attractive homestead runs in the Biddle family. The farm had been previously selected as a Dairy of Distinction under the ownership of J. Edward.

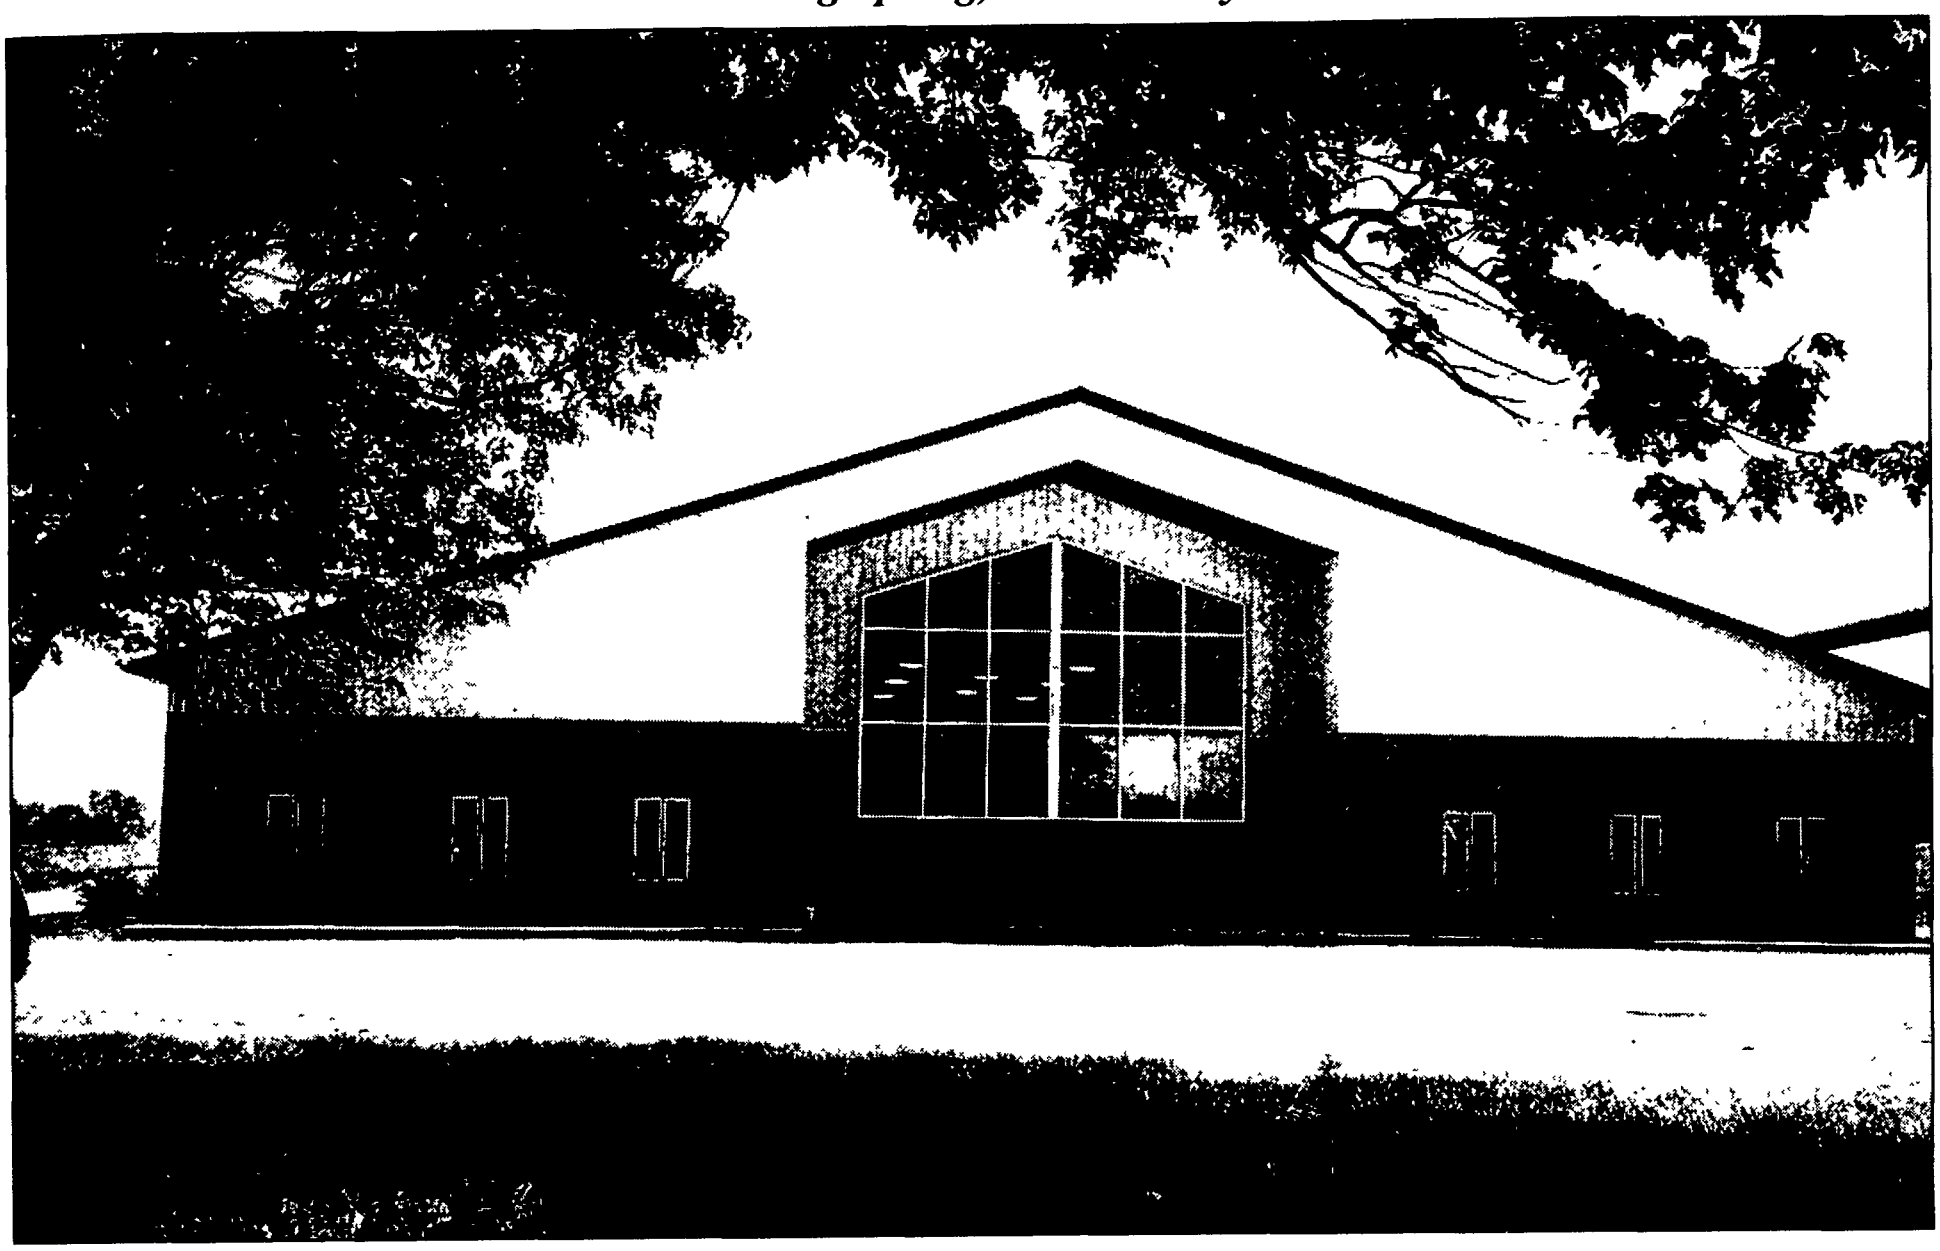
Roaring Spring, Blair County



Daniel and Beverly Smith manage this dairy in partnership with their son Douglas and his wife Tamerà. An expansion in 2000 increased the milking herd to about 500 Holsteins. About 90 percent of the dairy feed is purchased, including corn silage from neighboring farms and hay from the western U.S.

The Smith's nearby "home farm" was one of the first Dairies of Distinction selected in Bedford County soon after the program began.

Ralaine Jerseys

Everett, Bedford County

Farmowners Ray and Elaine Sollenberger recently turned the dairy operation here over to daughter Lori, who milks about 40 Jerseys. Altogether, the Sollenbergers farm about 300 acres.

Ray's parents originally bought this rolling farm in 1945. Ray and Elaine have been on the property since 1954. Lori, married to Rex Knepp, still uses her Sollenberger name for farm business.

Hillside Farm

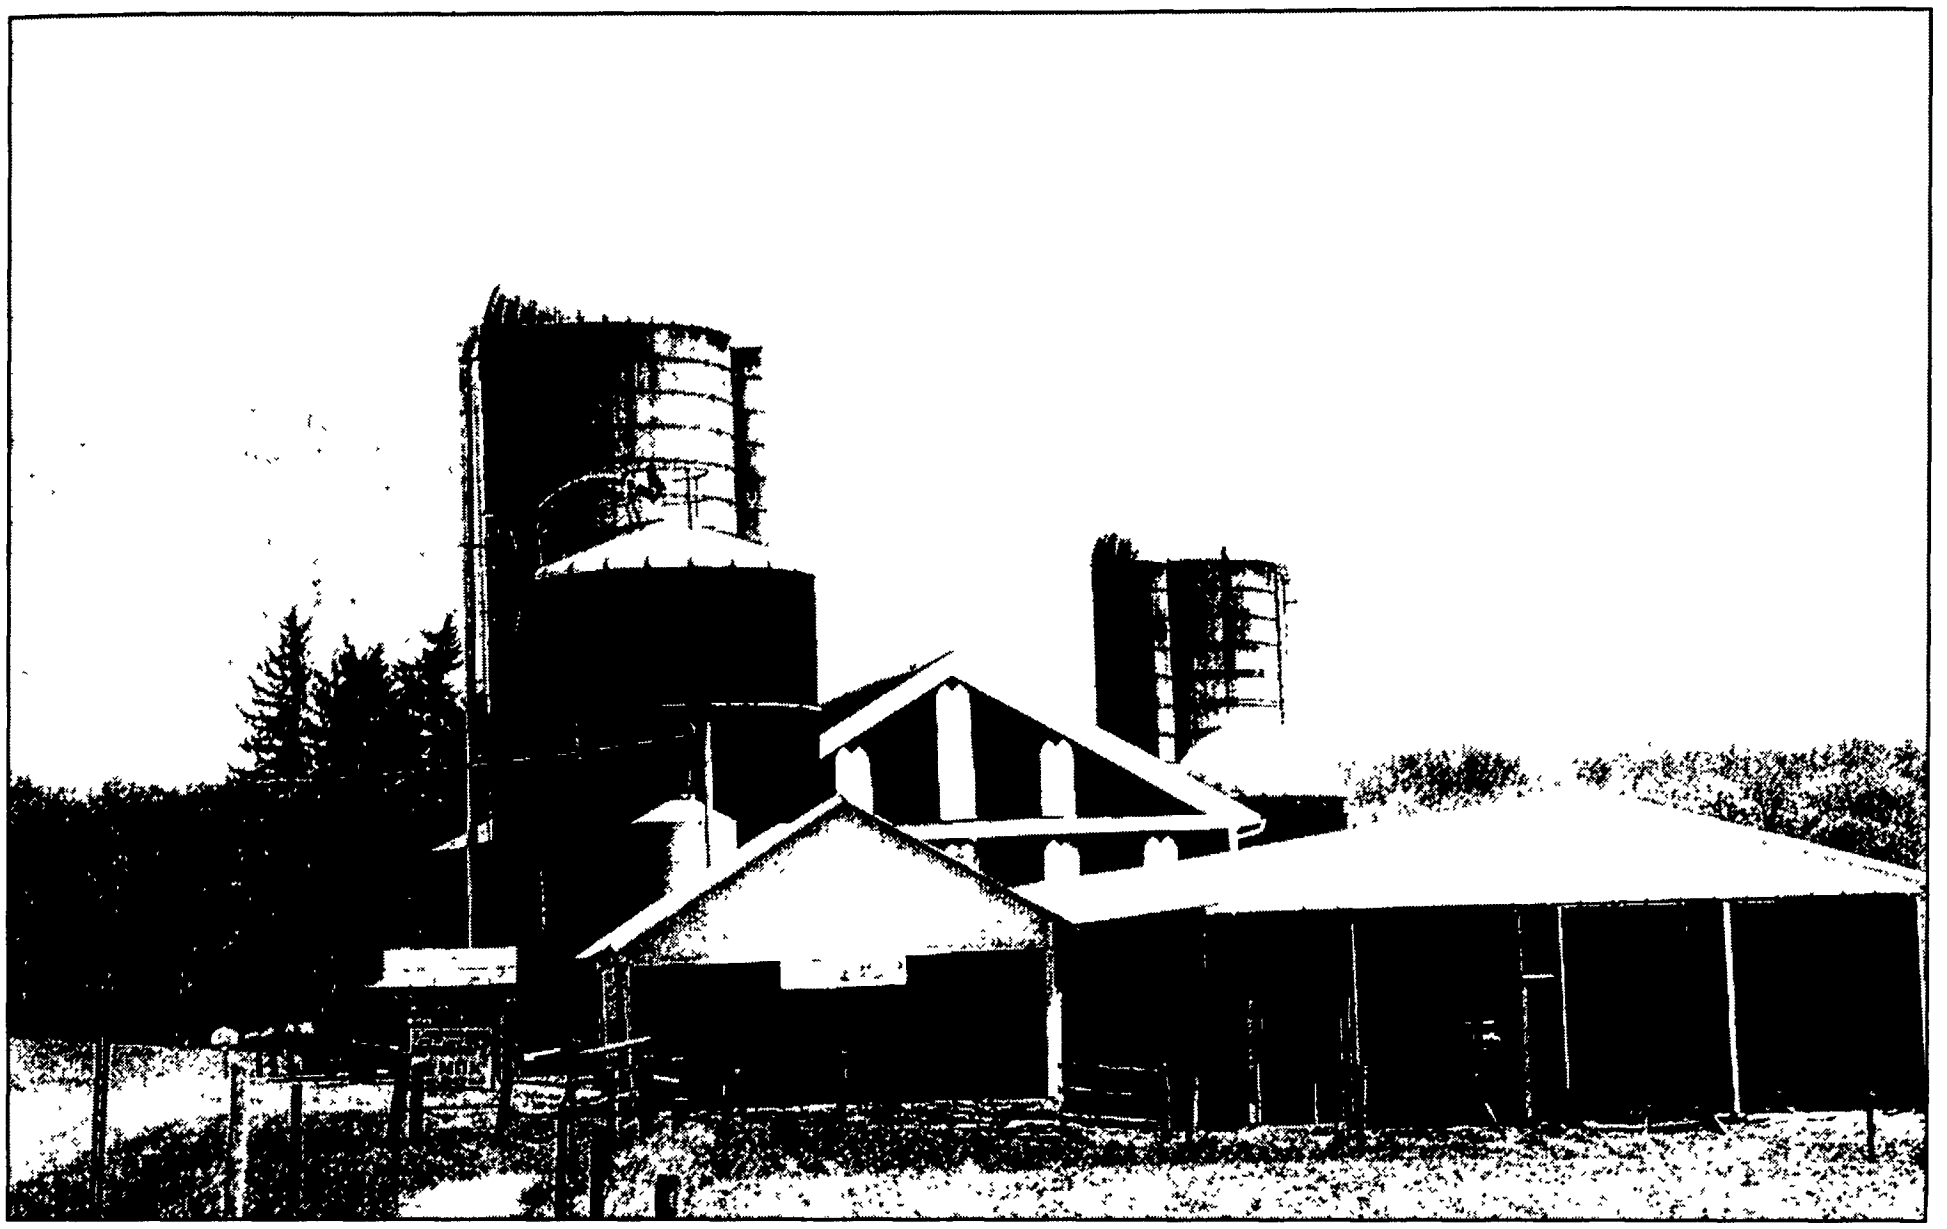
Berlin, Somerset County

Terry Landis purchased this 154-acre farm along with his parents William and Vera in 1998. He milks a total of about 40 Holsteins and Jerseys in a tie-stall barn, and grows corn, oats, and hay.

Landis did not grow up on a farm, but after working on one from 1981 to 1991, purchased a 42-acre farm in the area and went into the dairy business with 20 cows. Moving to this larger farm in 1998 allowed him to double the size of the herd.

Stoney Acres Farm

Berlin, Somerset County



Brad and Melissa Fox and their children Rebekah, 18, Jarred, 15, and son-in-law Chad Manthey milk about 50 Holsteins and Brown Swiss on this farm that has been in the family since 1894.

The Foxes farm about 300 acres, growing corn and alfalfa for feed. They keep a total of about 200 calves, heifers, and milking cows, including the Brown Swiss show stock.

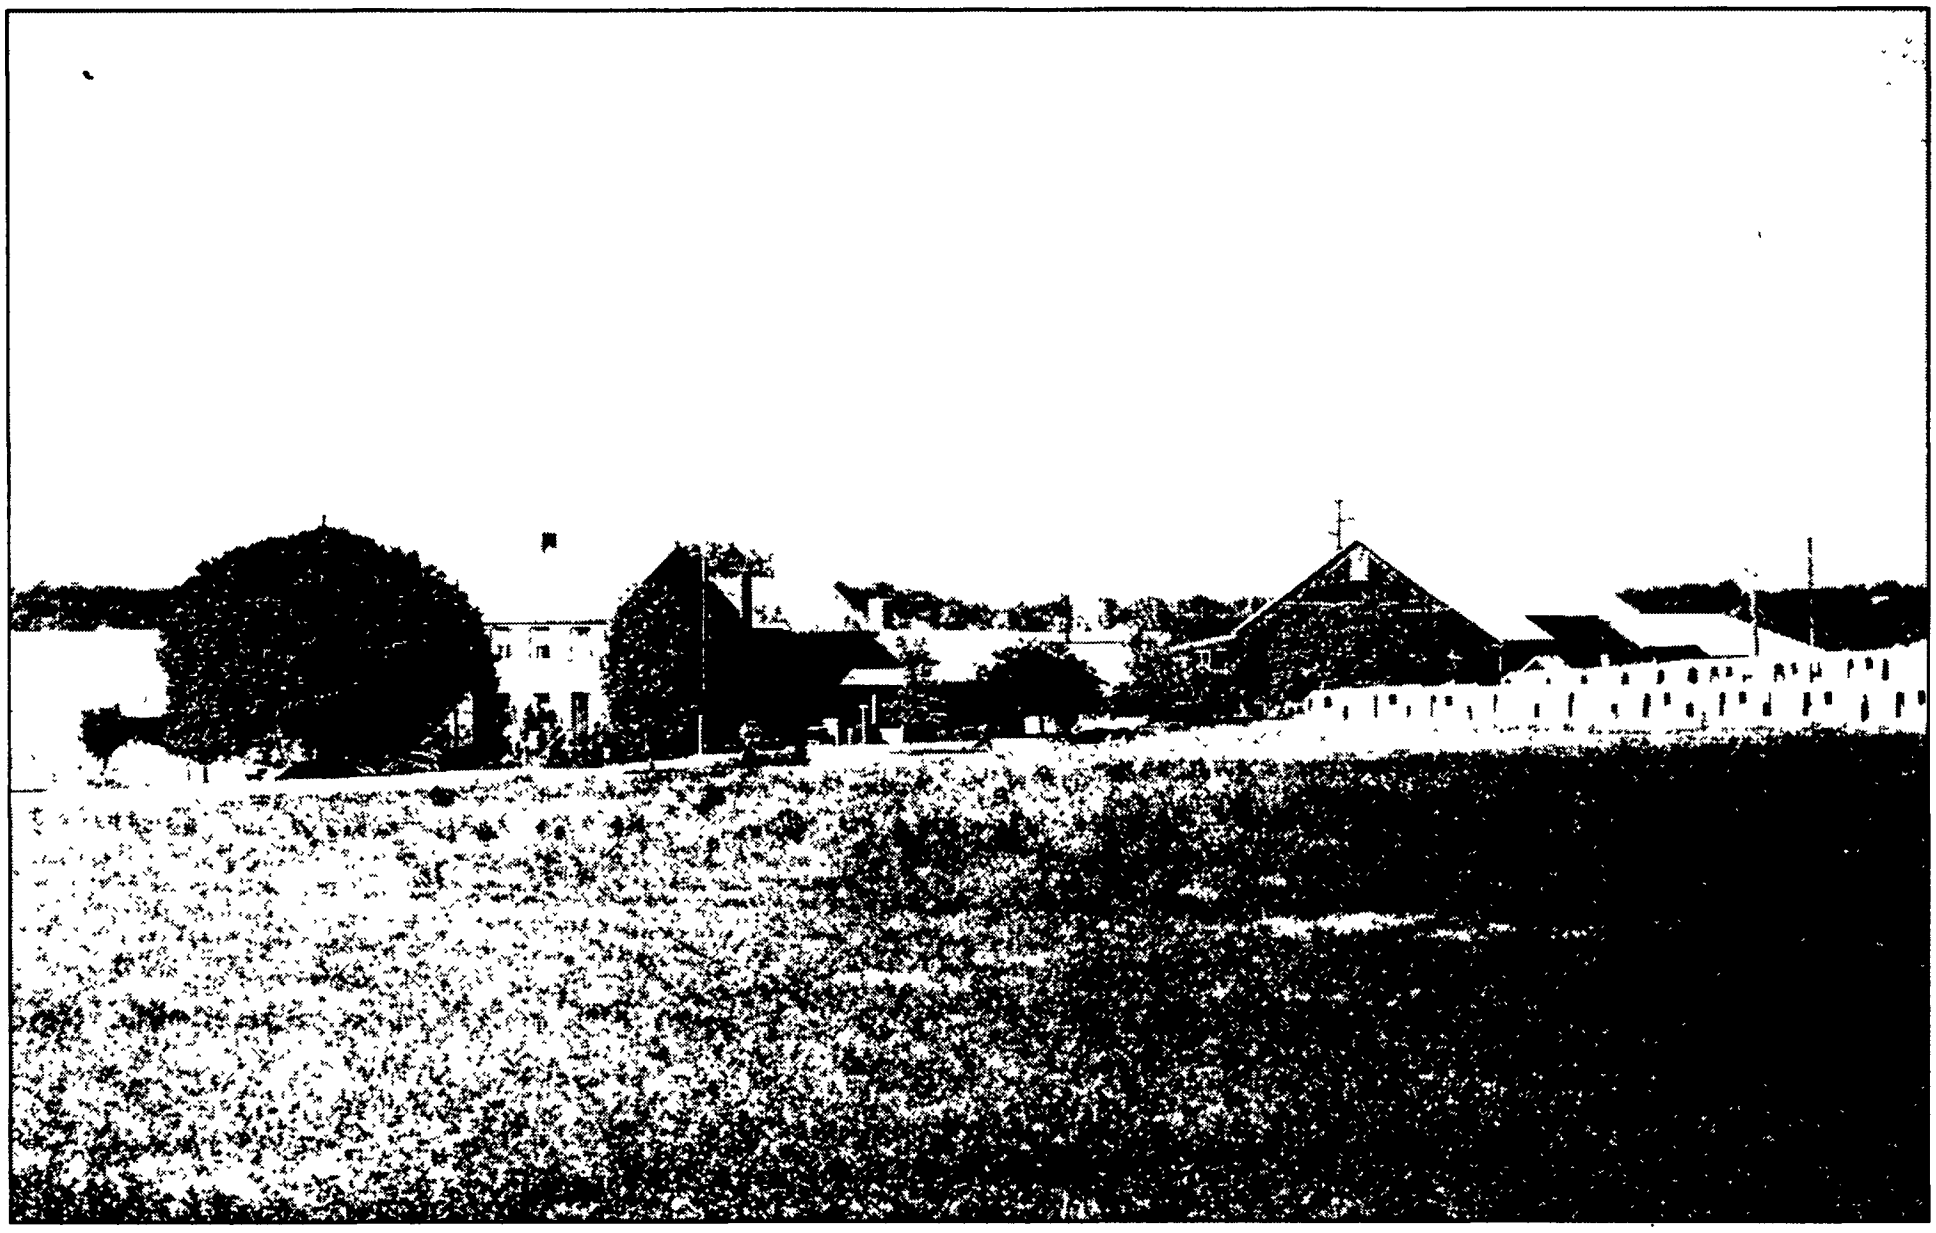
NaPaul Farms

Chambersburg, Franklin County



Paul and Nadene Cashell have been on this farm for seven out the 11 years they have been farming and have been its sole owners for a year and a half. With the help of five full-time and three part-time employees, the family milks about 340 Holsteins and grows 700 acres of crops, including corn and alfalfa/orchardgrass. They also double-crop about 120 acres of the corn with wheat that is chopped for silage.

The Cashell's three children Ben, 13; Quinn, 9; and Chase, 6, keep busy on the farm as well exhibiting Holsteins at state and local shows.

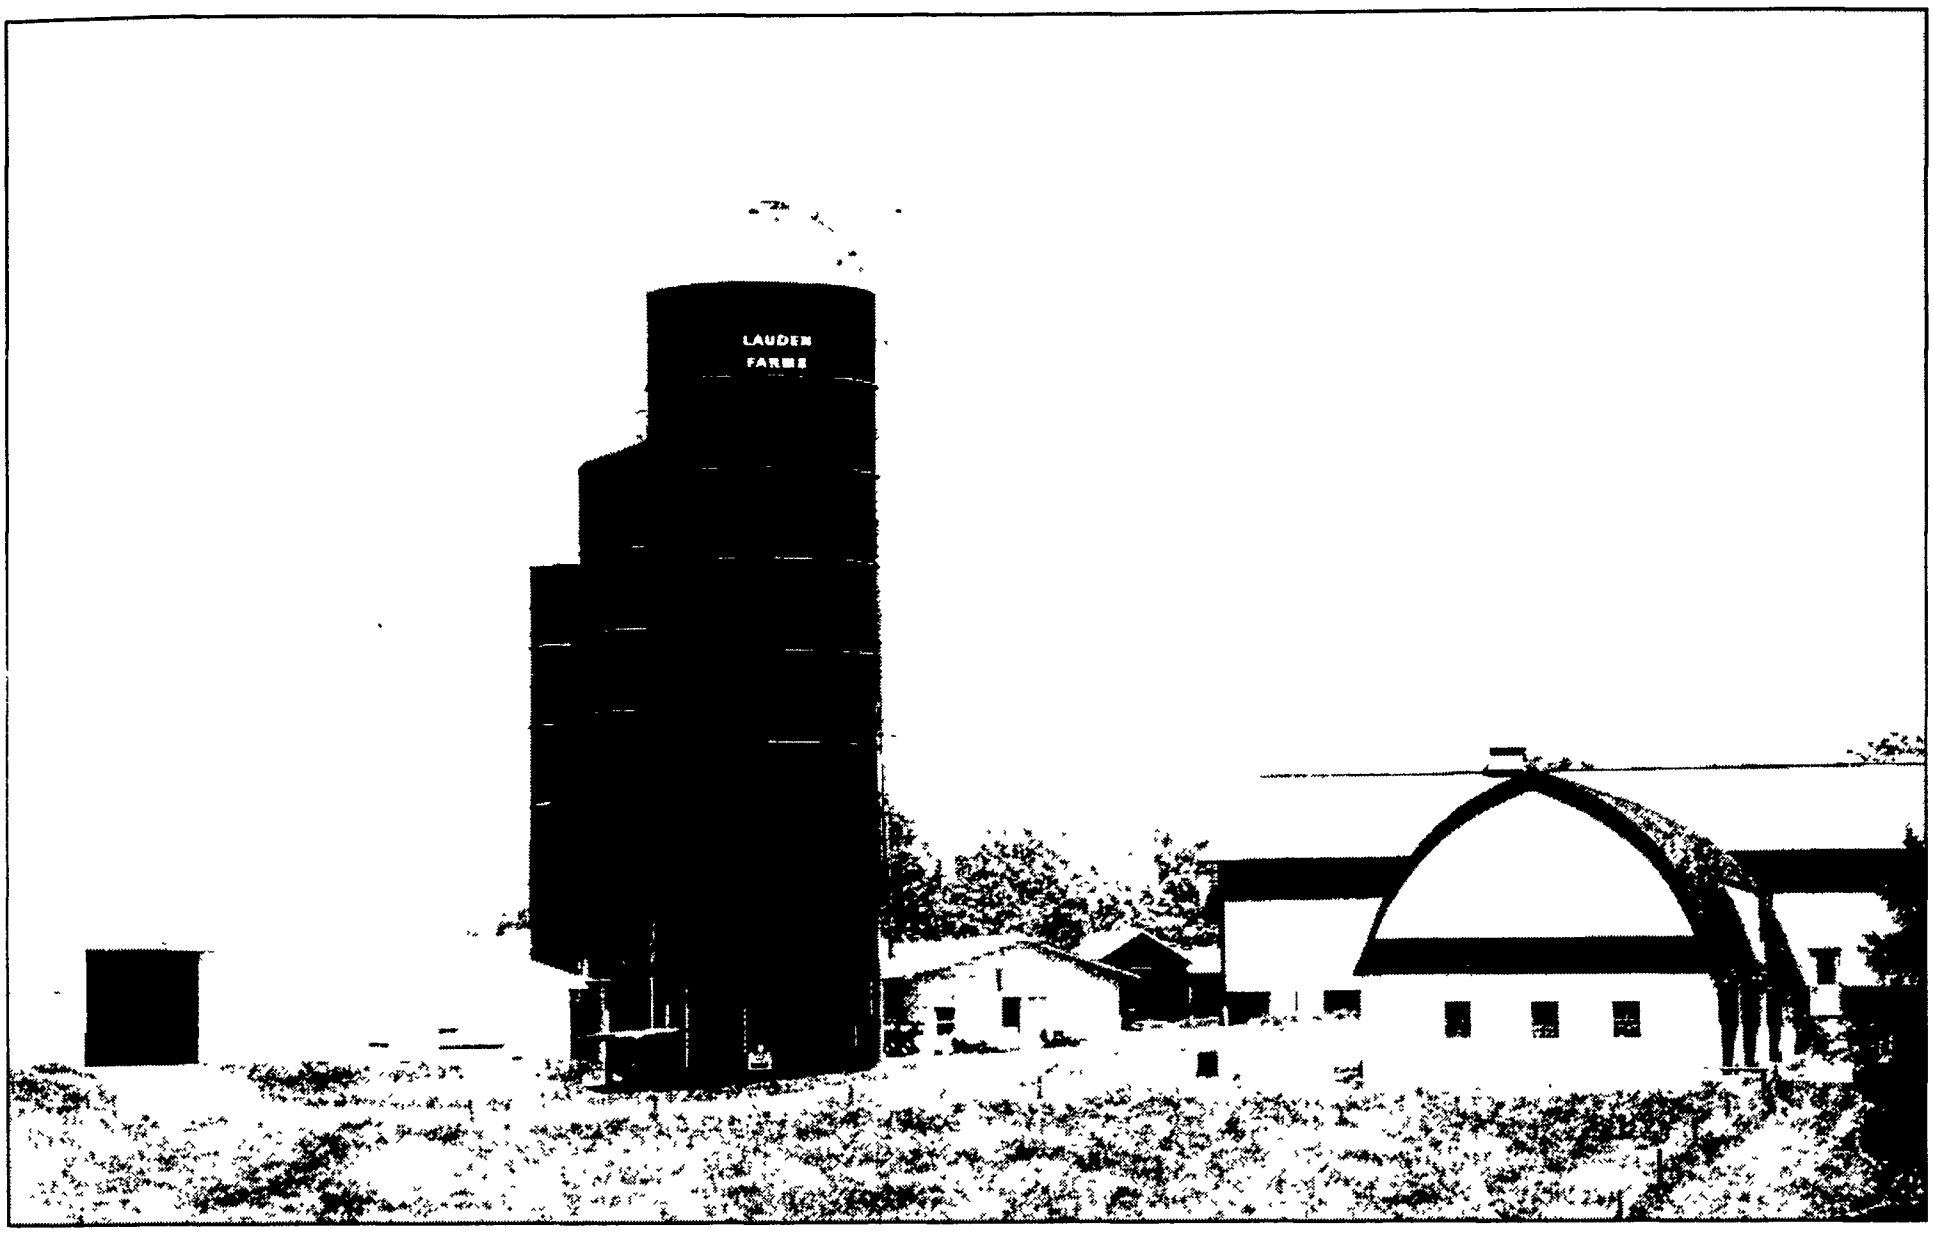
Lauden Farms

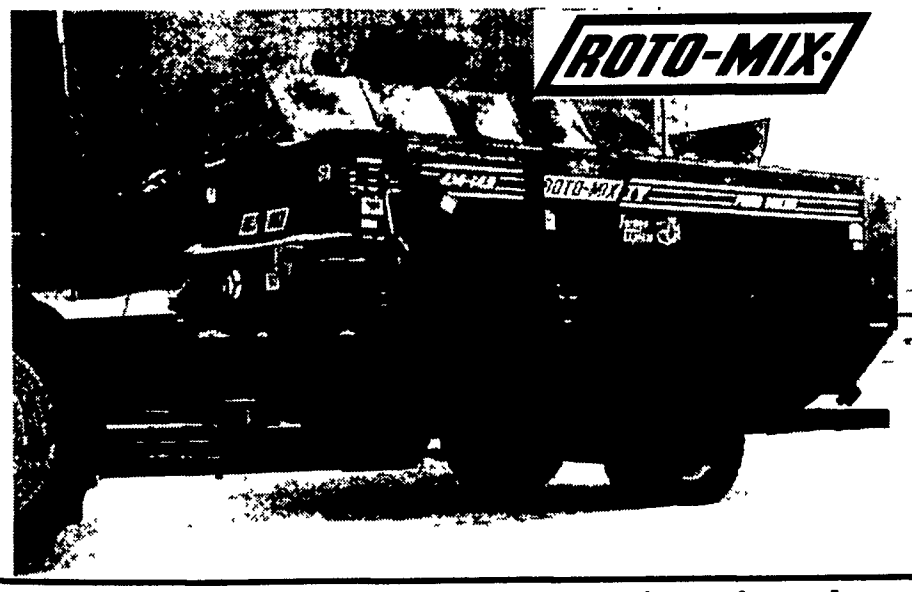
Halifax, Dauphin County



Brothers Karl and Murray Laudenslager took over management of this Century Farm in 1980. Today they milk about 470 Holsteins and farm about 2,500 acres of corn, soybeans, alfalfa, barley, and rye.

Karl and Murray are the fifth generation on the farm, which has been passed on through their mother's family, the Etzweilers. Karl and his wife Nancy, and Murray and wife Rhonda each have two children.

"I purchased the Roto-Mix mixer because I wanted to be able to feed long hay as part of my TMR mix" - Roy Brubaker, Hershey, PA



The Brubakers feed on average 500 lbs. of baled Timothy hay per feeding and they do like the way the Roto-Mix handles it. Since the Brubakers purchased their Roto-Mix mixer several of their neighbors have also bought Roto-Mix mixers from Lapps.

- Roy Brubaker and his family are milking 220 Holsteins.
- Herd average 24,000 lbs.
- Two feeding groups, 2 times per day feeding, 2 times per day milking.
- Bought a RotoMix 414 mixer from Lapps to replace a Rissler trailer mixer.

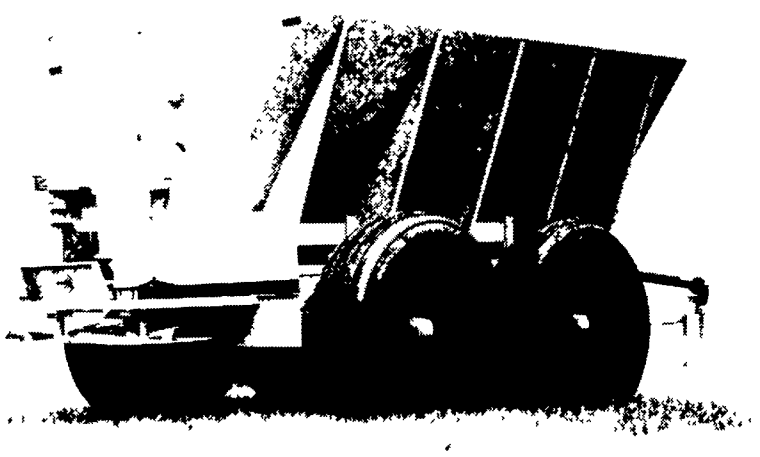
Carper Acres

McClure, Snyder County

Glenn Carper has been on this farm since the age of 5. He took over the dairy operation when his father retired from it in 1981.

Glenn and his wife Barb milk about 50 Holsteins here. In addition to the 154-acre home place, the Carpers rent another 80 acres, growing corn, alfalfa, and soybeans. Glenn gives Barb credit for "keeping things tidy" on the farm.



What do you want to spread?

The Stoltzfus Bulk Material Spreader spreads high rates of more kinds of material than any other spreader of its kind

From poultry litter to compost, even wet lime - when it comes to versatile ag spreaders, nothing else compares to a Stoltzfus BMS.

A reliable and versatile spreader pays for itself faster than almost any other piece of equipment. Now Stoltzfus makes it pay even faster, because the BMS lets you spread just about anything you can imagine:

- Stockpiled lime
- Fertilizer
- Gypsum
- Poultry litter
- Clean shavings
- Compost
- Mulch
- Water treatment sludge
- Waste sludge

You can get a Stoltzfus BMS up to 20' long that will handle a 15 ton load. Remember, Stoltzfus Spreaders are the ones "built like a tank." We think it's the best spreader investment you can make.

Call today for the dealer nearest you. Or visit our web site for more details.

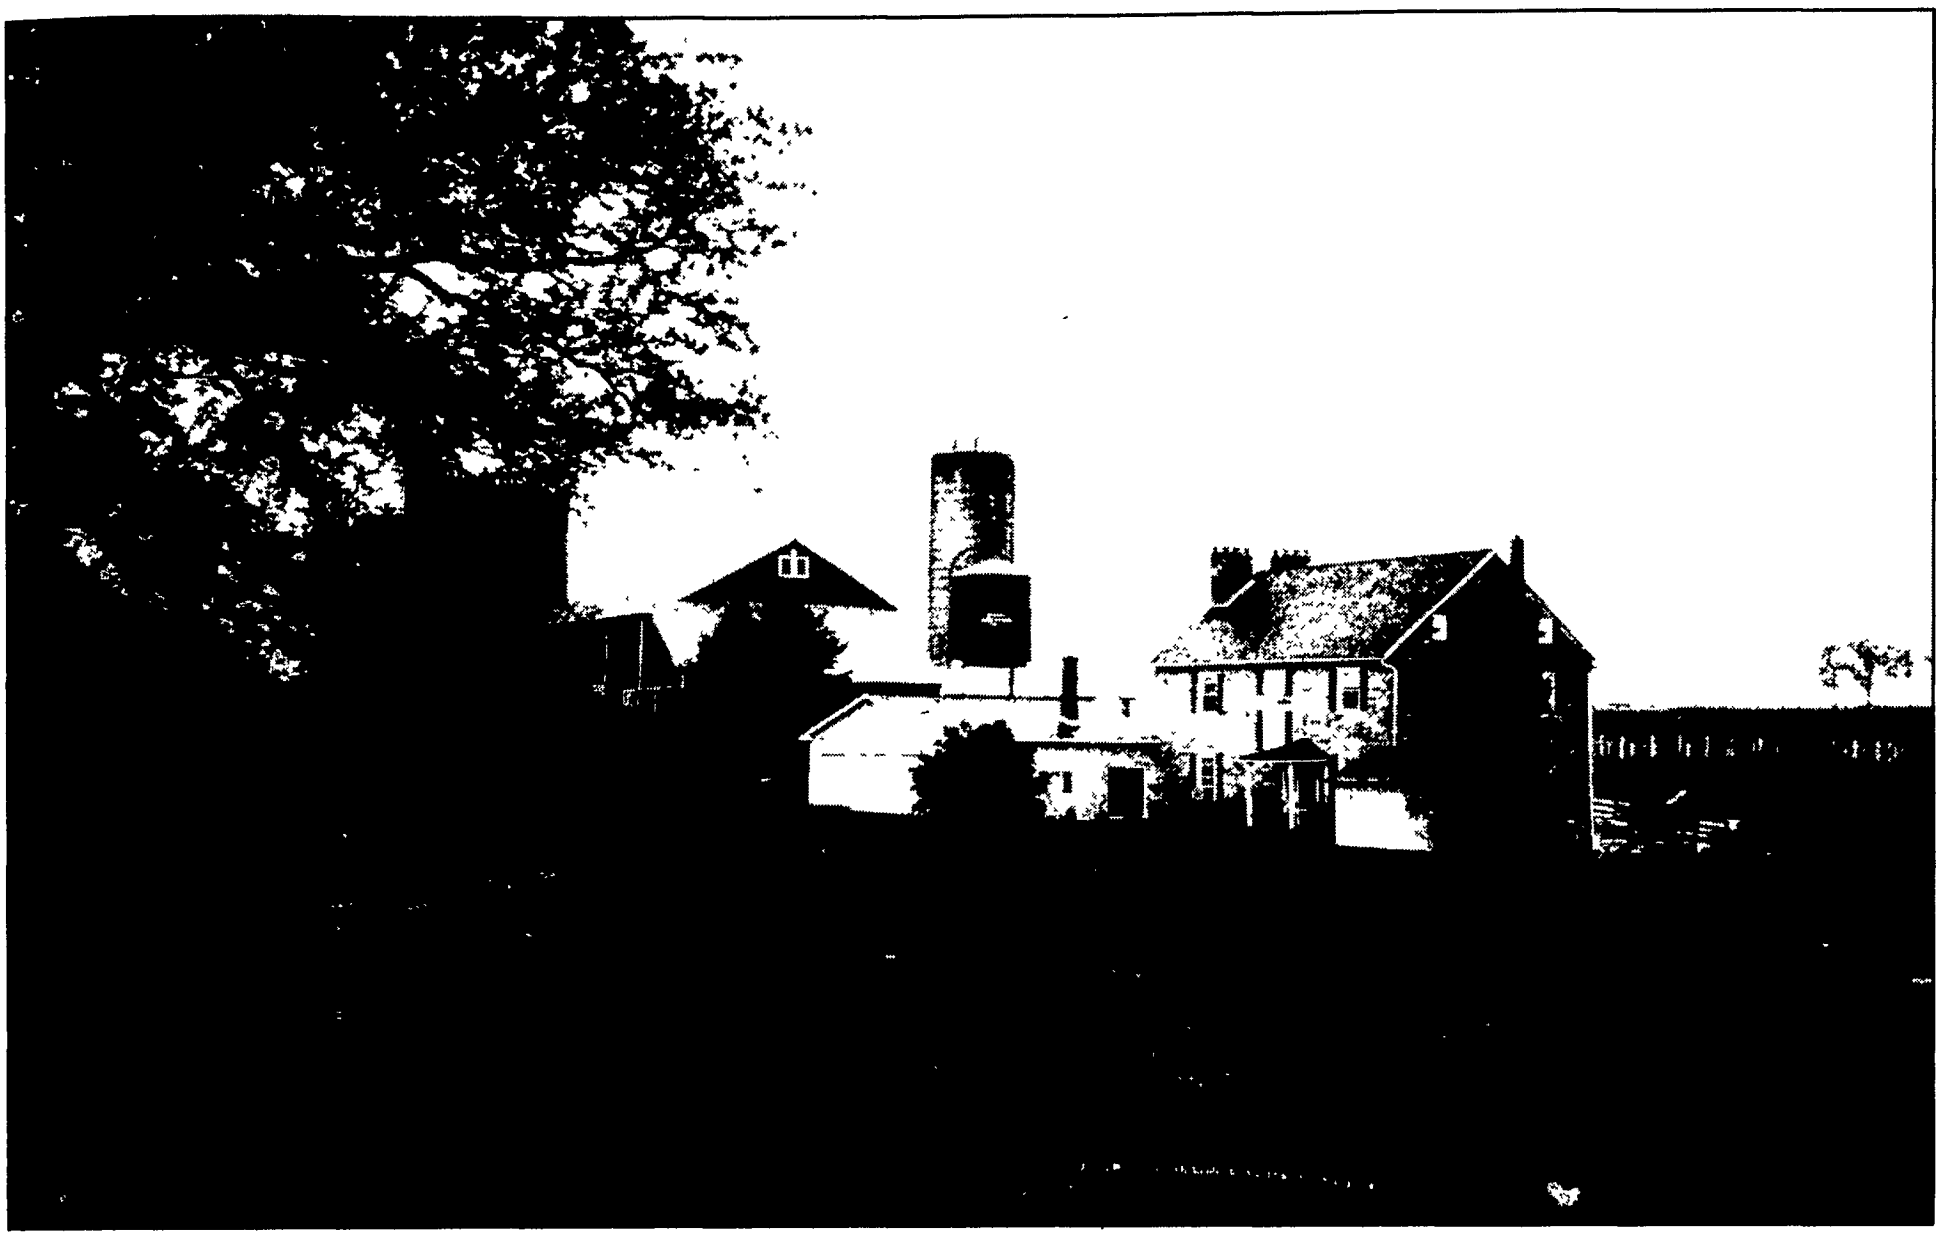
Leon and Marty Peachey

Belleville, Mifflin County

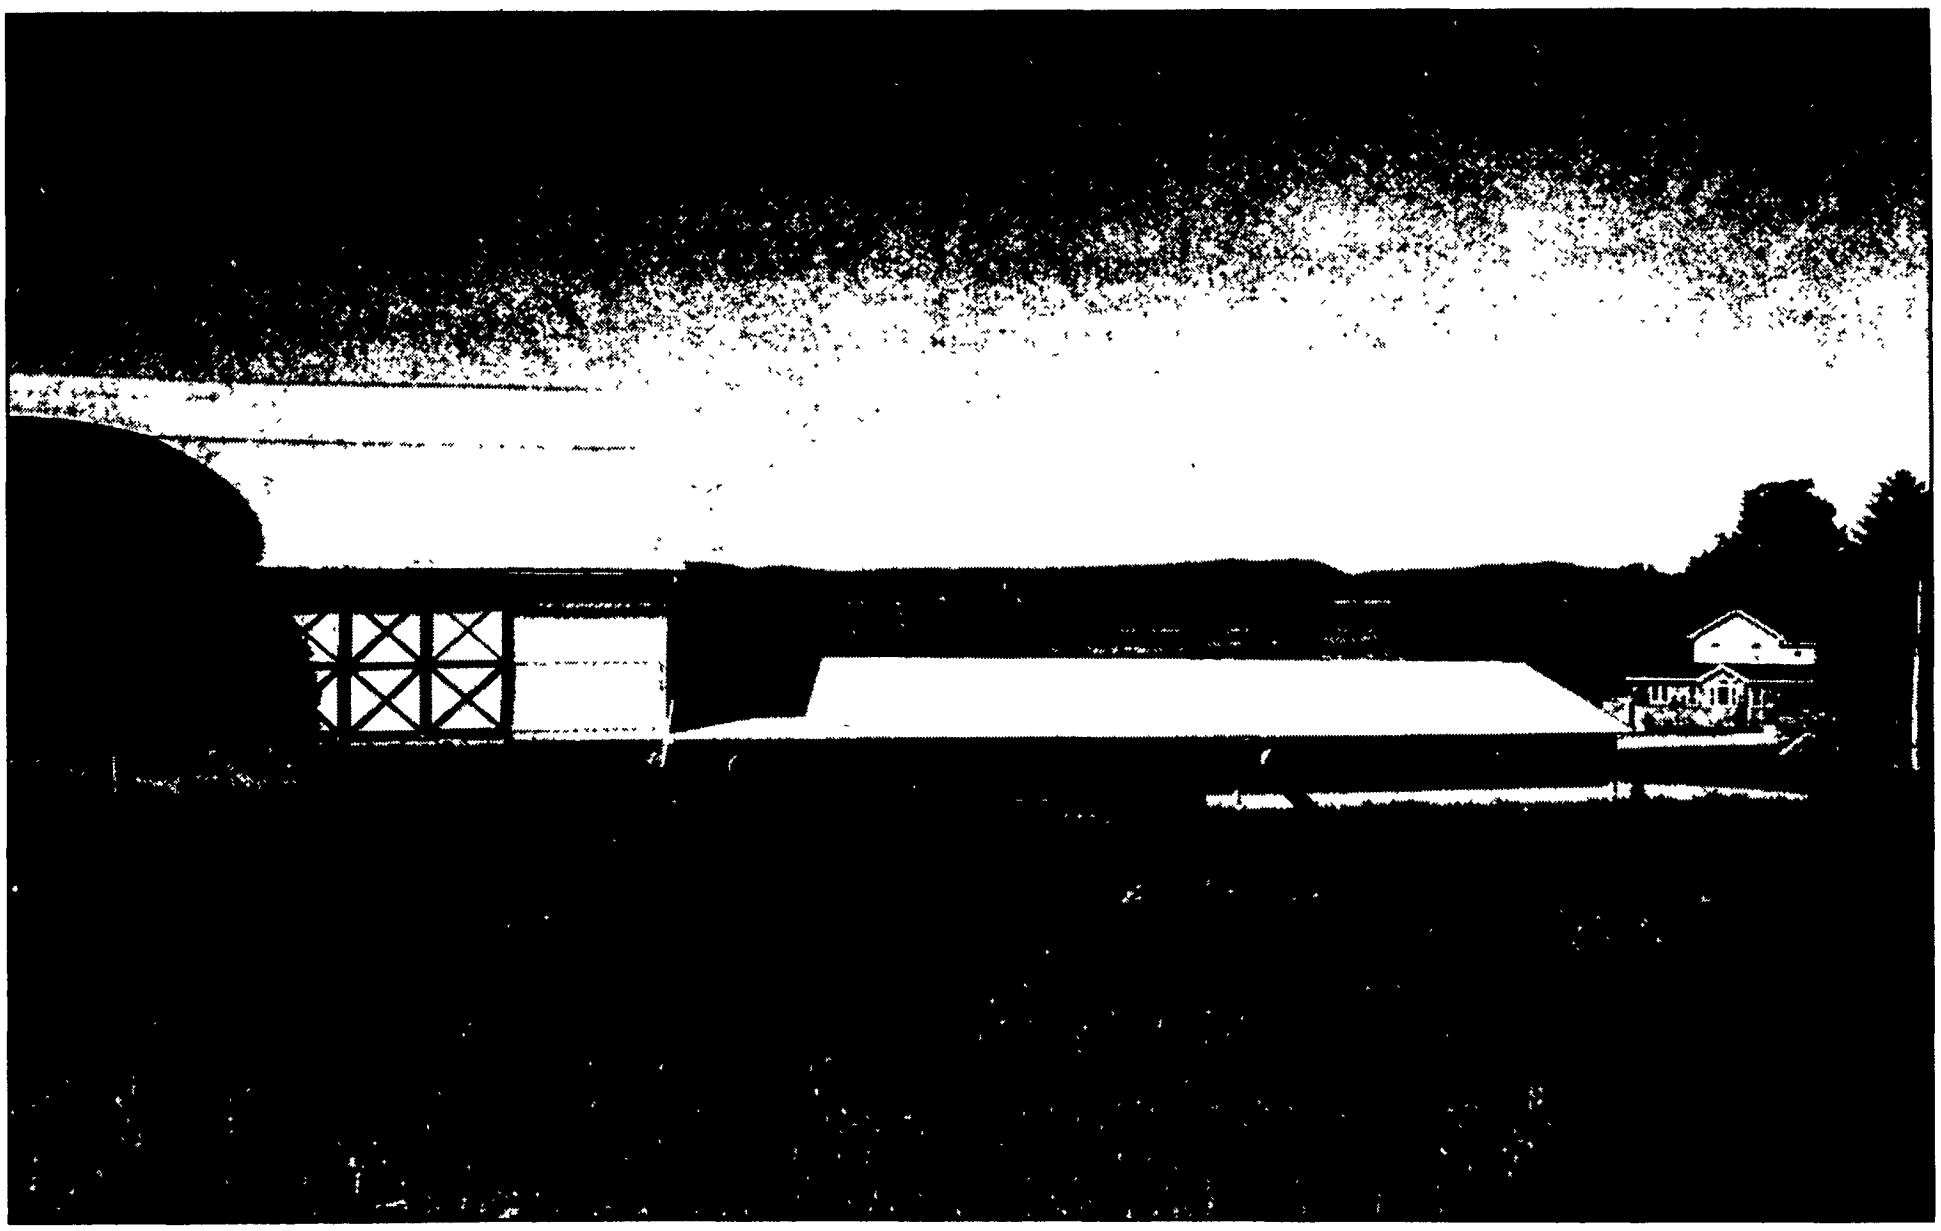


Leon Peachey and his wife Marty have operated this dairy in the Big Valley for about two years. They rent the 100-acre farm and own the rest of the assets here, including about 65 Holsteins in the milking string.

The Peacheys have two children: Colin, 5, and Alexis, 3.

Running Springs Farm

Trout Run, Lycoming County



Steve and Susan Neff manage this 280-acre dairy situated on a mountain plateau near Steam Valley. They milk about 80 Holsteins in a tie-stall barn and grow corn and alfalfa to feed them.

Steve's parents, Earl and Marian Neff, first purchased the farm 15 years ago.

Michael Bradley

Athens, Bradford County

Michael Bradley owns this 200-plus acre farm, located at the top of a valley in a mountainous area of northern Bradford County. He manages the dairy in partnership with his son Mark. They milk about 45 Holsteins in a tie-stall setup.

Michael started on this farm about 24 years ago.

LAND O LAKES™

Where simple goodness begins.™

Land O'Lakes knows that quality dairy products come from milk produced on "quality" dairy farms. That's why we congratulate these Land O'Lakes member-owners on earning the prestigious "Dairy of Distinction" award in 2002.

Riverside F Farm

Waymart, Wayne County

Charles and Amy Theobald milk 50 Holsteins and 30 Jerseys on this 200-acre farm and rent an additional 300 acres of farmland.

Amy's parents Clarence and Lois Fitze started on this farm in the 1940s. The Fitze family has farmed in the area for several generations. In fact, Amy's grandmother Anna Fitze, 86, still tends the dry cows.

The Theobalds have three children: Stacey, 11; Becky, 9; and Andrew, 5.

Donnon's Dairy

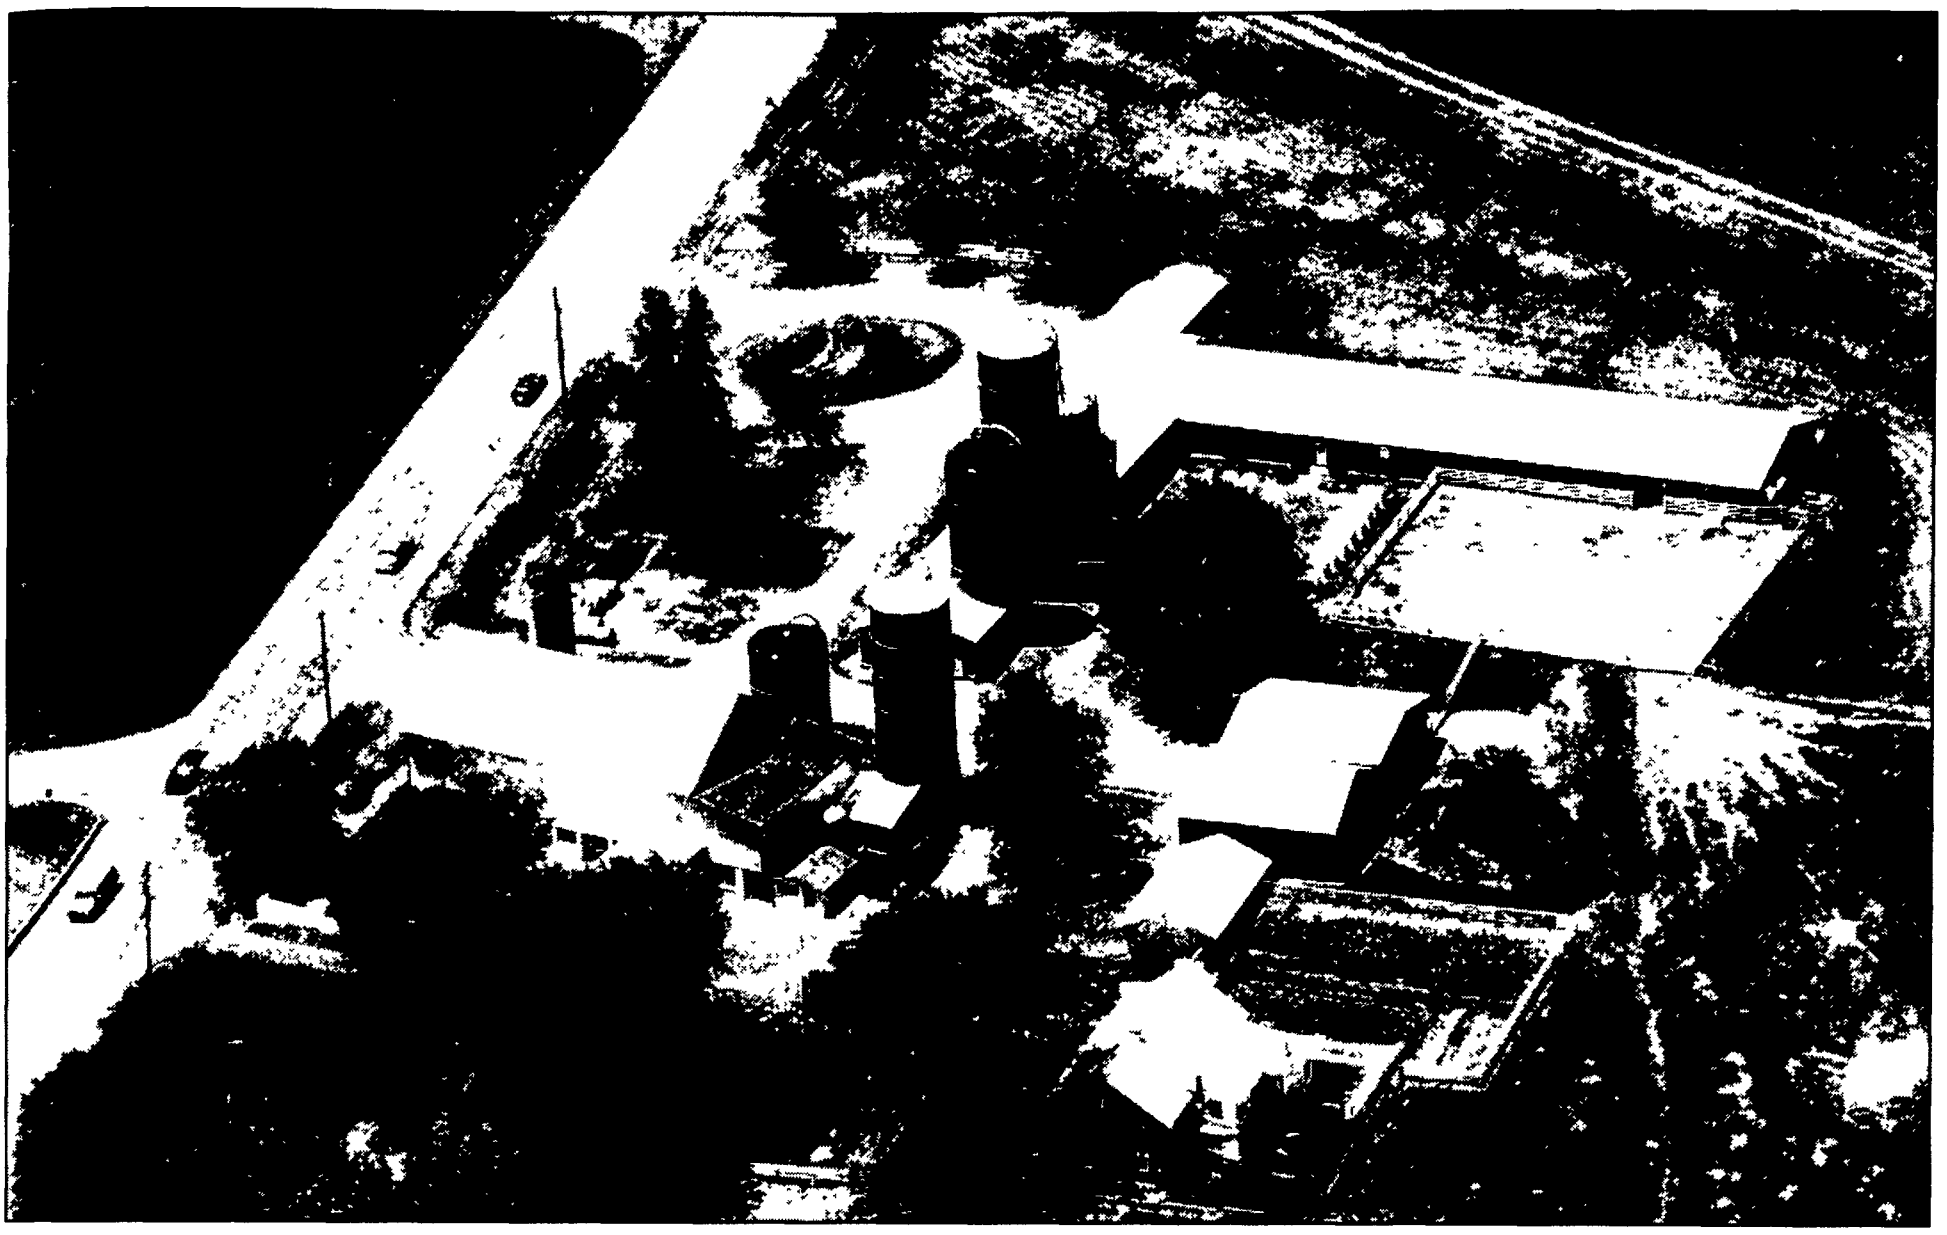
Tamaqua, Schuylkill County

George and Debby Donnon milk 150 Holsteins and 30 Linebacks in a double-6 herringbone parlor on their 100-acre farm. They rent an additional 600 acres, growing alfalfa, corn, soybeans, and sorghum for feed.

The Donnons moved here two years ago after getting their start in dairy farming in Rising Sun, Md. They have three children: Lindsey, 11; April, 7; and Taylar, 3. Relatives Dennis Treer and Nathan Reiter work full time on the farm.

Zimhaven Farm

East Earl, Lancaster County



Dale Zimmerman grew up here and purchased the cows from his parents D. Martin and Leila Zimmerman in the early 1990s. The farm has been in the family for many generations and was previously named a Dairy of Distinction under the ownership of Dale's parents.

Dale and his wife Barb milk 80 Holsteins and grow corn, alfalfa, and rye for feed. They have two children: Jordan, 4, and Jeremy, 1.

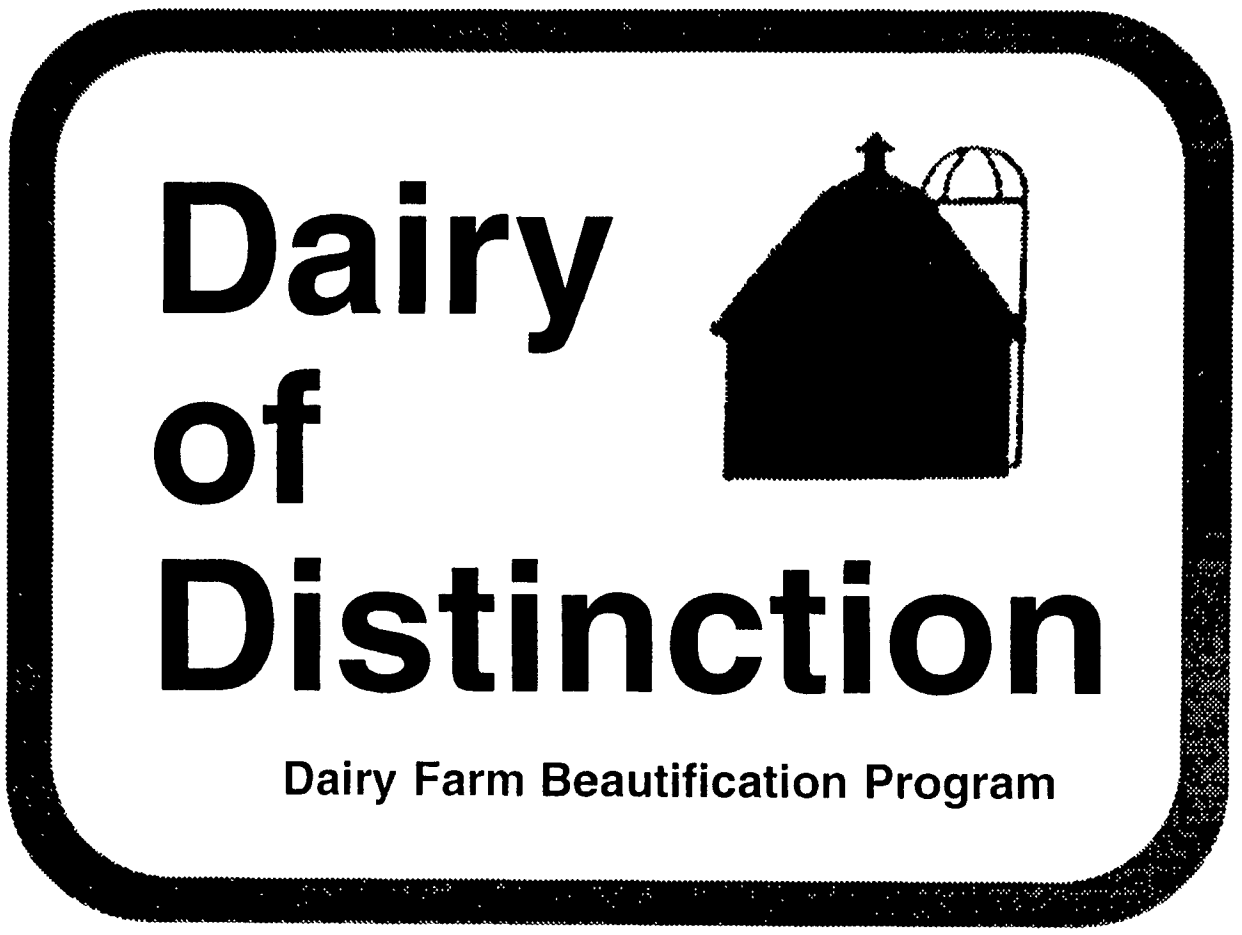
Information On The Dairy Of Distinction Program



MONTPELIER, Vt. — The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program (NEDFBP) was established in 1983 to recognize the hard work and dedication of dairy owner/operators who maintain attractive, well-kept farmsteads.

Those deserving of distinction receive the coveted "Dairy of Distinction" sign to be placed on the roadside of their farmstead.

The award is based on criteria including: clean and attractively finished buildings, neat landscaping, ditches, roads and lanes, and well maintained fences. The appearance of all aspects of the farm operation are taken into consideration.

All, active, working, dairy farms in Vermont are eligible to apply for the award of Dairy of Distinction. Farmers must fill out an application by April 15, to be entered into the judging, which takes place in May each year. Winning farms are re-judged each year to ensure they maintain the excellent standards required for the award.

The NEDFBP operates in Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. The Vermont Division is managed by the Vermont Department of Agriculture.

Minutes Of Pa. Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program was April 23, 2002 at the South Ridge Motor Inn in State College.

The meeting was preceded by lunch. The following individuals were present: Russell Rooks, Janet Harding, David and Janet Hileman, Brett Brumbaugh, Jim Barnett, Tom Smith, David Lefever, Galen Kopp, Don and Donna Gearhart, Barbara and Allen Roszel and Mike O'Connor.

The meeting was called to order by President Kopp, minutes of the 2001 annual meeting were reviewed by Mike O'Connor and approved. Treasurer Donna Gearhart reported that the major expenses for the year were 50 new signs ($574.90), distributions to districts ($1,040.00) and refreshments for awards ceremony at Ag Progress Days ($27.21).

Income of $1,000 from ADA&DC (Mideast) was received. Retired coordinator of district #15 returned $99. The current balance is $4,391.94. Funds will be distributed to districts based upon the number of applications received this year. Twenty-five new signs were ordered but have not arrived. The report was approved.

District Reports: Five districts (#12, 14, 18, 19 and 20) were represented and brief reports were presented. Coordinators of districts 14 and 20 described their awards recognition dinner and program.

Old Business: Mike O'Connor reviewed the process of validating the quality of milk produced by dairies who apply for the award. District coordinators will be promptly notified if any applicants fail to meet milk quality standards. Those applications will not be considered. A letter will be sent to the applicant notifying them of the situation.

New Business: Election of Officers — The motion was made and approved that the current officers be reelected. They are Galen Kopp — president; Brett Brumbaugh — vice president; Donna Gearhart — treasurer; and Mike O'Connor — secretary.

Russell Rooks reported on the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification program in Clarks Summit on April 5, 2002.

Ag Progress Days recognition ceremony: Dairy of Distinction recognition ceremony will be Aug. 20 at 2:15 in the Special Events Bldg. The following suggestions were made to improve the event. As the name of each dairy is announced a person from the farm will come forward to receive the photo of the farm. This will improve the recognition for each farm. Secondly, instead of the dairy princesses walking among the tables distributing snacks, plates of food will be strategically located among the dairy families. Jan Harding will arrange to have the dairy princesses at the event. Mike O'Connor will purchase the snacks. The committee asked Mike to invite Dr. Terry Etherton to be the guest speaker.

Photographs for Lancaster Farming: David Lefever distributed photo materials and related information; he suggested that if digital cameras are available to the district coordinators they should consider submitting the photos electronically.

New Business: Mike O'Connor informed the group that Mr. Thomas Oyler, project review specialist of the Bureau of Farmland Preservation, commonwealth of Pennsylvania, asked if he could use the Dairy of Distinction list in determining if any such dairies are within a proposed construction project. There is no legal implication. The information will be used for informational purposes only.

Lancaster Farming: Farmers' 'Desk' Resource To Business Opportunities

Lancaster Farming is the leading Northeast and Mid-Atlantic farm newspaper. Every Saturday, the newspaper delivers news, market and commodity reports, and agribusiness information to about 50,000 farmers in Pennsylvania and surrounding states.

The premier site for news about 4-H, FFA, and fair events, Lancaster Farming reaches many ag industries, including dairy, beef, swine, sheep, goat, horse, and specialty animal buyers and sellers.

The farm newspaper includes four basic sections each week. Section A is devoted to breaking news, dairy and beef news, commodity market reports, and upcoming events. Section B, the family section, includes mailbox markets, a special antiques center, recipes, and food and nutritional information for the entire family.

Sections C and D, the agribusiness center of the paper, include business news, new product information and updates, herd reports, classified news, and other information pertinent to farmers.

Special sections make up various issues of the paper. They include Corn Talk, the newsletter of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association; Foraging Around, the newsletter of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grasslands Council; Grower & Marketer, news and information valuable to the farm market manager, produce and fruit grower, and horticulturist; and Dairy Plus, a quarterly news booklet for the expanding dairy industry.

Lancaster Farming serves as a "one-stop site" for regional farm news throughout the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic.

Additionally, special books appear at different times of the year. Exclusive to Lancaster Farming, the guides include animal health and housing information and a farmer-to-business ag directory.

A yearly subscription is $36. Call for subscription rates or to advertise at (717) 626-1164 or (717) 394-3047. Lancaster Farming has a Website, www.lancasterfarming.com, with a wide array of online services. Our e-mail is farming@lancasterfarming.com.
